Paul Whiteman Says Penn State Has Extremely Appreciative Student Body

No Sir! Jan Garber isn't the only Victor recording artist who thinks that Penn State is made up of an extremely appreciative student body. Paul Whiteman, that world-renowned exponent of modern jazz music, confided to a group of admirers Tuesday night that "college audiences are easiest to please and quickest to applaud. In my opinion, Penn State ranks among the top-notchers of a long list of colleges at which my concert band has played." That, coming from Whiteman, means something.

WHITEMAN CONCERT DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

Paul Whiteman is called "the most cartooned man in America." According to his idea, this is not because of his ability as a director, as a fiddler, or as a judge of harmony—he says that all a cartoonist must do to put "Paul on paper" is to draw a big, fat, fat, slightly pressed at the sides, use two drops of ink for eyes and make an elongated blot for a mustache.

What the World Court Is

The Statute creating the organization and defining the powers of the International Court of Justice was drawn up by a committee of international jurists of whom Elihu Root was one, and appointed by the Council of the League of Nations February 12, 1920.

TWO VIEWS REGARDING IT

The Coolidge View President Coolidge has strongly advocated entrance of the United States into the World Court, with the following reservations: 1-That such entrance in no way involves relation to the League of Nations, 2-That the United States may participate in the election of judges through representatives designated for the purpose and on an equality with other States, 3-That the United States pay a fair share of the expenses of the Court, 4-That the Statute establishing the Court shall not be amended without the consent of the United States, and 5-That the advisory opinions of the Court shall not be binding on the United States in cases to which we are not a party.
