INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS ATTEND SHORT COURSE

Fifteen Men From All Parts of State Study Organization and Management

The tenth annual short course in Industrial Organization and Management, started last Monday with fifteen men entered a marked increase over last year.

These six men from the General Electric at Erie, the vice-president and general manager of the Universal Synthetic Company of New Castle, employees of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, of Parsons the Scott Paper Company of Chester, the Elliott Company of Fayette, Verona Steel Company of Pittsburgh, the manager of the Middletown Car Works of Middletown, the resident production manager of the United States Metallic Picking Company and a consulting engineer from Erie.

This special school for executives takes up in detail the latest developments in the specialized fields of modern management. The primary object is to explain and coordinate the relationships between the various functions of management.

NUMEROUS TRIPS ARE PLANNED FOR SUMMER

of special scenic beauty of geological interest or of historical significance. Many of these points will be visited on the excursions.

First Trip
Ben Meadows—Alan Seeger, Virgin Forest excursion will take place next Saturday and will cost $1.50. Of the many interesting places near State College, Ben Meadows is perhaps the most unique. It has many visitors because there is no other place like it. Ben Meadows is located in the heart of Seven Mountains about twelve miles from State College.

Much of the area is a swamp that is interesting because it is peculiar. The place has long been famed for its interesting plants and animal life. The spruces, the rhododendrons, sandalwood, pitcher plants and huckleberry bushes seven or eight feet tall are a few of its attractions. The pitcher plants were once common but have been almost destroyed by visitors.

In order to keep Ben Meadows in its natural condition, the place in the future will be kept as a state park. On account of its historical character, it is probably the most popular forest state monument in Pennsylvania.

about thirty acres of land is one of the few remaining virgin forests. The hemlock trees are of unusual size and beauty. There is also a magnificent growth of rhododendron. Some of the stems are of great height and when covered with blossoms, about the first part of July make the Alan Seeger Monument perhaps one of the most beautiful recreation spots in Pennsylvania.

This excursion will provide opportunity for scientific study as well as recreation. Members of the department of botany are expected to accompany the party. People going on this excursion should provide themselves with a lunch as there will be no opportunity to buy any along the way.

Tickets for the excursion will be sold at the summer session office between Wednesday morning and Friday noon. Those wishing to be comfortable and to enjoy this excursion should wear stout heavy shoes and clothing suitable for traveling in a dense forest.

Plans for Parties
There are many delightful places suitable for evening excursions and picnics. The College is better prepared than ever before to assist students in finding suitable places for evening excursions and in obtaining the best transportation at the lowest possible cost. In all cases arrangements should be made with W. R. White, director of excursions who will give every possible assistance free of charge.

Mr. White will be at the summer session office. The new school opens in the morning and at the close of the hour before noon. At other times he may be seen in the Agricultural Experiment Station building or called on the Bell telephone. The following list of popular places suitable for evening excursions is suggestive but is by no means complete. Ice Caves, Penn's Live Point, Mt. Denzinger, Little Lost Rock, Mt. Boonshing, Eversholt, Shinnston, Levenshull and Little Lost Rock, Fire Tower.

DR. LOTHROP STODDARD TO BE FIRST LECTURER

breadth of vision and the fine analytical mind of Dr. Stoddard. His literary efforts also appeared in the "Atlantic Monthly," "Century," "Review of Reviews," "Scribner's," "World's Work" and many other magazines.

In 1923, Dr. Stoddard visited fourteen countries of Europe and the Near East in order to obtain facts which were necessary for writings and lectures. He has been compared to "H. H. Ahimsa" who has been recognized as an authority in the political situation particularly as it applies to Europe and America since upon the solution of the racial and social problems of Europe alone depends much toward the accomplishment of World Peace.

Those in charge of the lecture courses have considered themselves fortunate in being able to obtain such a man to speak at Penn State.

Dr. Stoddard's talk on the following evening which will take up the Mohammedan situation as related to the Christian is entitled "The New World of Islam." This will be a continuation of his discussion of "Present-Day Europe" but will be a more local and more limited theme.

Two lectures by Dr. A. A. Schuman will do it with Jewish contributions to western civilization, first on the evening of July seventh with respect to religious and ethical and on the eighth the intellectual and social. Verbal description of Egypt Palestine, the Near East, India and the Far East will comprise the two speeches by C. S. Crossman for July fourteenth and fifteenth.

Six Lectures
Beginning in the afternoon of the twenty-second Dr. D. D. Losey will give an expository lecture on Hamlet and will spend the evening in reading from the same play. His talk for the following afternoon will take up modern drama and will be interspersed with illustrative readings, while the fourth lecture will consume the reading of Ibsen's "Ghosts." "More About Speech and Humanity as an Organism" are the titles for the afternoon and evening of the final day.

In conclusion the series of lectures three talks will be given by Dr. Emanuel Steinheim. Subjects for the respective occasions are Tuesday, July twenty-eighth "Seven Education Problems" Wednesday afternoon, July twenty-ninth "A Great Schoolmaster" and Wednesday evening "Educative Value of Literature."

FOR RENT—Three room furnished cottage convenient on Spruce St. between Foster and Beaver Avenues. Inquire at cottage at address Mrs. B. E. Yerkich, Gen. Delivery 11.

ARTISTS ENGAGED FOR ENTERTAINMENT COURSE

Studio of "How Statues Are Made." Ticket Sale

Course tickets may be obtained in the Old Main corridor today and hereafter at the summer session office for the price of $1.50 to $2.50. Price of single admissions will be seventy-five cents. Those in charge state that they have obtained the best combination in several years. All the persons engaged are of national or international reputation. Any one of the six numbers is well worth the price of the entire course, they said. Cost of seats for entertainments by these artists in other cities have reached the price of the whole course here.

William Gustafson was born in Massachusetts and received his early training at home, but has since traveled in nearly all the large cities of this country and has on several occasions, appeared in Europe. He has appeared in New York, Brooklyn and Philadelphia under the auspices of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Change of Service

The management will take over the Dining Service on or about July 1st. There will be an entirely new policy. Watch for announcement next week.
