WORTHY TRIBUTES

At the back door of the world stands Ling Naam, a modern college in South China where twelve hundred Chinese men and women study the new science of the West and the ancient culture of the East Ling Naam is the Chinese name for the Canton Christian College and here a handful of Americans strive to lift the Orient from the pall of ignorance that has enshrouded it for centuries

Since 1893, when broad-mirded Americans rediscovered the truth of Confluents' epitonic in which he stride that "the underlying principle of life is reciprocity," the Canton Christian College has been Afterica's heritage in the Far East China is full of gratefulness to her white-skinned brothers, for the entire country now feels the new life, the cleanliness and Godliness that the coming of education has brought to its people

tion has brought to its people

Eighteen years ago, a young man was graduated from Penn State and went cut to make his way in the world. Within a short time there came Chine's pit'ful call to evilization for help and this young man realized that his greatest work lay in service to humanity. So he departed for the Orient and soon affinisted himself with the Canton Christian College where he has since established Chinese agriculture on a firm foundation. That man was "Daddy" Groff Laboring incessantly from year to year in an effort to pull his less fortunate brothers out of the mire of illiteracy, "Daddy" Groff has found "the greatest thing in life."

But the accomplishments of this Pean State graduate and his ing incessantly from year to year in an effort to pull his less fortunate brothers out of the mire of illiteracy, "Daddy" Groff has found "the greatest thing in lite"

But the accomplishments of this Penn State graduate and his co-workers may be curtailed, for China, in the midst of a civil war that has raged for three years, finds it impossible to meet the ever-increasing demands upon this college and funds are necessary to carry the institution past an impending crisis. And from across the sea, thousands of miles away, China's appeal to America has reached Penn State

Dr. Edwin Erle Sparks was the man whose far-reaching interest first brought success to the Canton Christian College movement at Penn State I was Dr Sparks who was instrumental in promoting large donations toward the upkeep of this great institution of the Orient and while he lived, Penn State was generous in its helping hand But with the passing of this illustrious man, it is evident that Nittany students have almost forgotten the heritage with which they were entrusted

After careful consideration, several student leaders at Penn State who are sponsoring the movement for a Sparks memorial have sensed a new tribute for their former president which will commemorate the true ideals for which Dr. Sparks stood. The proposal has been made that the money collected from the student body be turned into a fund which shall be known as the Edwin Erle Sparks Canton Christian College Endowment Fund

The selection of a memorial to Dr. Sparks should be made by the undergraduate body. The idea of establishing a collection of historical reference books in a section of the Library to Dr. Sparks memory is a good one, and the sporsors of this plan are to be commended it is a worth-while project, but there are others.

Suggestions have been given for a statue of Dr. Sparks, appropriately surrounded with noteworthy architectural and landscape of feets, to be erected in the center of Penn State's future quadrangle. The building of a memorial chapel has also been propo

Foremost among the qualities upon which Penn State men rest their claims for recognition among the colleges and universities of the country is that of sportsmanship to have clean-playing teams, teams that are victoricus, has become a Penn State tradition. Behind that tradition is the ideal cherished by the undergraduate body, individually, of excelling in athletics, of being good sports.

Conch Leonard is reorganizing lacrosse in an attempt to make it the game of skill, science and courage which he has outlined in the articles appearing under his name in the COLLEGIAN. In this reorganization Coach Leonard needs men. Several days ago he called out candidates for the lacrosse squad, approximately twenty-five reported for practice—about two full teams. Tew special attributes are required of the prospective lacrosse player he can be short or tall, he need be fleet of foot only to the extent of being able to run a hundred yards in thirteen seconds, he must have courage and a will to stand by the game. Coach Leonard will give no preference to athletes in other sports, he promises equal consideration for every man who comes out on the field.

Here is a lacrosse coach who says, in effect, "with enough men interested and willing to sacifice a few idle hours for the good of the game, Penn State will have a real lacrosse coach who says, in effect, "with enough men interested and willing to sacifice a few idle hours for the good of the game, Penn State will have a real lacrosse coach who says, in effect, "with enough men interested and willing to accifice a few idle hours for the good of the game, Penn State will have a real lacrosse coach who says, in effect, "with enough men interested and willing to accifice a few idle hours for the good of the game, Penn State will have a real lacrosse coach who says, in effect, "with enough men interested and willing to accifice a few idle hours for the good of the game, Penn State will have a real lacrosse team this year."
