Europe last summer after a nine day voyage. Bauer was greeted with acclaim by England, France, Germany, Holland, Belgium, Spain, Switzerland, Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

In a striking way Bauer's attitude has been summed up by Henry T. Pink, veteran critic of the New York Evening Post: "One does not need to be a musician to listen to him. He makes the meaning of his composer so clear that a person without the least conception of what he would hear and enjoy. Bauer is heard and sung in the piece he is rendering, and his masterly intellect recognizes every value of tone, phrase or flourish to the exclusion of all man-nerism. His playing is the absolute perfection of interpretation."

Other artists to feature the array are Paul Whiteman and His Band; Donald MacMillan, the world-famed Arctic Explorer; Jacques Thibaud, violinist; Suzanne Keener, the noted opera singer; and our own Glee Club.

The sign of a Lifetime

It goes to school

Unnumbered thousands of American students will enter the classic portals (slang for front door) proud owners of "Lifetime" pens. They are rapidly buying them, from better dealers everywhere, not only because they have nibs that are guaranteed for a lifetime; or because they are made of green, jade-green radite, a jewel-like material that is beautiful and practically indestructible—but they are buying them because of their dependable performance.
