PLANS ARE BEGUN FOR PENN STATE GYMNASIUM

The plans call for a permanent building of about 100,000 square feet, with temporary accommodations for two thousand more. The space under the stands will be utilized by dressing rooms, cloak rooms, facilities for storage of supplies and apparatus, a lecture room fitted with a blackboard and an emergency dispensary. Officers of the department of Physical Education and the Athletic Association will also be installed on the main floor on each side of the entrance.

The basement of the gym will house locker rooms, Turkish baths, separate dressing rooms for the varsity and the visiting teams, two tubbing rooms and the swimming pool. According to the specifications the tank will be of galvanized iron about sixty by seventy feet in size and equipped with a circulating system which will purify the water every twenty-four hours. The tank room will have a seating capacity of approximately one thousand and will be plentifully supplied with showers.

On the second floor of the building will be located the practice rooms to be used by the boxing and wrestling squads, hand ball and squash courts, fencing room and the offices connected with the various sports. These rooms will be arranged about the main playing floor, which is destined to have a clear ceiling space extending to the roof. Lighting will be supplemented by sky-lights.

It is expected that the rough plans will be ready to submit to the architects late in June and invitations for bids will probably be sent out next fall. If ground is broken for the project next March according to schedule it is hoped that Penn State's recreation building will be ready for use in the fall of 1926.

CIRCUS COMING

The Walter L. Main Circus now making its forty-third annual tour will present its wonderful exhibition in Bellefonte on Monday, May 19th. The Main Circus is featuring Andrew Downie's Tamed Wild Animals performing in a mammoth steel arena and a high standard of excellence is maintained during the entire performance. Thousands of people, ponies, pens and elephants will act to their best ability. This little the world's smallest horse weighing only 71 lbs. will also be with them.

TENNIS TEAM DEPARTS ON WESTERN INVASION

ton '26. The men have not yet been told and will not be until just before the Chicago meet.

The doubles teams will be made up of Peck and Gauthier, who won their match with Bucknell last Saturday. Law and Adams, and Hellmich and Edgerton, who have not yet been seen in action together.

The Blue and White squad has been working as much as possible during the past week to make up the practice missed during the rainy weather. McVough who was kept from last Saturday's meet on account of an inspection trip, is back at work, and Peck who was hobbled last week by a bad ankle is fully recovered and has shown his old form on the courts this week. Gauthier who won a clean-cut victory over his Bucknell opponent is showing up well in practice and should be one of the mainstays of the Nittany racketeers in the West.

Little is known of the Lions' opponents on the trip, except that the University of Michigan is considered the strongest team. Michigan has defeated Illinois and has defeated Butler, where as the University of Chicago has been beaten by Butler. Last year the Blue and White team was defeated by Michigan here, although the Lion netmen were able to score a hard-earned victory over the Michigan Angles. This year's trip by Coach Hays' men is one of the longest trips ever made by a Penn State team, to and to include to reach the visits made here last year by the University of Michigan and Michigan Angles.

The Nittany organization will return as soon as possible after the match with Michigan Angles and expects to arrive in State College sometime Wednesday.

ALUMNI MAKE PLANS FOR ANNUAL REUNION

tee in charge has carefully laid out a plan for the arrangement of the various attractions and features that is very creditable.

A street, seventy-five feet long, will extend across the field and on either side will be placed the attractions. Special attention will be given to the lighting, decoration, noise and music essential to a real carnival atmosphere.

The equipment for the affair is being constructed by a small committee of local alumni and faculty members, assisted by some of the engineering students. A much larger number of people will be required to operate the carnival successfully and the committee is sending out a special appeal to the student body, local alumni, and faculty members who would like to "join the chorus" for a few hours. Those who are willing to give their assistance are urged to communicate with Dr. B. Staley, in the Electric Engineering Department, chairman of the carnival committee.

PENN STATE IS SCENE OF INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE will address the delegates on "The Municipal Movement in Italy," a subject of grave concern to all Europe. Judge W. D. B. Ains, chairman of the public service commission and former congressman will speak on "The Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania." "Qualifications for various lines of service in the State Highway Department" will be discussed by W. H. Connel, engineering executive of the Pennsylvania State Highway Department.

The delegates and members of the faculty will dine on Friday evening in McAllister Hall. A short program of entertainment has been prepared.

The guests are invited to remain over Saturday to see the May Day performance to be given by the women of the college to attend the various athletic events, and to look over the various schools of the college.
