

GRIDDERS RETURN SEPTEMBER FIRST

Month of Work-outs To Precede Opening Game—"Bez" Pleased With Spring Results

ROOKIES SHOW UP WELL IN EARLY SCRIMMAGES

Attention will mean simply a period to be utilized for conditioning purposes to more than fifty aspirants for next year's grid team who plan to report to Coach Bezek for practice the first week in September. The spring training period came to an end recently and at present the majority of candidates are preparing for the final examinations in an effort to keep within Dean Stutz's strict athletic eligibility rules.

The results obtained during the spring period have been highly satisfactory to Coach Bezek as they have given him an opportunity to observe physically-looking candidates in actual play. This year marked the first in Penn State's history that daily scrimmages were held during the pre-season work-outs.

Two Weeks Ahead

In an interview with a COLLEGIAN reporter, Coach Bezek remarked about the spring period, "I'm exactly two weeks ahead of the game." When asked to explain himself, "Bez" replied, "Well, I've been able to observe many lookers and scullings and teach them fundamentals this spring that ordinarily would have taken me two weeks in the fall."

In addition to Captain Gray, Artell, Michael, Prevost, Johnson and Light of this year's varsity, "Bez" will have a host of sophomores to work with next year. "Bill" House, Faulkner, Buckley, Herbig and several other substitutes from last fall are expected to put in strong bids for a varsity berth on the 1924 eleven.

Bookies Show Up Well

The Dekey brothers, Dorman, Gier, Green, McPhie, Hines, Lukens, Gieske, Plank and Pisin all displayed exceptional ability during the spring practice but it is a question in the minds of the coaches whether or not they will be able to "come through" with the same calibre of work against real opposition. No tackle on the spring squad has given evidence of his fitness for a varsity berth at the present time but it is expected that every candidate will show additional ability in the fall.

Penn State's gridiron team faces one of the strictest schedules in the history of the college next year, meeting such teams as Pitt, Carnegie Tech, Syracuse, Georgia Tech and Penn. As the season opens on September twenty-seventh with Lebanon Valley, Coach Bezek will be able to spend practically a month in developing his first-string eleven.

LUNCHEON TO FEATURE JUNE ALUMNI CARNIVAL

Arrangements for Affair Are in Hands of Local Alumnae—To Use Cafeteria Style

One of the outstanding features of the Alumni Carnival, which will be held this year on Saturday, June seventh, from nine o'clock in the morning until midnight, will be the luncheon at the Big Tent on the midway west of the Army.

The alumni meal will be served in the same manner as the one last year, when the cafeteria style was effectively used. By this plan, all those who wished could purchase whatever food they desired.

Mrs. P. H. Dale '05 and her committee of alumnae who are in charge of the refreshments have made special arrangements with the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church to provide the meal. Mrs. H. H. Holmes is chairman of the Ladies' Auxiliary, committee handling this work. It is expected that the number of returning graduates will exceed the thousand mark, and preparations are being made on that presumption.

It is hoped that all alumni, including the members of the graduating class, will attend this luncheon, since it will give the new and old members an excellent chance to get acquainted.

INTER-CLASS GOLFERS PLAY OPENING GAMES

In the opening matches of the inter-class golf tournament the sophomores beat the freshmen by the score of 6 to 0 and the juniors nosed out the seniors on the Penn State links this week. J. L. Hamill '23 and S. T. Marshall '25 defeated H. L. Pritchman '27 and W. W. Jacobs '27, while H. F. Taylor '26 and J. C. Meeds '26 took their matches from W. H. Keller '27 and S. W. Greer '27. In the senior-junior match F. D. Dale '25 with T. H. Mensch '25 beat W. D. Mitchener '24 and F. D. Young '24, while H. S. Morris '25 and R. Sinecock '25 downed J. F. Wright '24 and L. W. Harper '24.

The freshman golfers were defeated in a practice game with the Bellefonte linksmen on the Nittany Country Club course last Saturday afternoon by a 13 to 11 score. This was the first match for the yearling team.

ENGINEERING STUDENTS TO STAGE PICNIC AND ENTERTAINMENT TODAY

Plans have been completed by the Engineering Society for a picnic to be held this afternoon and evening in the grove east of the golf course. The afternoon's program, consisting of stunts and games, will begin at four-thirty o'clock and at six o'clock a lunch will be served.

During the evening the grove will be lighted and a number of comic acts will be presented on a stage set up in a clearing. More than eight acts have been arranged and prizes will be awarded for each of these according to their merit. The first prize will be thirty dollars and there will be other prizes of twenty, ten and a number of five dollars each.

In the event of rain the afternoon part of the program will be postponed and the program will be started with the lunch to be served in the Army at six o'clock. The society expects an attendance of eight hundred made up of members and their guests, and it has appropriated four hundred dollars for the event.

CLASS BOOTERS STAGE MATCHES

Juniors Lose to Sophomores and Seniors in Annual Interclass Soccer Games

YEARLINGS AND SENIORS CLASH THIS AFTERNOON

Two games of class soccer were played off last week, the first resulting in a 1-0 victory over the juniors by the sophomores on Thursday and the second bringing a 3-0 win over the ill-fated third-year men to the senior booters on Friday. The game between the seniors and the sophomores, scheduled for last Tuesday was forfeited by the fourth-year men. The final game of the league will be played this afternoon between the senior and the freshman organizations while the soph-fresh set took place yesterday, the seniors coming in too late for this edition.

The game last Thursday between the juniors and sophomores was hard-fought and fast throughout and at the end of the first half the score stood at 0-0. The guarding was close during the entire game and it was difficult to penetrate the defense of either backfield. It was well into the second period when R. W. Tyson broke through the freshman line and registered the lone tally which spelled victory for the second-year team.

Seniors Win

Opening the Friday game with a rush, Headley of the senior booters scored a goal in the first few minutes of play, but here the junior team tightened up and the scoring was ended for the half. The fourth-year men came back strong in the second period, however, and Tille and Kelly each registered a goal before the final whistle blew. Several men on the senior team showed varsity form and throughout the game the edge was clearly with the upperclassmen.

Taking their game by force from the seniors on Tuesday, the sophomore booters head the league, having won all three of their encounters. The juniors have lost two and won one while both the seniors and the freshmen have each lost one and won one.

AG STUDENTS RETURN FROM INSPECTION TRIP

Class in Marketing of Farm Products Visits Philadelphia Business Houses

Members of the class in Marketing of Farm Products, under the direction of Professor J. J. McCord, returned Monday morning from an extensive inspection tour of prominent Philadelphia business houses. This trip extended from May sixteenth until May eighteenth.

The inspection started on Thursday, when the waterfront of Philadelphia was visited. One of the points of particular interest to the students was the Girard Point main elevator, with a capacity of more than two million bushels of grain. The same day the men took the ferry to Camden, New Jersey, and there visited the plant of the Campbell Soup Company.

The next morning an early visit was made to the West Philadelphia market yards, where the selling of great amounts of fruit was witnessed. The men later traveled to the New Jersey commission section and to the Auction Market located on one of the river piers. Among other places visited that day were the Bourne Building, where grain-selling methods were noted, and the Wilego-Martin Packing plant. The tour wound up with a trip to the Interstate Milk Producers' Council, where the officers explained in detail the workings of their organization.

Penn State Lacrosse Squad, 1924

Winning one game out of six starts the Penn State lacrosse team lid away its sticks and gloves for the remainder of the college year, following the victory over Cornell last Saturday. Fred Beck and injury followed the team at every turn and considering that this was the twelve first year in the intercollegiate lacrosse league the season was not as disastrous as results might indicate.

Although having the strongest team in the league scheduled, the prospects for the Nittany stickmen looked fairly bright at the beginning of spring practice. Despite the fact that Coach Jardine had to draw on green material for many of his players, Harry Wilson football lumina and veteran of last year's lacrosse team, W. L. Anderson, Captain "Hip" Frank, and "Ivy" Yost defense stars of the 1923 twelve were available at the beginning of the season.

Harry Wilson Lost

"Ivy's" fond hopes were first blasted when he received the report that Harry Wilson was confined to the hospital with a bad attack of influenza, rheumatism and would be unable to participate in any of the season's games. Harry was the strongest man on the offense of any of the candidates and his loss caused a gap in the offense that was noticed throughout the season.

In the first game of the season the team twelve took the field against the Mount Washington Club of Baltimore, one of the strongest amateur teams of the county. With the added loss of Yost, Singer and Mangin, who were away on inspection trips, Coach Jardine's men put up a hard fight but the greater experience of the Baltimore club finally overcame the efforts of the Blue and White warriors and the home team received its first defeat 7-0.

Syracuse Wins

With the return of the veterans from inspection trips the prospects looked brighter for the Lions in their second game of the season which was also their first league contest with Syracuse. However, before the game with the Orange Anderson star of the defense, had to leave college and the Penn State twelve played with a re-arranged team and were forced to succumb before the strong attack of Syracuse, 8-1.

After more than a week's practice Coach Jardine took his men to Baltimore for a mid-week game with the University of Maryland. Maryland was credited with a strong team having defeated the Naval Academy but the Nittany stickmen played a flashy game of offense and would in all probability have defeated the Baltimore college if the game had not been played on a muddy field and had all the backs not gone to their opponent, who finally were victorious 6-1. In the Navy game on the following Sunday, Coach Jardine's men were distinctly outplayed and went down by a 11-0 count.

Cornell Defeated

In last Saturday's game with Cornell the Penn State twelve were out to avenge their previous losses. The game was close and hard fought throughout, the score being tied three times. However, in the last few minutes of play, Hackett broke through the Blue and White defense and scored the fourth Penn State goal. The game was featured by quick passing, brilliant punning and first shooting, the Nittany
