ILLINOIS GRADS LEGISLATE

In the Illinois State Legislature are thirteen former students of the University, according to a statement in the Daily Illini.

The members of the upper house are mostly graduates of the old school with the exception of one member who received his sheepskin in 1920. In the lower house, however, Illinois University is represented by the oldest alumnus having graduated at the beginning of this century.

ALUMNAE TO MEET IN PITTSBURGH TOMORROW

Under the leadership of Miss Dorothy Mitchell '24, women graduates of Penn State who reside in the western part of the state have been invited to a luncheon at the Fort Pitt Hotel in Pittsburgh, next Saturday. The object of the gathering is to further the alumnae organization by creating a distinct club. Judge H. W. Mitchell, president of the Board of Trustees, will speak to the group on alumni or alumnae organization.

COVER DESIGN FOR 1927 YEAR BOOK COMPLETED

(Continued from first page.) nov in the hands of the printer. Each book in the La Vie will have an individual design and each section will have a significant inset. This part of the art work is also near completion.

The photographic work has progressed with remarkable rapidity despite the loss caused by the Photo Shop fire. All the group pictures have been taken and the cuts for the junior section are ready to be mounted. A few scattered photographs remain to be taken before the preparation of the annual is complete. An innovation this year will be the elimination of the humor section. This step was necessary as the section was formerly a detriment to the dignity of the book and also has been disregarded by all the better annuals of today.

PRACTICE RESUMED BY VARSITY FLOOR SQUAD

(Continued from first page) yesterday and figured in the practice last night. Welker and Roepke were both being groomed for Hamas' position on the team and showed up well with the first-string combination. Both men displayed considerable ability and will undoubtedly be given an opportunity to display their wares in the coming games.

Hermann has been experimenting with the first team, shifting the positions of the men. In this way he hopes to develop a smooth working machine and to get the best possible results from his material.

Another casualty was suffered in the Varsity ranks when Greene, the lanky substitute center reported with an infected foot. Greene was the strongest contender for MacDonald's berth at the pivot position and although he is not a first stringer he is considered a great asset to the team.

Only two games with class B teams remain on the schedule before the Lion engers tackle combinations of a higher rank and much depends on the showing the Varsity makes within the next few weeks.
