

GALA PROM ADDS TO 1926 LAURELS

Garber's Orchestra Provides Entertainment for Couples in Armory Friday

INTERIOR DECORATIONS GIVE COLOR TO DANCE

The Prom. To substitute a word in the famous quotation it was "the prom in years" considered a June 15th in April, the heavens filled with dancing stars inside the Armory.

Friday night's beautiful affair was a happy affair in every way. The decorations were well of its kind and the atmosphere was most enjoyable.

Orchestra Scores Hit

In Garber's band was the most outstanding item in the dancing of the prom. This eminent jazz musician's combination of rhythmic articles of an almost unlimited repertoire of 120 numbers and the manner in which these were played took the dancing to a new high.

The vocal solos instrumental solos and the dancing all had a large part in the enjoyment of the guests. Harry Groll of the Dutch comedian, deflected the hopes and waltzes with difficult passages and catchy lyrics.

Decorations Impressive

The decorating of the Armory was an elaborate and elaborately by the committee and company of Wilkes-Barre. Decorations for the South House have surpassed its former work of the Prom "Sixties".

DR. METZGER STRESSES ORGANIZATION IN SPEECH BEFORE PRE-LEGAL CLUB

Captain Metzger, the principal speaker at the pre-legal club meeting held last Thursday night, gave a short talk on the "Benefits of Organization."

An announcement was made that the next meeting of the club will be held Thursday night at which Mr. Gettler, a Defiance lawyer, will speak. His address will be concerned with the more practical duties and experiences of a lawyer.

The committee working on the section of recognition pins and medals that would be finished for presentation at the next regular meeting. The organization received the need for such pins some time ago, and feels that their adoption will give added prominence to pre-legal activities on the campus.

This afternoon the members of the club are taking a trip to Rockview Point where they will be shown many things of interest. Those who were absent from the last meeting and who desire to go along may do so by meeting at C. G. corner at one o'clock. A charge of fifty cents will be made for the round-trip.

PENN STATE GOLFERS DEFEAT COUNTRY CLUB

Lion Linkmen Take Contest With Centre Hills Players by Narrow Margin

Displaying unusually good early season form, the Nittany golfers defeated the Centre Hills Country club linkmen in a close tournament by a score of 26 to 17, Saturday afternoon.

Probably the best tilt of the afternoon was that between Taylor and Palf, former Lion golf captain. Each player won nine holes, but Taylor had the better of the eighteen and was elected the match by a score of two to one.

Throughout the match the encounter was closely contested and in many of the last few holes, Captain Gerhardt did not play up to his usual form and lost to Merrill of Centre Hills on a 3 to 0 count.

Scoring was based on one point for the first nine holes and another for the second nine, with a third for the entire eighteen holes. In the following results of the matches the Penn State player is named first: Gerhardt to Merrill 3, Stevenson 2, G. C. Glenn 1, Findley 2, Peapling 0, Taylor 2, Lair 1, Smeock 2, Keeler 0, Meeds 2, Grainger 0, Dale 2, Stuart 1, Morris 1, Bresnahan 2, Cannon 3, Smith 0, Hamill 2, Martin 0, Madora 3, W. S. Glenn 0, Chooey 1, Warnock 2, Mathias 0, Hollen 2, Richman 2, Robison 0, Jacobs 1, Metzger 2, Killinger 0, Cunningham 3.

The Centre Hills course was in fine condition and gave the Varsity players a chance to play on an unfamiliar links. As many of the holes are difficult, the coach feels that the experience gained will be a great aid to the players in the coming matches.

During this week Coach Rutherford will put the candidates through stiff practice sessions in preparation for the match with Pennsylvania in Philadelphia Saturday. The team which will consist of four men will be chosen toward the latter part of the week. At present the most likely candidates are Gerhardt, Stevenson, Findley, Taylor, Smeock, Meeds and Dale.

Beau Brummels Take Back Seat While Yearlings Promenade in Poverty Togs

Beau Brummels of Penn State were relegated to the background last Saturday when the freshmen turned out en masse to observe the annual Poverty Day. Followers of Rip Van Winkle were in their element and a visitor to State College, after seeing so many destitute specimens, would have drawn the conclusion that a great financial depression had taken place.

Starting at eight o'clock in the morning and continuing until after the fall game with Pennsylvania university, the first year men informed everyone that they were sadly in need and were backed strongly in their beliefs by members of the upperclasses who willingly prescribed treatment for them. Still treatment taken at Camp Green was a source of delight to all the beauties who had invaded Penn State for the Junior Prom. Hearing reports were perfectly in order throughout the day and not a single refusal was reported.

Fashion Parade

At one forty-five the youngsters assembled on New Beaver Field to witness the fashion parade with the Ombudsma Indians. Every late arrival who showed signs of promise was requested to display his wares for the benefit of his fellow-tramps. A special number by the initiator of the fashion parade was composed of students of the freshmen art. Between the halves of the largest game the real exhibit of the day began when the "fashion of the road" paraded in single file around the center track and to the baseball field where they awaited the final decisions of the judges.

A judging committee whose ability will remain unquestioned by all and which perhaps is the most capable one of its kind in the country, awarded

GIRLS' SCIENTIFIC CLUB WILL BE FORMED HERE

Members To Be Selected From Women Students Who Are Majoring in Science

A scientific society for women, similar to the Quax club at the University of Pittsburgh, will be established at Penn State within the next two weeks. The purpose of the new organization is to stimulate interest in science among Penn State women. Charter members are girls majoring in science, selected from the three upper classes on a basis of scholarship and general interest in such work, and women instructors in the various branches of science. With the form of permanent organization still under discussion, plans are at present temporary, but will be more definite after a vote to be taken Wednesday on certain policies.

The Quax club has been remarkably successful in furthering the interests of science at Pitt and some time ago communicated with Dean C. E. Ray, urging the formation of a similar organization here. Until this year, however, there have been too few girls majoring in science to make such an enterprise possible.

One phase of the work of the club will be the study of the lives of great scientists and their discoveries. At a meeting last week, preparatory to studying the discovery of radium, papers were read on the life of Madame Curie. At an earlier meeting Dean G. L. Wendt of the School of Chemistry

DR. BRUMBAUGH URGES SERVICE TO OTHERS IN SUNDAY CHAPEL TALK

Before the largest Sunday chapel audience Penn State has seen in a number of months, Dr. M. O. Brumbaugh, ex-governor of Pennsylvania and former president of Juniata college, delivered a sermon notable for its simplicity and force.

"All great living is great giving," said Dr. Brumbaugh, and he went on to explain that the purpose of education is to make men and women more capable of enriching the lives of others.

"We all like to feel that we have the power to do something well," said the speaker, "and to make his life count a man must choose a definite purpose and stick to it."

He made a willingness to respond in college or elsewhere for the fulfilling of his purpose, and he must utilize an effective method of reaching his work to the world. The way in which a thing is done is important, Dr. Brumbaugh added. "It isn't what you get out of life that counts, but what you have put into the lives of others," he concluded.

ALTOONA REPORT SHOWS COLLEGE MILK SUPERIOR

Recent reports issued by the Alabama Department of Health, after exhaustive tests show that State College milk is far superior to the standards set by a milk by that bureau. In a test conducted in March twenty-third, an Altoona, Ala. was obtained that proved the milk produced at the Penn State Dairy to contain only one-thirtieth as much per cent fat, centimeter, which shows it to be ten times as clean as the standard requirements for certified milk. In other ways also, the State College milk proved its superiority, being normal in color, odor and taste, and containing no sediment.
