Doctor Erwin W. Runkle's Review of Penn State History

A history of the Pennsylvania State College along with many interesting sidelights has been prepared by Dr. Erwin W. Runkle. This history will appear in six installments in the Summer Collegian.

The fundamental muscles rather than the small accessory ones—skeletal were not so necessary as at present. The first fruits consisted of President E. W. Pugh elected in 1879 but not inaugurated until February, 1881.

Mr. Waring writes of Old Main "A party of bricklayers and excavators commenced work on the 24th of June, 1877 and the first stones were laid on the foundation on the 18th of August of that year.

First Year—Arithmetic, Elementary Algebra, General Chemistry, Botany, Elementary Anatomy and Physiology, Geography and Elementary Astronomy.

Go to the College and there you will see how great the Republicans and negroes can be. Niggers on the scaffold and niggers on the wall.

Second Year—Advanced Algebra and Geometry, Agriculture, Chemistry, Vegetable Anatomy and Physiology, Zoology and Vertebrates, Geology, Paleontology, Physical Geography, Practical Agriculture and Horticulture, Logic and Rhetoric.

White men, they give him no wages. A few years more and then you will know. How sick to the Con.ress, the niggers will go.
