NITTANY RINGMEN WILL BATTLE NAVY MITMEN

(Continued from first page) tory from the Blue and Gold lists arrests and with two veterans and an Intercollegiate champion boxing tomorrow, the Navy team promises to put up a stubborn fight to maintain the record against the Lion's almost untied combination.

McClellan Meets Allen Gans will be pitted against Collins, a veteran of the 1924-25 team. Gans has spent the past week sparring with Captain McClellan in order to improve his form. The Blue and White bantam-weight scored a decision over his Catholic university opponent but dropped his tilt to the Virginia man last Saturday after an extra round. Collins is reported to be doing first class work with the gloves and promises to give Gans a stiff battle.

Taking the squared circle in the twenty-five pound class, Captain McClellan will test the mettle of Allen, a veteran, and described as one of the foremost men in the feather-weight class at the Academy. The Nittany captain has had no trouble in trimming his former opponents this year. He looks well to take over the Blue and Gold boxer Harold Davis, of Penn, pronounced Mac as perhaps one of the cleverest men of his weight in intercollegiate circles. Mac's bouts with Gans have been staged to increase the speed of the scrappy Intercollegiate champion but there is little need for that since he is now a veritable whirlwind in the ring.

Nittany Basketeers To Face Gettysburg Five

(Continued from first page) The Battelfield five has been handicapped in the past by having a small floor on which to conduct its practice sessions. This year, however, the team has worked out on a regulation size court and will be more at home on the Armory floor.

Gettysburg Line-up Gerhardt, captain and center on the team, has been a central cog at Gettysburg for three seasons and is a capable basket-bagger from the floor. The Navy coach, in commenting about the Blue and Gold squad, mentioned Gerhardt as one of the fastest and best players he has seen this season.

Barboun and Bream, both veterans at guard, are capable players, and aided by their husky build, may spell trouble for Saylor and Captain Hood. Tucky, veteran forward, is light but fast and is a skillful dribbler.

Gettysburg has kept practically the same line-up since the beginning of the season, and aided by the experienced men, has perfected a smooth-working quintet. Coach Heermann has been forced to change the Nittany line-up repeatedly and as a result, the team is not organized as well as it might be this late in the season.

The loss of Mike Hymas, Joseph's injury and Lungren's lateness in reporting have made the changes necessary. The Blue and Gold may be physically handicapped because of the game with Dickinson played Wednesday evening, while the Nittany passers have enjoyed light workouts this week.

FRATERNITY RINGSTERS SHOW UNUSUAL ANTICS

The Phi Kappa Sigma and the Phi Gamma Delta boxing outfits squared off in what was the curtain lifter of the 1926 Interfraternity competition, before the square was completed the boxers gave unmistakable indications that they had partaken of too much beefsteak or ice-cream or whatever else their caterer had provided them at the evening meal. They were plainly fatigued, in fact as the final bell sounded a smile crept over the faces of the contestants. It was difficult to discern whether the grin was a symbol of triumph or if it was because the bout was ended. As has been hinted, the Phi Gam contingent cumulated, to a more perfect degree, Jack Dempsey, than did their adver-

Penn State To Engage Cornell in Stiff Meet

(Continued from first page) pound class, has reached the well-known pink, and will lead his mates Saturday. In the next highest division Ace, Long and Smith are battling for supremacy, with no one having any distinct advantage.

Packard and Dowd are contending for the fifty-eight pound berth, with the former holding a slight edge. The burly sophomore has come up considerably during the week, and will most likely compete against the Red grappler in his class. Recovering from a mild attack of grippe which weakened him for the Syracuse struggle, Rumbaugh has worked strenuously in preparation for the Cornell seventy-five pounder and the Lion veteran should give a good account of himself.

Garrison Injured Handicapped by a shoulder bruised in a practice tussle with Prevost last week, Pop Garrison, hero of the Syracuse meet, has been forced to take things easy. However, he has worked out daily and will represent the Blue and White in the unlimited class. Should his injury prove troublesome, Munz will fill the breach.

The Cornell team consists of seven veterans, all of whom participated in the Intercollegiate last year. The Red grapplers are not brilliant individually, yet the combination is so balanced as to be decidedly dangerous.

Cornell Aggressive Loeb, rangy fifteen pounder, will probably grapple for the Red in his weight. He pinned Sorvas of Penn to the mats in six minutes in the first meet of the season, but was unable to wrestle against R. P. I. because of illness.

Despite a defeat at the hands of McDonald, Quaker twenty-five pounder, Eisenhauer has shown a great deal of wrestling ability. He obtained a decisive time advantage over the R. P. I. representative and will tangle with Liggett tomorrow
