AWAY DULL CARE

Pennsylvania Day! Magic words to more than three thousand undergraduates. Words that supplant dull care and classroom worries with house parties and gay pleasures, words that signify a week-end of social activities. Beginning tonight and extending over tomorrow, Penn State casts aside the drab cloak of regular routine, ready to celebrate Pennsylvania Day and the official inauguration of the campus social season.

To Penn State's guests, the COLLEGIAN bids a hearty welcome. May then stay convince them of the greatness of Penn State. May then impressions be of the best. May they witness a fighting Nittany Lion on the gridiron, as well as a college spirit that rises to great heights on such an occasion. May the fraternities and clubs convince these guests of the good fellowship and mutual understanding that exists in the Nittany Valley.

Let the graybeards mutter and moan of the ruination of scholarship, of prodigal extravagance and of unintelligent youth. Let them declaim now, for they have had their time. Today Penn State throws away dull care and forgets the wail of an older generation.

WHAT PRICE COLLEGE?

Expectancy binging with it in the thought of the future. Then realization, followed by disillusionment, disappointment and a little bit of sorrow. And there you have the impressions of the average man before and after entering college. A glorified Utopia is the university, thinks the average American boy or girl. College—a word that is designed to perform greater miracles than Aladdin's lamp without even the effort of rubbing.

The word college has the same appeal as a circus sideshow—it awakens our inquisitive instinct. Mention college and one thinks not of a melting pot which is designed to awaken men and women to the true values of life, but as an institution which has been invented to meet the social needs of an unsocialistic age. Dr. J. B. Findlay, formerly of the University of California, senses something amiss. He declares, "When I sit in a classroom and look at a male student who hides his mental weakness and moral unfitness behind a coat of powder and cosmetics I wonder which way our civilization is headed."

Dr. Findlay's example is appropriate; the student leans with some success to hide what is within him. His college education gives him a veneer—the graduate dances rather well, he can eat with ambassadors and give them some points on etiquette, he can carry his share of the cross-table chatter. But while the veneer is being laid, what comes of the foundation material beneath? What becomes of that stuff of which his illusions were born? Like the soft flush of dawn, enhancing the finer things, leaving the baser untouched, it is gone with the glare of mid-day.

What price college? The average undergraduate pays more for an education than he realizes. He pays in that he loses a little personality and a little individuality—blasted is the illusionment of youth. The colleges and universities of today must recognize the task that confronts them. They must change this disillusionment into illusionment, illusionment that brings back with it the joy with which the expectancy was heralded. And if they fail to do this, if they fail to furnish their students with this appreciation of values, their walls should crumble away to give place to something greater.

HARRIERS MEET ORANGE IN DUAL RUN TOMORROW

with Pittsburgh, the Syracuseans were prevented from having a perfect score when Coblett, of the Smoketown institution, finished third. All other places were captured by the Orange, the final score being 19 to 45.

Despite the enviable record set up by Syracuse teams of the past, Nittany respects his tutelage to crash through tomorrow and take the meet or at least keep the Orange to a low score. The time set by Barclay on the new four and on-half mile course in the trials was twenty-seven minutes and Nittany thinks that each of his first four men is able to better that time by at least a half-minute.

SAWMILL SCHOOL CLOSURES AFTER WEEK OF ACTIVITY

from Philadelphia, where he Brewer of the School of Agriculture delivered an address on "The Service of the Pennsylvania State College to the People of the State." Professor Brewer's speech was followed by numerous verbal expostions on phases of the lumbering industry. Potable Sawmill Week terminated yesterday with a discussion led by the speaker of previous meetings. Unusual interest was manifested by other institutions who are contemplating the introduction of such events in their localities.

CRABAPPLE CLUB HEARS HORTICULTURISTS SPEAK

Featured by talks from two well known horticulturists, Dr. C. D. Hadley, State Entomologist, and Mr. C. J. Tyson, of Florida, the Crabapple Club held a meeting in Room 100 Hort last night. The speakers addressed the students on the problems of the present day fruit grower.

After the meeting had been called to order by R. W. Tyson '26, president of the club and son of Mr. Tyson, Dr. Hadley was introduced to the audience. His topic was "State Protection for Fruit Growers." Dr. Hadley was once a member of the agricultural faculty at Penn State but is now stationed at Harrisburg. He has also served at Harrisburg. He has also served as the State Entomologist of New Jersey.

ARMY OFFICER REVIEWS PENN STATE REGIMENT

After inspecting the entire R. O. T. C. unit Monday afternoon on the drill field, Clarence Deems Jr., of the War Department, Washington, D. C., left for other hand grant colleges in the Third Corps Area.

On Monday Mr. Deems went through the records of all the students taking the basic and advanced courses in military training. He also attended the classes which were held because of inclement weather. Mr. Deems personally questioned the students enrolled in the first and second years of the basic courses and those taking the first and second years of the advanced course.

The results of this inspection, which also included an examination of the stock rooms of the department, will be reported to the headquarters of the War Department and the Third Corps Area.

STUDENT COUNCIL SETS WEDNESDAY FOR SCRAP

from noon until midnight Saturday. The proposal that freshmen wear R. O. T. C. uniforms and march behind the band to football games was rejected.

President D. D. Henry '26 asked the council members to consider means of relieving the congestion in the hallways and on the stairs of Old Main between periods. The matter was tabled until the next meeting, when it will again be discussed.

A committee consisting of H. W. Cohen '26, chairman, H. L. Kellner '26, and A. L. Haslins '28 was appointed to act in conjunction with the Y. M. C. A. to conduct a prize contest among students for the best definition of "School Spirit."

The names of the seven men elected to Blue Key Society were ratified.

self to the official barber. A molasses feed and ladies' attire were added for good measure.

Proving the penalty for refusing to make a paddle for a sophomore, Israel Wildeman will carry a paddle four feet and a half long, six inches wide and one inch thick. "I couldn't find wood for a paddle," will be the title of his pastebord.

Stylish Mittens
 P. C. Hibbel was found guilty of putting his hands in his pockets and will be required to wear a sign reading, "My hands were cold" and will also wear a pair of boxing gloves to keep his hands warm.

There were fifteen other cases of minor importance before the organization and signs were distributed in most cases with the exception of three who were excused.

The Tribunal announces that customs will be off from noon till midnight tomorrow.

1929 GRIDDERS CLASH WITH SYRACUSE CUBS

Not only have the forwards won a reputation on the defensive, but they are also expert in opening up gaps for the backs to plough through on the offensive. With the advantage in weight on the Nittany side this advantage will be offset.

Goldman and Baysinger of the visiting backfield will probably be the hardest of the Orange backs to bring down. Opposing this combination Coach Heimann will have a ground-gaming machine of note in Neal, Wolf, Whitmore and Monahan. The ability of the first three to cover territory was manifested in the opening game while Monahan has made consistent gains in the daily scrimmages.

The probable lineup is as follows:

Penn State	Syracuse
Delp..... L. E.	Winek
McAndrews..... L. T.	Tweety
Hillen..... L. G.	Kopp
Wolslayer..... C.	Nicoello
Wille..... R. G.	Newman

Why You Need This Guide
 "It is safe to say that failure to guide and direct study is the weak point in the whole educational machine." Prof. G. D. Whipple, University of Michigan
 "The successful men in college do not seem to be very happy. Most of them, especially the athletes are overworked." Prof. H. S. Gantt, Yale
 "Undirected labor, though honest and well intentioned may lead to naught.
 Among the most important things for the student is here is how to study. Without knowledge of this his labor may be largely in vain." Prof. G. I. Swain, M. I. T.
 "To students who have never learnt 'How to Study,' work is very often a chastisement, a frustration, and an insuperable obstacle to enjoyment." Prof. A.
 L. Phillips, Harvard

Kew-Bee Bread

"The Bread with the Better Taste"

just ask your grocer to send you a loaf today. Let its goodness speak for itself. Then you'll probably want to place a standing order for the bread with your neighborhood dealer.

Not only is this loaf the kind that gives thorough bread satisfaction but it has a distinctively better taste. It certainly should because we put into it good, rich and wholesome ingredients; day in and day out we bake it in the same scientific way—and then we wrap it carefully to protect it from our ovens to your table.

There's no necessity of baking bread when you can buy such a loaf as ours. It's the kind of bread that says "Come out of the kitchen."

Bread and meat is always a convenient and nutritious combination, particularly in sandwich form, when appetites are not overly keen or when you want a meal
 in a hurry.
