Notices

The Penn State Club will meet Monday night at seven o'clock in Old Chapel.

There will be a rehearsal of the Mandolin Club Monday night at eight o'clock in the Bird room.

The Outing Club will hold an all-day hike on Sunday, leaving the Botany Building at nine-thirty o'clock. On Monday evening at seven o'clock, Prof. G. R. Green of the Nature Study department will speak to the club in Room 311 Old Main.

INTERCOLLEGIATE PLAY TOURNAMENT WILL BE HELD AT PENN STATE

Seven Pennsylvania institutions enter shows—Two winners will receive cups

Followers of the footlights in this part of the State will be given an especial treat when seven comedies performed by as many clubs from various colleges in Pennsylvania stage their productions in the first intercollegiate tournament on December fourth and fifth at Penn State.

Three of the seven shows will be produced on the first night in the Auditorium. "Suppressed Desires," by Glaspell and Cook is first and will be given by the Dramatic Association of Drexel Institute, Philadelphia.

Second on the list is "Ward Plammy" by Milne which is to be enacted by the Cap and Bells Club of Haverford college. Concluding the entertainment of the first evening is "The Twelve Pound Book" by Barre given by the Green Room club of Franklin and Marshall college.

"Playboys" by Pinco will be staged first on the second evening of the tournament. This is presented by the Dramatic club of Grove City college, while the Dramatic Society of Wayneburg college offers "Followers" by Burghouse.

Next in order comes "The Mayor and the Manure" by George Ade and will be presented by the Cap and Dagger of Bucknell university. "The Pot Boiled" by Geisenberg, performed by the Owl and Nightingale club of Gettysburg college, concludes the program of the tournament.

Following the last play comes the awarding of two trophy cups for the first and second honors. The awards are to be decided by Barrett Clark and Roland Holt, both of New York city. Inasmuch as this is the first attempt of its kind to stage a contest statewide in scope there is much interest being taken by followers of all the organizations in the outcome of the affair.

R. L. SACKETT BOOKED FOR MANY ADDRESSES

Engineering Dean Will Speak at Philadelphia, New York and Chicago Gatherings

With many important addresses on his program which will include visits to Chicago, New York and Philadelphia, Dean R. L. Sackett will travel nearly six thousand miles within the next few weeks.

At the annual convention of the Land Grant College Association in Chicago November seventeenth to nineteenth, Dean Sackett will read a paper before the engineering section on "The Value to Industries of Engineering Research at Pennsylvania State College." The paper will describe the scope and the economic value of the investigations carried on here. Evidence shows that the study of mill and elevator fires led to extraordinary savings in property and lives, while the investigation of heat transmission has been of scientific and practical value.

Dean Sackett has also been invited to speak before the Engineers Club of Philadelphia on December first. His subject will be "Non-technical Education for the Industries" in which the purposes and methods of instruction now used by the industries for the training of employees will be explained.

On December second the head of the Engineering School will meet with the committee on Education and Training for the Industries in New York and will act as toastmaster at the Penn State Club dinner in Philadelphia the same night. The next day he will meet with the committee of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education which is investigating engineering. He will also be at the annual convention of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers November thirtieth to December third in New York.

Route number one is recommended by the club because of its shortness and the fact that it avoids all mountain grades. From State College the highway passes through the following towns: Tyrone, Altoona, Hollidaysburg, Ebensburg, Mundy's Corner, Blainville, New Alexandria, Greensburg, Scottsdale, Connelville, Uniontown and Morgantown.

Route number two is the same as number one up until Mundy's Corner is reached when the motorist can turn off to go through Johnstown, Jennerstown, Soweret, Mt. Pleasant, Connelville, Uniontown and Morgantown.

Still another route is afforded by following number two to Jennerstown then to Greensburg, Scottsdale, Connelville, Uniontown and Morgantown.

By turning at Jennerstown and heading for Somerset, Berry, Meyersdale, Gettysburg, Uniontown and Morgantown the follower of the team has still another road from which to choose.

The club warns motorists of a speed trap at Meyersdale and Fanchance.

given promise of developing into a good tackle and Coach Hermann expects to use him in the game tomorrow. The big forward stands over six feet and tops the scales at 185 pounds.

Changes at End

Providing Delp's injury permits him to suit at left end West will probably remain on the bench, but it is likely that West will be Hermann's choice for that berth. At the right terminal berth Loul will be used to halt the Kiski backs. Schultz will cover the area at left.

GRIDDERS DEDICATE NEW WEST VIRGINIA STADIUM

line-man, capable of putting forth his best work when up against a strong team, and since he has been working out with the Varsity for five days, it is not likely that the line will be slowed up.

Four Mountaineers Out

Art Smith, trainer of the West Virginia eleven, yesterday made the statement that four regulars on the Morgantown team stood but a slight chance of getting into the game tomorrow. The men are Captain Blain, guard; Morrison, quarterback; and Fuley and Glenn, halfbacks. The quartet mentioned were found to be pretty well battered after the tussle with Boston college last Saturday, and have had only light work in this week's practice.

Strong substitutes are not at a premium, according to Coach Ira Rodgers, and Straight, Keefe, Hatdy and Greene will probably fill the positions left vacant by the retirement of the Varsity men.

The Mountaineer lineup will probably be as follows: Morris and Otker, ends; Davis and Diehlert, tackles; McHenry and Slaght, guards; Lathrum, center; Morrison, quarterback; Hatdy and Glenn, halfbacks; and Barnum, fullback.

Rodgers has a veteran eleven at the Morgantown university, and most of the players have battled side by side for at least two years.

Variiegated Passing Attack

Together with a well-running backfield, Rodgers has manufactured a versatile passing game. His halfbacks usually are the receivers and the ball is heaved many yards past the line of scrimmage. Long passes, however, are not the only ones used by the Southerners, the short, snappy pass over the line continually being in evidence.

Fake passes and runs, together with the overheads and line plays of Penn State's opponents, have been used by the Lion "foreign team" throughout the week, and have not gained consistently. According to the sentiment expressed on the practice field, the Blue and White should have no trouble in spilling the offensive of the woodsmen and the turning point of the fracas will be the ability of the Lion backs to knife their way through the opposing line.

Nittany Offense Perfected

Michalske's ball-carrying during practice scrimmages against the second Varsity and the yearlings since the Notre Dame game has been especially gratifying, and because of his three-fold accomplishments, Bez has built the attack around the bulky fullback.

Line-backs seem to be the forte of the Lion gridders, and with the forwards playing the same hang-up ball that they have of late, there should be numerous stalling gains through the West Virginny forward defense.

Greene, Pritchard and Lungren, however, are not to be forgotten. Any one of these trio may be called upon to tote the pigskin and add up three or four yards toward a first down.

Line-play has been going great guns and with Captain Gray at center, House and Fink at guards, and McCann and Mann stationed at the tackles, West Virginia is promised a stiff fight in trying to make advances through the "internal quintet" of the Nittany defense.

Ends Doing Good Work

A fast passing attack with the terminals at the receiving end should net many gains for the Beazdekians if the skies are bright and the day crisp and cool. Weston and Wilson, by dint of daily effort, have blossomed into a pair of well-trained wings, and on defense, their cutting in to stop plays around their ends has been a feature of the nightly work-out.

COLLEGE WILL ENTERTAIN STATE HORTICULTURISTS

Wednesday morning and the demonstration in the afternoon at the Bellefonte Central siding.

Students specializing in horticulture will entertain the visitors Wednesday evening in Room 100 Hort with a series of six five-minute speeches dealing with various phases of fruit growing and market gardening and a group of humorous sketches.

Prominent among the entertainment features of the week are the banquet and horse-shoe pitching contest which will be held Thursday afternoon and evening. The contest is open to all except professionals and will be held in front of the green-house at four-thirty o'clock. The banquet to be served at five-thirty o'clock in Room 100 Hort will be novel in that all the food will have come from the college farms and will have been cooked and served by horticulture students. During the dinner the etymologically inclined visitors will have an opportunity to display their erudition in an old-fashioned spelling bee, in which horticultural terms will be used.

Porter R. Taylor, director of the State Bureau of Markets, will lead a discussion which will try to analyze the reason why Pennsylvania fruit growers are not holding Pennsylvania market.

All classes in horticulture will be excused during the week in order that the students may attend the discussions and profit by the program.
