

RUTH RODGERS GIVES "Y" CONCERT TONIGHT

pleasure. If any felt that she was tempting fate by undertaking "AB" for a full, the apprehension was soon quelled, she gave it in a fashion that could be the inevitable completion.

Is College Graduate
The artist who has been called to the concert stage is one of America's best college graduates destined to become one of the great singers of the world.

In regard to her presentation of the "Young Sentiment" of "Ken" H. Street, "The artist" captivated her hearers by a charming and most unforced stage presence, as well as by a glorious voice of great range and color.

FRESHMEN WILL AID IN LYLE CABIN PROJECT

and the cheer leaders are lending their support and it is the freshmen who are the main body of the volunteers signed up to make the trip tomorrow.

A survey of the location was made by R. D. Shaffer, a member of the Engineering faculty, and the plans of the cabin are being drawn up by Professor C. L. Harris of the Architectural Engineering Department with the help of G. G. Pugh, 25 other members of the committee are G. P. Rupp, Director in Forestry and R. D. Nesbitt, Professor of Civil Engineering.

The forestry department will supply all of the axes and other equipment necessary for clearing off the brush and the wood. It is requested, however, that all those who have signed up should bring their own tools. At least fifteen men from the Outing Club have consented to go out to the site in the morning in order to have everything ready to begin work as soon as the main group gets there in the afternoon. With a large group the work can be speedily accomplished and the party will be home in the evening at the school.

There will be light refreshments of coffee and "hot dogs" served at the cabin site. The transportation has been arranged for by the Y. M. C. A. Any one who wishes to help in clearing the site may join the party at the Y. Hut tomorrow afternoon at one o'clock. The project is being endorsed by the Penn State Club, the Y. M. C. A., the Penn State Outing Club and Student Council. All who wish to sign up at the "Y" Hut.

Chesterfield says:

"Interpretation of style must needs be varied, frequently astounding and sometimes offensive, when you consider how many minds are engaged in turning out each season's productions. If the observer of fashion in suits, topcoats and furnishings were to list the arrangement of diversified models (all of them claiming correctness) which are put before him month by month, and would try to construct from them a definite idea of what the prevailing mode really is, he would have the very finest kind of a crossword puzzle on his hands."

Don't be troubled with such crossword puzzles. Our continuous study of the modes and fads, make us capable of advising you, as to the newest, good, creations.

Playing under the strain of retaining a clean slate for the sixth consecutive year the Penn State soccer team tied in an unopposed record of one of the highest schedules in years.

At the opening of the season Coach Leonard's all brought out thirty candidates for berths on the Blue and White eleven faced with the task of holding a new team with four veterans as a nucleus, the Nittany men would his offensive program and after the Toronto tilt a policy of effectiveness of which can be evidenced by the scores which followed.

Two Points Scored on Team
The results of the season's meetings showed that only two goals were scored on the Lion hooters who succeeded in rolling up a total of twenty points against their opponents. Complete scores also reveal the fact that in the best three years only nine goals have been scored against the Nittany Eleven who have registered forty-seven points against opposing teams.

Syracuse Opens Schedule
The Lion hooters opened their season with Syracuse on Alumni Day.

Playing for the first time since the season started the Penn State soccer team swamped the Swarthmore eleven by a 5 to 1 decision. The first goal resulted in a perfect on a field goal.
