Ever while working to advance the presuge of their particular chapters, fraternity men at the same time have labored for the advancement of Penn State and there can be no doubt that the College owes much to their ef-forting functioning of the fraternity system. Without these essentials the the set efforts of oble student leaders are foredoomed to failure Converselv, anything which promotes good feeling between the fra-ternities will directly and surely lutther the interests of Penn State one which has for its geal the achievement of greater har-mony within and among fraternities, and which consequently deserves the serious and careful thought of every member of a Greek letter society, is the formalitor of a new cele of rushing regulations begin by the interfraternity Conference several months ago. After a com-predensive and thorough study of the codes followed at other large institutions, the committee appointed to this task will shortly submit to proposils to members of the Conference. The need for a revision of the regulations is certainly apparent. That the present rushing procedure has survive da is long as it has is a result of an attachment for time worn treditions and the prevalence of the "frazez fare" attitude. There is not a fraternity man on the campus who will not admit that there are men who are patently mis-placed in their fraternities They will admit, too, that there have been cases of ill-tecling between fraternites themselves, in many in-stances the result of the hasty, cut-throat policy which has been follow-unter-organization clashes When these new rules are submitted, overy representative should be propared to discuss them with vision unclouded by petry and sellish interests, with a viewpoint that has as is objective the improvement of Penn State and the fr EXIT-THE LEAD PIPE RIDAY and SATURDAY RIDAY and SATURDAY First Pouna, Showing of HLTON MILLS and DORIS KLAYON In "I Want My Mat" Go Getter Series Comedy the good Penns-transfor and the comparison of solution in the nonline statement the good Penns-transform will stund be the siles "Seven in more hum the Reg. WHERE THE FAULT LIES

WHERE THE FAULT LIES Lavity in the observance of freshman customs, generally evident on the campus at this time of the year, has cropped up again _Upper-classmen have sensed the let-down and, without the careful considera-tion that would correctly analyze the situation, have unconsciously blamed the first-year men The Student Tribunal a body designated to punish those yearlings who strav from the straight and narrow, has probably fired fewer cases this year than ever before. Meetings, scheduled to take place every two weeks, have often been postponed because no misdemeanors were reported. In this respect the uppe classmen, and not the fresh-men, are at fault. Thinking members of the student body, sensing a wider departa-tion from customs with each succeeding year have just cause for alarm. A continuance of present methods, in which upperclassmen' hesitate to report the first-year men, will mean a gradual degeneration of Penn State into a college where freshmen are forbidden "to wear ian shoes and racoon coats" The present tendency seems to admire the freshman for his suc-cess in "getting away with it." At the time set for one of the annual underclass scraps last fall, less than three hundred yearlings made their appearance. When a class, numbering more than one thousand then makes such a poor showing and the Tribunal hears little com-plaint in regard to the matter, it is evident that drastic measures must be taken be taken II freshmen cannot realize the meaning of the traditions upon which Pcnn State's history is built, it is the duty of the upperclassmer to instruct them A more stringent observance of customs by the first-year men themselves, together with greater pressure by members of the three upper classes, will remedy the situation and eleviate the possibility of its becoming a problem in later years.

CONGRATULATIONS

The announcement that a winter sports mass meeting will be held tonight is a welcome one It comes at an opportune time, just as the indoor soorts season has been closed. To see and hear once more those men who worked so faithfully to bring recognition to their Alma Mater in athletic competitions, is the honored privilege of the undergraduate body.

And while so harmony to hing teorginum to their Anna Multer in athletic competitions, is the honored privilege of the undergraduate body. More than that, however, the mass meeting lends itself as a time to formally congratulate these teams and their respective coaches "To them goes that added prestige for which they fought and won-the ability to play and work equally hard under all conditions. Penn State now turns to the outdoor field, but not before one last yell is given the winter sports teams. They were loyal in their endeavors, strong in their decision to play hard and win fairly, or not win at all, and ever constant to their ideal to give the best they had lor the betterment of Penn State. May their efforts not go unre-warded; may their enthusiasm and zeal be carried into the teams that are to represent Penn State in athletic competition during the remainder of the year , "All out tonight," is the cry. No better chance will be presented to show our appreciation of the work done by these teams; no better opportunity will be given to start the spring contests off with the assurance of loyal support "All out tonight."
