WAR VETERANS PRESENT RADIO PROGRAM TONIGHT

 To World War veterans will be opened with a talk by F. O. Mader, commander of the Penn State Chapter number fourteen, Disabled American Veterans of the World War. The "Veterans Quartet" composed of Messrs. R. E. Minshall, G. M. Foulkrod, T. H. Waring and Frank Holmes will then render "Brave Hearts, Steady On."
 The next number will be a short talk by C. C. Wagner, adjutant of the State Culture Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, representing that organization on the program. This will be followed by the selection "Christ in Painters" (Ward-Saunders), sung by Mrs. Wilbur L. Letzwill.
 The American Legion representative for the radio program will be Captain Frank Metzger who will speak briefly for that organization on a topic suited to the occasion. "Comrades in Arms" will then be sung by R. E. Minshall, following which Bombmaster Thompson will bring the program to a close with "Taps."
 For those unable to attend the morning program on the campus this afternoon will offer an ideal method of keeping in touch with the day's celebration.
 The entire program has been arranged by the local veterans organizations who selected W. G. Dwyer and M. H. Knutson as a committee to work it up. They have experienced many difficulties in arranging the features and any success it attains will be largely to their credit. The program will last for at least an hour and is so scheduled as to offer a maximum of information and entertainment for the time allowed.
 Program Next Wednesday
 Announcement has been made that the closing of the college broadening section for the year. It was found impossible to secure musical features during the first week in June, examination week at the college making it necessary to close the section. However, the State College high school orchestra has volunteered to assist with a program next Wednesday and the official closing has been postponed until that time.

PENN STATE PROFESSOR RECEIVES AWARD FROM BOSTON HISTORY SOCIETY

Professor James P. Kelley M. A., D. Sc. associate professor of Botany at Penn State, has been awarded a prize by the Boston Society of Natural History for his paper recently submitted to the Society.
 By the provisions of the will of the late Doctor William Johnson Walker, two prizes are offered annually by the Boston Society for the best memoirs written in the English language on subjects proposed by the Society. In 1921 any subject in the field of Botany was acceptable.
 Doctor Kelley's subject, "The Inheriting of Doubtless in Phlox," was based on a considerable body of original and unpublished work done in the Botany Department here. The prize carries with it an honorarium of fifty dollars, and is a tribute to the fine research work which Doctor Kelley has been doing at Penn State.

LION TRACKMEN RUN AT INTERCOLLEGIATES

 entials allows more chances to score and the squad is well balanced for its size. The coach is depending on Heifrich, Conway, Beck and Moore for the majority of his points and under favorable conditions Torrence may place in the quarter, and Paine can score with the hammer. If he equals his best throw it is possible that a distance of 145 feet will be necessary to win the event.
 Penn is one of the leading contenders for the honors of the meet and Yale, with a finely balanced team for this type of contest, and Princeton are both confident of placing in front. Hill of Princeton with the shot and Carpenter of Harvard with the javelin are strong entries and it is generally conceded that all the field events will be won by western colleges, as has been the case in a number of previous I. C. A. A. A. meets.
 Opposition Is Great
 The standing of Penn State in intercollegiate circles at present is low and the coaches wish to better the Nittany showing of last year by a number of points. Moore is considered as the favorite in the high hurdles but Scattergood of Princeton is generally slated to finish first in the low event. In Clark of Johns-Hopkins, Hills of Penn and Downham of Syracuse, Conway will have strong opposition in the dashes and throughout the meet the Nittany runners will be battling with the country's best, the great point of difference which is little realized by the average student who has witnessed nothing but the dual type.
 The Penn State aggregation left on Wednesday night and arrived at Boston Thursday morning. The team is quartered in the Ocean House at Swampscott, just outside of Cambridge. Heats will be run off today and after the finals tomorrow the Nittany squad will begin the return trip to Penn State.

 two weeks ago but a different story is expected tomorrow afternoon when the players emerge from the eighteenth green. "Pipe" Gerhardt and "Ed" Lige should furnish fans with some excellent golf tomorrow as they have been shooting in great form all week. "Pipe" started in a 36 and a 38 for two nine-hole rounds a few days ago while Lige managed to come through with an 80 in regular fashion.

men displayed their best forms of the season and had an easy time defeating Pitt, 3-1. Cannon, Pitt star who defeated Captain Kindt in the recent Blue and White-Blue and Gold match, was the only winner for the Smoky City four.
 Pomsomes will be played tomorrow, singles matches being played off at the same time, with the Nassau scoring system in use. Tomorrow's match makes the first time that the Nittany golfers have appeared on the local links since last June and a huge crowd is expected to make the trip around the course with the players.
