

PLAYERS SCORE HIT IN INITIAL SHOWING

"Kempy" Pleases Appreciative Audience in Auditorium Last Friday Night

CHARACTERIZATION OF LEADS IS EXCELLENT

From the initial drawing of the curtain to the close of the performance, "Kempy," the first show of the Penn State Players this season, proved last Friday evening to be one of the most pleasing comedies ever produced here. The play was staged under the personal direction of Professor A. C. Clough.

"Kempy" is the work of J. C. and Elliot Nugent and concerns a young plumber, "Kempy" Jones, whose early filling was that he always carried a book written by Katherine Benson and was so impressed with it that he determined that if ever he met the authoress he would marry her. His mission to the Benson home was to fix a pipe but before he could realize it he was married to "Kate," who had just quarreled with her lover, "Duke" McMill. Because she felt that he did not appreciate her talent.

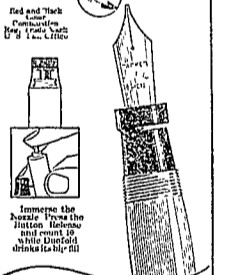

In less than half an hour after his marriage, "Kempy" discovered that it was Ruth Benson, and not her sister "Kate" who had captured his fancy. The marriage does not appear to "Dad" Benson and "Kempy" is ousted from the house. At the close of the play it is discovered that the marriage is not legal because "Kempy" was only twenty years old. "Kate" was thus made free to marry her old lover "Duke" McMill. "Dad" Benson, since his first meeting with "Kempy," had changed his opinion of the lad and the audience was left only to guess the future of "Kempy" and Ruth.

The characterization and interpretation of "Kempy" by the cast was done with a skill that proved pleasing to Director Clough. The part of "Dad" Benson was ably played by R. J. Benjamin '25 and his amusing sarcasm and witty statements never failed to bring a laugh from the audience. In the role of "Kate," Miss Dorothy McCoy '27 played one of the leading parts. Miss Madeline Wright '27 made a decided appeal to the audience in the role of Ruth.

The show here at State College was well interpreted by A. A. McCurdy '27 and the wit in this part won many laughs. R. W. Tyson '27, acting the part of "Duke" McMill, accurately portrayed the type of man who makes careful plans and carries them out with deliberate action. The role of "Mr. Benson" (dual wife and mother) was well played by Miss Leah Link '25. Miss Helen Powell '26 portrayed the part of Helen Wade as the type who likes to "get it to the bottom of things." P. S. Newsham '26 carefully characterized the part of "Ben" Wade, a ray emanating insurance agent.

That equals how many pages of lecture notes?

JUST as that "second wind" puts over the ball for a touch down, or gives a runner that fresh burst of speed that wins on the home stretch, so Duofold's Over-size Ink Capacity takes men over extra pages or extra days of work. It's the "second wind" of writing. For example: An executive of the Public Securities Corporation, Los Angeles, filled his Duofold in the regulation way and then signed his name to 1067 checks in an hour and 30 minutes without refilling his pen.

CRABAPPLE CLUB PLANS FOR HORTICULTURE WEEK

Horticulture Week will be observed by the Crabapple Club this year from December eighth to thirteenth inclusive. At this time informal meetings of many produce growers from all parts of the state will be held in Room 100 Horticulture Building where various problems and new ideas will be discussed.

On Wednesday evening December tenth, the Club will give an entertainment for the growers. This will also be held in Room 100 Horticulture Building. The first evening meeting of the Crabapple Club was held Thursday night and Gilbert Wertz delivered a valuable talk on "Rudolph Mink" through Mr. Wertz, who is a native of Pennsylvania and a former resident of the state.

NITTANY HARRIERS TO OPPOSE PITT RUNNERS

Accompanied by their coach, Professor J. L. Bondy, the senior Animal Husbandry students comprising the judging group will make an extensive survey of the large cattle farms in the district east of the Mississippi River. The tour will wind up in Chicago where the contest is scheduled to get under way next Saturday morning.

Across Another Man's Desk

There looking forward to careers in business often associate the big accomplishments with men in private offices, who sit back of massive desks. As a matter of fact, there are many important men in an organization like Westinghouse who seldom use a desk, or office at all. They achieve by going to other men's offices. They are termed "sales engineers".

George Westinghouse, for example, rendered his greatest service to industry and mankind not merely by perfecting alternating current but by selling it—in the face of the stiffest kind of opposition.

Authorities declared it was impractical, laws were urged against it, yet the salesman, Westinghouse, threw back of alternating current, the strength of his selling personality—with results that can be witnessed in every branch of industrial life today.

Following the example of our Founder, the Westinghouse organization includes a body of engineers whose work is to carry electrical advancement into every nook and corner of the world. They have sold electrification to the factories, the farms, the homes, the railroads, the mines, the ships. They are mechanical and electrical engineers whose imaginations are fixed, not merely by engineering achievement, but by the benefits from such achievement to "the market".

Engineering needs men of sales ability and sales personality, and industry needs to have them in engineering organizations like Westinghouse, must sell before they can serve.
