Doctor Erwin W. Runkle's Review of Penn State History

This is the fifth installment of the Review of Penn State History prepared by Dr. E. W. Runkle. The final installment will appear in our next issue.

Insulting in Belief

June 2, 1861
I received your letter yesterday evening. I am getting along pretty well in my studies. I have gone over Sulphur Sulphurated Hydrogen Sulphur and Phosphorus in Stockhardt's Chemistry.

I would be much obliged to you if you could tell me how long I will have to remain in this place, because if I knew how long I was to stay here, I could write home, so much, but if I don't know, I am afraid I will have to borrow which I dislike to do.

Early in June 1860 the boys want to celebrate the 15th of July and to have a vacation of two weeks. Dr. Pugh writes: "If we could positively be certain about them all coming back with punctuality at the end of the two weeks, there would be no very serious objection to a vacation but here it is difficult."

The boys get their vacation however and are very enthusiastic over it. It is early in June 22nd.

Inquiries are numerous for information and catalogues from East and West from Maine to California. Here is one from California, California county, Pennsylvania.

Cassopolis, June 29, 1862
Mr. Pugh, President, Pottsville High School.

"Please send me a catalogue for 1861. Enclosed I send you a dime for the trouble."

The 11th letter is one that touches a chord in all our college life, the College Bell. Dr. Pugh writes:

Farm School, April 29, 1862
"The bell is being hung in the great hall below its destined place. (That famous old round tower of Old Main which few of you have even been corrected.)"

"We have given it a pretty good trial and the universal opinion is that it is the best that could be asked. Shall I draw on Humes to pay for it? The Messrs. McNeely and Son did their would like a remittance soon is the

Early Descriptions

Early descriptions of the college are given in the review. I am glad to quote from two early descriptions of the college from 1814. A. B. Hefner, President from 1814 to 1819 and in other ten years later written by President Lawrence in The Pennsylvania School Journal of which he was also editor.

From an account of a visit to the college under date of June 2nd 1851 one may get the atmosphere of the period of beginning. The first year of the institution was not even in the field was evident. Hefner in under the first educational session.

"The principal manager of the institution Mr. Wainwright, and his assistant Mr. Gilliland had the kindness to show us over the most interesting parts of the farm which contained 100 acres all in one field.

...and establish reliable principles in agriculture by careful and systematic experiments which should be continued for ten years to avoid the accidents of weather.

...our students begin to take a lively interest in this Experimental Farm, which, though not worked by themselves is our next neighbor, and often visited.

Another matter of interest is the fact that to be constructed, certainly, this season from the College Farm three miles and which will be a continuous ramp to Bellefonte. This the more attracts attention as it is engineered by our Professor of Civil Engineering, with a staff of assistants from the students, the survey being actually in progress.

The re-founding of the college was due to the acceptance of the Land Grant Act by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The Federal Act was approved by President Lincoln in 1862 and on April 1st, 1863, Governor Cass signed the bill committing the Commonwealth and pledging its faith April 1st, 1864 is therefore, another pivotal date in our history. One institution at least was provided in each State in which the leading object was to be with- out excluding other scientific and technical studies, and including military tactics to reach such branches of learning as are related to agriculture and mechanical arts. The Land Grant
Pennsylvania's Land Grant was not handled most advantageously, and it was not until 1867 that its bestowal in entirety upon the college was assumed. In 1872, in recognition of the delay in realizing upon this endowment, the Commonwealth combined the Land Grant funds and issued its bond to the college for $500,000 at six per cent, payable in fifty years. The bond from this source constituted, until 1887, practically the total income of the college. Income from other sources was not adequate to cover interest on accumulated debts.
