WORK ON PROGRAM FOR MOTHER'S DAY NEARS COMPLETION

Saturday, October Seventeenth, is Date Selected—Invitations Will Be Sent Out

HAROLD BAUER APPEARS ON DAY OF CELEBRATION

Women Members of Committee Begin Preparations for Afternoon Tea

Notwithstanding the fact that this year will mark the inauguration of Mother's Day at Penn State, indications already point to a capacity gathering when the mothers of the sons and daughters of the Nittany Valley institution arrive to be fittingly honored on Saturday, October seventeenth. Arrangements are rapidly being completed in order that a full program may occupy the entire day.

Working in conjunction with all the student organizations, Ruth Schaeffer '26 and Mary Chambers '26 of the student committee are completing plans for the tea scheduled for Saturday afternoon of the seventeenth in the Women's Building. Every mother is cordially invited to attend this social gathering, which will last from three until five o'clock.

Because of the coming of Harold Bauer, who will appear in the first number of the "Y" entertainment course in the Auditorium, final arrangements have not yet been completed for an official gathering of mothers on the night of the seventeenth. H. D. Fritchman '26, D. F. Groff '26 and G. E. Hill '26, are working in co-operation with the Interfraternity council, the Intramural council and the Penn State Club in order to work up a suitable program for that evening.

Invitations To Be Sent

H. W. Cohen '26, publicity chairman, and Prof. A. H. Espenshade, representing the parents' association, are sending letters in the form of invitations to the mother of each student now enrolled in college.

In an attempt to work up undergraduate interest for the affair, D. H. Henry '26, chairman of the student committee, will bring the matter of Mother's Day before the student council when that body convenes next Tuesday night.

While no definite has been decided upon as yet, it is planned to have each student wear an emblem in honor of the mothers who are here that day. The exact nature of the decoration has not been revealed but will be announced by the undergraduate committee at a later date.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR 1926 LACROSSE TEAM

Three Undergraduate Stickmen Drill Squad of Fifty Men in Daily Practice

With the loss of but two men from last year's combination and augmented by the experience gained in the autumn practices, prospects for a winning lacrosse team next spring loom bright.

Coached by Captain Hackett with Shanks and Edmunds, both veterans, as assistants, fifty men have been drilling daily in an effort to attain perfection in stickwork. No scrimmage will be staged for some weeks as it is the chief aim of the coaches to give a thorough instruction in the fundamentals of this ancient Indian game.

An excellent chance is afforded freshmen to earn their numerals, in addition to learning important phases of the sport in preparation for the annual sophomores-eating scrap which will be held late in November. Plans have practically been completed for the formation of a regular plebe combination. Negotiations for a possible game with the Syracuse freshmen at Syracuse this fall are pending.

Although Coach Ralph Leonard at present is busily engaged as tutor of the Nittany soccer squad, it is his desire to continue lacrosse practice throughout the winter. In this way it is hoped that a better lacrosse spirit can be created among the followers of the sport at this institution. In the eight years that lacrosse has been fostered at Penn State a winning team has never existed, chiefly because the players never had the same at heart. From the thoroughness of Coach Leonard's plans as evidenced in the fall practice innovation it appears that a real move is under way to give Penn State a winning team in this line of sport.

Molasses and Sawdust Supply Climax As Freshmen Replace Gloom With Joy

The whistle didn't blow, but the Old Main bell rang and Stunt Night came off just the same and as smoothly as ever. Suddenly, as soon as the tolling of the bell was heard, over nine hundred freshmen poured forth from their respective lodgings to get their share of Stunt Night.

If Penn State should ever decide to have a crew, there is no doubt (in the minds of the sophis) that every member of the class of 1929 would at least qualify. Those who did not wish to row and who failed to keep in time were greatly encouraged to do so by their guardians—the sophomores.

Swimming was one of the major sports of the evening and all participated. Any who sunk were brought back to life by the use of paddles. After such intensive exercise, the first year men were allowed to rest their weary bones for a few seconds, only.

The freshmen were kept in high spirits as was shown by the way in which they sang their class song, "We ain't gonna work no more," which the sophis agree is all bunk. Soon Holmes Field came into view and the plebes began singing "There goes our wood."

Brand and Gauntlet

"Slow down fresh," yelled the sophis in order that each freshman might be branded. This was done so that he may be distinguished from

CLOVER CLUB MEETS TO PLAN ACTIVE PROGRAM

Society Elects J. K. Thornton Secretary—Arrange for Social Affairs

For the purpose of reorganizing and formulating a program of activity for the coming season the Clover Club convened for the first time this year in the Ag. Building on Tuesday night. Committees were appointed to look after the various phases of the educational and entertainment programs and definite announcement of the arrangements will be published after the club's next meeting.

Because of the vacancy in the office of secretary, J. K. Thornton '26 was elected to fill that role and he will assist in administering the affairs of the society along with F. H. Calkins '26, president, H. P. Ulrich '26, vice-president, and C. D. Uebel '27, treasurer. These men with the co-operation of the faculty are endeavoring to make this term a banner period for the club.

Besides the regular smokes and socials planned to be held at the different fraternities, there will be a special effort made to hold a state wide grain show here. This will be staged shortly after the Christmas vacation. Students, farmers, and others interested will be invited to attend the show and if possible enter exhibits of their own.

When the next meeting will be held, has not been announced, but it is expected President Calkins will call it within the next two weeks. The Clover Club is an organization of students to promote Agronomy, and all freshmen and older men interested are urged to attend the next meeting.

Governor Pinchot To Speak Monday

The Honorable Gifford Pinchot, Governor of Pennsylvania, will be the guest of the College Monday afternoon, when he will address the students and faculty in the Auditorium at one-thirty-five o'clock at a special mass meeting.

Immediately preceding the mass meeting, he will tour the College as part of his inspection trip through State institutions. From noon till one o'clock, he will be the guest of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs at a luncheon.

The Governor, in a letter to the College, requested the opportunity to address the students and faculty, and for this reason, all classes for the first hour that afternoon will be dismissed in order that a large attendance may be had at the mass meeting. The Blue Key society will take charge of the seating arrangements in the Auditorium.

Following his short visit at Penn State, the Governor will leave to inspect the State Fish Hatcheries, Rockview Penitentiary and the Bellefonte Hospital.

those of his comrades who failed to heed the cry, "All frosh out." A run through the gauntlet kept the yearlings from catching cold and after that came the longest wait of the entire evening except for those who were amusing the audience by fairy and esthetic dancing, climbing a greased pole, or participating in a flour fight.

As the climax of the evening, the first year men were given the usual feed of molasses, sawdust and ice water from a fire hose. Every frosh was warned to go home immediately after the flying squadron, a select body of huskies, was not pressed into service during the evening because the upperclassmen did not attempt to interfere with the actions of Stunt Night.

FRESHMAN HARRIER TRIALS SET TODAY

Cartmell Will Hold Yearling Tryouts on New Course—1929 Meet Soon

VARSITY CROSS-COUNTRY SQUAD NEARS TOP FORM

With a view to obtaining a definite line on the material for a freshman cross-country team, Coach Nat Cartmell will hold trials for the yearling harriers over the new four mile course today at one o'clock on New Beaver Field.

Not many yearling hill-and-dalers have reported so far, and Cartmell urges all new men who did any distance running in preparatory schools to be present at the fall term of conditioning. Cox of Mercerburg and Rochester Tech, and winner of the distance events in the Scholastic meet here last spring, seems the outstanding contender among the freshmen.

Conver, O. Helffrich, Bass and Offenhauer, the last-named a product of West Philadelphia high school, make up the remainder of the known quantities of the yearling squad.

Meet October Tenth

A regularly contested freshman trial meet will be held on New Beaver Field October tenth, all fifteen intercollegiate events being scheduled.

In the dashes, Bowie, formerly of Potomac State, seems to be about the only contender for first honors. Dash men are very few and Bowie is outstanding among them.

Mathieu, of Springfield, Massachusetts, seems to be the only prominent weight man of the 1929 outfit. He is a discus-thrower and shot-putter of ability and should be able to help as necessary.

I. F. C. ADOPTS NEW CUSTOM ON VISITING DANCES

Guests, Unattended by Ladies, Will Now "Cut In" With Consent of Couple

CLOSED DANCES TO BE ANNOUNCED AS FORMAL

Fraternities Asked To Provide Stag Entertainment for Alumni Homecoming

Attempting to discourage promiscuous visiting, the Interfraternity Council adopted a new system of "cutting in" with permission of dancing parties, which will replace the custom of giving dances to visitors that has grown up in the last few years. However, Blue Key members who are entertaining guests of the College should receive every courtesy according to the Council. In order to distinguish those of the society, the organization will be asked to provide some form of insignia.

Another measure passed by the Council at the meeting Tuesday night asks all houses desiring closed dances to announce them as formal. Consequently all students attending must be dressed accordingly. Within the past three or four years, the habit of stugging has become an increasing burden to the host, besides causing considerable embarrassment to out-of-town girls, as developed during the discussion of the question.

Action precipitated in following the policy of the organization to improve relations between fraternities and fraternity men. Although visiting among the Greek-letter societies is forbidden at many colleges and universities, the Interfraternity Council does not want to discourage the custom.

CAMPUS HATS VETOED BY BLUE KEY SOCIETY

Professor Keller Asks Men To Receive Visitors in True Penn State Style

Members of the Blue Key society decided to lay aside the matter of social hats until a later date at a meeting at the Beta Theta Pi house on Tuesday evening. The advisability of procuring a hat which would be allowed to be worn only at authorized functions was voted against, the reason advanced being that Blue Key is primarily an organization for the entertainment of visitors and that a hat conveys the idea of an honorary campus organization.

A nomination committee consisting of three men was appointed and asked to present names to be voted upon at the next meeting. Prof. J. O. Keller, of the School of Engineering, and an honorary member of Blue Key, explained the meaning of true Penn State spirit to the men and asked their assistance in making all visitors at home while at the College.

"Daddy" Groff To Be Next Chapel Speaker

Taking for his subject the work that he has been doing in China as head of the Agricultural School of Canton Christian college, C. W. Groff '07 will speak at the Penn State Chapel service Sunday morning, October fourth.

As "Daddy" Groff pointed out before, Canton is Penn State's "child in China." Last year a large number of students pledged money in varying amounts to be used in aiding this work which began fourteen years ago when Mr. Groff took charge of the agricultural department of that institution. Since that time his work has gained recognition from both the Chinese and American governments.

This opportunity to hear "Daddy" Groff tell of his experiences in China and of the conditions existing there is likely to be the only one that will offer itself to many of the Penn State students.

YEARLING ELEVEN ENGAGES VARSITY

Plebe Backfield Gains Ground Consistently Against Rival Team in Scrimmage

SEVERAL CHANGES MADE IN LINE BY LION COACH

Matching their speed and strength daily against the Varsity eleven the freshman griders are making thorough preparations for the stiff schedule that will open for them with the Wyoming seminary clash.

While changes among the linemen is a common occurrence, the personnel of the backfield remains intact. The ground-gaining abilities of the present quartet has been demonstrated repeatedly against both the Varsity and yearling scrub teams, and the secondary defensive work of the backs is promising.

Ends Improve

Stemming the frequent end-uns of the Varsity backs, Delp and Marcus, the yearling wings, demonstrated a marked ability as defensive players. Both men are comparatively light but are fast and are clean tacklers. Decker was substituted for Marcus several times in the scrimmage and occupied the terminal berth in good style.

The tackle and guard positions seem to give Delp the most trouble at present and it is there that the changes are most common. Sonderburg and McAndrews are doing satisfactory work at the tackle position but their work lacks the polish of finished players. Moore, another candidate for the inside position, should give both players a hard fight.

Mathieu, Hulien, Willy and Fieney are the outstanding aspirants for the guard berths with the first two mentioned having a slight edge in the scrimmages thus far. At center the

BOOTERS PREPARE FOR LEHIGH CLASH

Long Scrimmage Sessions Begun by Nittany Coach as First Game Approaches

LINEMEN LACK DRIVING ABILITY ON OFFENSIVE

Preliminary drill followed by a grueling scrimmage lasting until after dark will be the prescribed routine for the Nittany booting in an effort to bring the team to the best of condition for the Lehigh clash on September tenth.

Although the booters handle the ball well in midfield and advance the ball repeatedly to within scoring distance the final push seems to be lacking in the daily games. Coach Ralph Leonard hopes to overcome this handicap in the week of practice remaining before the opening game and is drilling the line in goal shooting for this purpose.

Defensive Work Lacking

One other outstanding defect is apparent in the work of the Lion eleven thus far, that is the weakness of the backs in defending the goal against onslaughts from the opposing forwards. Several changes have been made in the halfback and fullback positions to remedy this condition by the Nittany mentor.

On the temporary first team the center forward berth is occupied at present by Benny Schwartz, a veteran of two seasons, and a sturdy kicker. Eshenuth, another letterman, and Miguel Gil are covering the adjoining positions. Brierly and Musser are two of the second-string men whose playing is of promise.

Coach Leonard's choice for the outside line berths are Pecos, a member of last year's aggregation, and Keen, a senior. Both men are fast and have direction to their punts. One handicap that the outside men have in common with the other forwards is the inability to score a good percentage of their possible shots.

MANDOLIN CLUB CALLS FOR UPPERCLASS AND FRESHMAN CANDIDATES

Issuing a second call for candidates, the Mandolin Club will hold its second tryouts in the new bandroom on the fourth floor of Old Main at seven o'clock Monday night. All freshmen and upperclass prospects are urged to request to turn out at this time.

A meet handful turned out for the first trial last week and this necessitated a second call. Freshmen are especially urged to show up Monday night. If any man is taken on by the club and stays with the organization for at least three years, he is given an attractive gold chain as a reward for his work.

Besides his chain, he is assured of at least five trips to nearby towns where concerts will be given. According to President S. H. Torchia '27 there is a need for all stringed instrument players, the most prominent of which are the banjo, cello, mandolin, guitar and violin. M. W. O. Thompson is adviser of the organization and Torchia is the active director.

Following his victory over Lebnron Valley last Saturday, the Penn State gridiron machine will enter the challenged arena tomorrow to encounter a strong aggregation from Franklin and Marshall in a contest which promises thrills and surprises for the spectators.

The lineup which goes against the Lancaster combination tomorrow afternoon on New Beaver Field will be changed in several respects from that which started against the Annville Collegians a week ago. New men will be seen in the line and injuries have made necessary switches in the backfield.

Although Bez is undecided as to the complete eleven which will meet the initial whistle and although he is dissatisfied with the showing of the Varsity against the freshman and second teams for the past week, he is sure that the men who stack up against the main-liners will uphold the reputation of the Nittany Lion on the gridiron.

Franklin and Marshall Strong

Coach Charlie Maysler, F. and M. team journeyed to State College with a won from Albright under its belt. Against Albright, the Blue and White of the Lancaster institution tallied fifteen points—two touchdowns, a six-point safety and a field goal.

Although the booters handle the ball well in midfield and advance the ball repeatedly to within scoring distance the final push seems to be lacking in the daily games. Coach Ralph Leonard hopes to overcome this handicap in the week of practice remaining before the opening game and is drilling the line in goal shooting for this purpose.

FRATERNITY PICTURES TO BE TAKEN SUNDAY

First Section of La Vie Group Photo Appointments Is Announced

Group pictures for the first section of the fraternities will be taken in front of the steps of the Carnegie Library Sunday afternoon. The initial photograph will be snapped at one-fifteen o'clock.

It is imperative that each fraternity be on hand at the time allotted to it as all the pictures must be taken on two afternoons. The remainder of the fraternities will be photographed two weeks later, Sunday, October eighteenth.

This novel idea of taking the group pictures, out of doors has been chosen as it will give clearer and better cuts, on account of the natural lighting effect. The time appointments for the first group of fraternities are as follows:
