Mandolin Club Plans Concert

Resuming its semi-weekly practices after the Thanksgiving recess, the Penn State Mandolin Club under the direction of S. H. Torchia '27 is preparing for a concert to be given in the Auditorium on the evening of January fifteenth. The program will consist of popular numbers, marches and other selections. The banjo jazz section composed of sixteen members of the organization will endeavor to further its popularity on the campus gained at the Notre Dame mass meeting by furnishing several snappy selections on the program. In addition to the playing of the jazz section and the compositions by the Mandolin Club as a whole, a string quartet will present various numbers and the director will entertain with banjo and mandolin solos.

PROF. BETCHEL TAKES DEGREE EXAMINATIONS

Following up his work in dairy husbandry which started at Penn State, Prof. S. I. Betchel has recently completed requirements for a master's degree at the University of Minnesota and is now in St. Paul taking the final examinations for the degree. As a thesis for his degree Professor Betchel reported his investigations on the vitamin B requirements for growing cattle. Although general opinion is to the contrary, he stated that growing cattle require little if any vitamin B in their rations. Professor Betchel will return to Penn State the latter part of the week to reassume his duties with the department.

LION BASKETBALL SQUAD HOLDS DAILY PRACTICE

 will remain the same. Although illness may prevent McDonald from playing in the opening game with Juniata on December sixteenth, Greene, Sullivan, Youngkins and Dunn may develop into promising centers. All have the necessary reach and should make the competition for the pivot berth exciting.

Several Veterans Back With Hamas and Hood, forwards on last year's team, on the squad Coach Hermann is well fortified at the forward positions. Hood may be shifted to guard as a wealth of good material is scattered among the aspirants for the forward position. Butler, Lowe, Seivick, Kent, Welker and Belfield are trying to fill the vacancies.

At guard Saylor and Hood are the present outstanding players. Lungen, a member of last year's yearling team is another aspirant, but he has not yet reported to practice because of football. Other members of the squad who have shown promise are Hellmich, Barron, Lamb, Von Neida, Pierce, Meyers and Peak.

"Y" DISCUSSION GROUP LEADERS HOLD MEETING was further defined to include a sense of propriety, broadmindedness, adaptability to all walks of life, to make of one a gentleman. It was also interpreted to mean a development to the final point of education, a sincere regard for others, an appreciation of the better things of life and a general all around development.

ing were to gain wisdom, be in athletics, to have a good time, necessity of attending, and that it was the best thing to do. Inasmuch as this discussion was of a preliminary nature, no conclusions were attempted but they will be sought when the topic comes before the boarding house and fraternity groups.

Views Expressed
 Various viewpoints in conducting such bodies were forwarded by the representatives and questions to aid in a more ready analyzing of the problem were asked. Opinions of others were also brought to bear upon the subject in hand. One student said, "Many students go to college to enable them to get a job in life, which will be the most for the smallest amount of work."

After the discussions in the non-fraternity and fraternity units impressions of student sentiment will be taken and reports will be made at the next meeting of the Leader's Training Group. Mistakes in procedure will be corrected and the campaign will then begin with those key-men as the conductors. It is expected one of the best seasons in the history of such groups at Penn State will be staged.

COLLEGE TO BALLOT ON WORLD COURT IN CHAPEL

 inions of the Court on questions not voluntarily submitted by the United States.

2. For participation under the "Harmony Plan" of thirty peace leaders. (The United States to join the Court under the "Hunting-Hughes-Coolidge Terms" but to withdraw after five years unless a code of international law has been adopted outlawing war, and the Court given jurisdiction.)

3. For United States participation under the "Borah Terms" (The United States not to join the World Court until international law has been codified outlawing war, and the Court given jurisdiction; and the United States not to be thereby connected with the League of Nations.)

4. Against participation in the World Court.

5. Are you disinterested in the World Court question?
APPRECIATIVE AUDIENCE GREET'S PAUL WHITEMAN

 beautiful melody of "Old Circle Days" carried the audience in imagination farther down the majestic stream, and the lively climax "Mardi Gras" completed the program.

Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Hymn to the Sun" adapted to dance rhythm was the next selection. The familiar "Caprice Viennois" of Fritz Kreisler followed and its beauty was heightened by the excellence of the orchestration. The pleasant chords of the "Indian Dawn" completed the second part.

The popular compositions, "Charlestonette," "Ukulele Lady" and "Manhattan" were the next renditions of the "wizard" of jazz. The "Meet the Boys" that came next demonstrated the fact that every member of the orchestra had remarkable ability as a soloist.

Special Numbers
 Turner and Perella, the pianists of the orchestra, playing together many popular numbers were among the first of the soloists on the program. Hall, a master hand on the trombone, violin and cornet vied in popularity with the former two, especially because of his antics with the violin. The program was finished with a burst of "jazz" led by Whiteman.

COLLEGE PLAYERS HOLD TOURNEY AT PENN STATE

 promptly instituted the present society.

The leading figures at the meetings will be Barret Clark and Roland Holt both among the most prominent authorities on the modern drama. Barret Clark was one of the judges in the Little Theatre tournament held in New-York last May.

As managing editor of Samuel French and company and as a director of the Drama League of America Mr. Clark has become interested in amateur theatricals especially in college producing groups. Extensive traveling in Europe has enabled him to write several important books on European theories of drama.

Roland Holt is vice-president of the Henry Holt and company publishing firm and is also a leading dramatic critic. He is a director of the Drama League of America and has acted as director in the New York Drama League, the Century Opera company and the Ontario Society of New York.

A Million Thrills To Thrill Millions
Masterpiece
 Weird, Wild, Mysterious, Magnetic, Magnificent
 Imagination has run riot in this fantastic masterpiece of exciting action. Thrill upon thrill mounts up into a crashing, superlative finish that is genuinely awe-inspiring. You will marvel at the magnificence of the Grand Ball, done in original colors; the scene of a gay Parisian revel; at the mad, wild march of infuriated thousands in pursuit of the Phantom, to exact revenge for his long sway of terror; at the beauty and tenderness of this enthralling love story; at the regal grandeur that permeates its every scene. A picture that the memory will cherish for years!
