STUDENT COUNCIL ADOPTS NEW INTERCLASS BUDGET

tion that eight hundred students will be admitted next fall has been compiled for the year 1925-26. Dues for the respective classes are as follows: freshmen $3.25, sophomores consisting of nine hundred $2.25, juniors consisting of 667 $10.75, seniors consisting of 475 $1.25.

Cheerleaders' Committee
W. G. Wickard reported that of the several differences in the student organizations in the West and at Penn State the present method of electing cheerleaders was not preferred at any other college. Acting upon his recommendation that a committee be appointed C. W. Bantel '26 was made chairman of a committee to work with C. W. Taylor to devise a new system of electing the cheerleaders.

Because of the poor support of the tie-up set up on the part of the sophomores, the tug-of-war has been indefinitely postponed. Student Council for ten strikes in the contest and were well in the lead in the sixth when Schwartz was checked for the error that brought in three runs.

An error by Bloss of Princeton in the third inning gave Penn State the first run of the game. Hamis was safe at third on a badly handled ball and tumbled across the plate on Pappas' sacrifice. The Princeton batsmen in the same chapter scored their first tally when Thompson singled and completed the circuit on Blace's triple. Although their fielding was poor the Nittany tossers showed evidences of coming out of their batting slump. Noicker who failed to get a hit in the last game with West Virginia, connected with a home-run and single while Mohr and Kerstetter both clouted out doubles.

crossing the line in third place. Completing the distance in 10 minutes 15 1/2 seconds Haskins crossed the final white line first in the two-mile run. Gesterling and Covitt also of the sculling squad secured the remaining places.

Repeating his former performance 1924's again led the field to the tape in the low hurdles. Bates '25 placed second in this race, with Shays of the same class accounting for the final point. The freshmen also captured the three places in the half-mile. Taylor, Davis and Liddacker finishing in the order named. The 220-yard dash also strengthened the 1925 total. Kinner, Pillsbury and Karbach winning points.

Bates proved to be the high scorer in the field events the Philadelphia lad taking first in the high and broad jumps. The freshmen also gained a first in every field competition, although most of the sophomores counters were gained on the field.

Traveling to Penn State to engage the Nittany sculling team, the Council freshmen will vie with the Blue and White for honors in the second meet of the season on New Beaver Field tomorrow afternoon at two-thirty o'clock.
