

FRATERNITY WRESTLERS TO GRAPPLE NEXT WEEK

Matches Scheduled for Tonight And Next Friday Held Over Until Future Dates

Grappling to determine Greek championship, interfraternity wrestling teams will meet in first-round matches on the Army mats next week on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings at eight-thirty. Matches originally scheduled for tonight and next Friday have been postponed indefinitely.

As arranged, the schedule calls for two matches each night. Each team will wrestle five bouts, the respective weights being 120, 135, 150, 165 and 180 pounds. Participants must weigh in at the Army on the afternoon of the meet at five-thirty o'clock. The rules permit three pounds leeway. Matches, refereed by varsity wrestlers, will begin promptly at eight-thirty.

Following the preliminaries, championship matches will be run off. The winning team will be presented with a silver loving cup. Last year's winners were won by Phi Kappa Tau grapplers.

The schedule for the coming week is as follows: Tuesday—Alpha Sigma Phi vs. Phi Kappa Sigma and Lambda Chi Alpha vs. Delta Kappa Sigma; Wednesday—Tau Phi Delta vs. Delta Upsilon and Phi Kappa Tau vs. Alpha Phi Sigma; Thursday—Omega Mu Rho vs. Phi Kappa Alpha and Delta Sigma Phi vs. Sigma Phi Sigma. Those scheduled matches that have been postponed are: Sigma Phi Epsilon vs. Tau Kappa Epsilon and Alpha Tau Omega vs. Tau Sigma Phi and Sigma Pi vs. Alpha Chi Sigma. Friends Union drew a bye.

COUNCILMEN CONSIDER IMPORTANT QUESTIONS

(Continued from first page) The junior class each year will act as custodian of this material and shall place it in the hands of the library for filing. The Junior historian will also collect material of general interest.

Propose Calendar Change

A committee consisting of A. L. Hinkins '27 and E. V. Roberts '26 was appointed to interview authorities relative to advancing the date for the start of the Easter holidays. The use of the main gateway by the freshman class was also proposed and the final judgment was left to R. I. Wehler, superintendent of grounds and buildings.

The proposal of Donald Wyman '26 to invite Harry S. Warner, prominent authority on campus problems and editor of the International Student, to speak here was discussed and while the Council encouraged his coming, the opinion was that Mr. Warner's conference with the student leaders would not alone solve Penn State problems. W. F. Paik '26 also proposed that Student Council investigate some method of assisting the "Y" in publishing the student handbook.

PENN STATE PROFESSOR ADDRESSES CONVENTION

Prof. L. A. Doggett, department of Electrical Engineering, appearing at the annual mid-winter convention of the American Institute of Electrical Engineering, held in New York city from February eighth to thirteenth presented a paper entitled, "A New Wave Shape Factor and Meter."

The local instructor, in collaboration with Prof. M. W. White, physics department, and J. W. Heim, graduate student in the electrical engineering department, prepared the tract.

Accompanying these three instructors to New York was Prof. C. L. Kinsloe, head of the electrical engineering department here. In the course of the convention, J. L. Rylander '09, now affiliated with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company of Philadelphia, read to the electrical experts a paper on "A High Frequency Voltage for Insulation of Rotating Electrical Apparatus."

SIX FRATERNITIES SET PACE IN CAGE TOURNAMENT

(Continued from first page) some almost impossible position at the side of the basket. Displaying excellent footwork, Tau Sigma Phi completely swamped Alpha Zeta in the final game of the night. The first half ended with the former team leading 10-0, but in the final period Alpha Zeta passers succeeded in checking their opponents while they managed to roll up four points themselves. The final score was 16-4.

The game scheduled between Theta Chi and Phi Kappa Psi was postponed by mutual agreement and will be played sometime next week, according to H. L. Fritschman '27, manager of interfraternity basketball. Other preliminary games will be played next week and will be announced in Tuesday's issue of the COLLEGIAN.

DICKINSON VISITED BY STUDENT VOLUNTEERS

Chinese Secretary Discusses Canton College Work With Delegates

Penn State's delegation to the Eastern Pennsylvania conference of the Student Volunteer movement, held at Dickinson college last week, was furnished much valuable information concerning the Canton Christian college at Canton, China, by Mr. Y. T. Wu, Y. M. C. A. secretary for Chinese students in America.

Mr. Wu, together with Mr. Earl Cranston, who has resided in China for many years, met with the Penn State representatives and discussed the problems of Penn State's "Child in the Orient," and the students brought back with them a first-hand version of the work and needs of the institution.

The convention itself was a study of conditions in China. It made an attempt to get at the industrial, international, educational, racial and medical situation in China clearly and, with this background, to understand their effect on modern missions.

Civilization vs. Christianity

The type of workers necessary and the qualifications of people who are contemplating work in China were clearly brought out. It was also shown that the day of the missionary worker, in the religious sense, in China is past. The present-day missionary in China attempts to teach civilization rather than to impart a rudimentary knowledge of Christianity.

The outstanding speakers of the convocation were Mr. Cranston, Miss Jean Dickinson, Mr. Wu, who is at present a student at Union Seminary, D. Ansell, who has devoted many years of her life to medical practice among the Chinese, Mrs. Beatrice Kitchen the secretary of the National board and Y. W. C. A. representative, and Mr. L. M. Miller, the State Student secretary, who represented the Y. M. C. A.

Next year, this conference, which includes all colleges of New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania, with the exception of Philadelphia institutions, will be held at Penn State.

ARMY POSTS OPEN FOR SENIOR CADET OFFICERS

Competitive Examinations Will Pick Students for Places Remaining Vacant

One hundred second lieutenants for the regular army and twenty probationary lieutenants for the United States Marine Corps will be appointed this year from institutions maintaining senior R. O. T. C. units. All cadet officers who meet the government requirements may submit their names as candidates with the military department at the Army. Lieutenant-colonel McLaughlin has just received a communication from Adjutant-general R. K. Cravens of the War department, Washington, estimating one hundred vacancies of second lieutenant grade in the regular army after the appointments of this year's class at the United States Military Academy.

These vacancies are to be filled wholly or in part from successful candidates taking the regular competitive examinations in June.

According to the War department, there will be so many applying for the one hundred vacancies that it also would be profitable for senior cadet officers to try for the Marine Corps positions.

Adjutant-general Cravens states in part: "It being evident that the available supply will exceed the procurement demand for the regular army in the grade of second lieutenant, the professors of Military Science and Tactics at distinguished colleges and other institutions within the third corps area, are instructed to render such co-operation in the procurement of second lieutenants, probationary, for the United States Marine Corps, as it is not inconsistent with the best interests of the Army."

Armory Bedecked for Formal Ball Tonight

Favors Novelty and beauty are combined in the Indian love bracelets which have been selected as favors for the affair.

The circlets are fashioned of silver and are set with stones and embossed with a military seal. Orders for additional favors will be received at the door should the supply prove insufficient.

Elaborate programs with a red and blue color motif will be distributed to the dancers. Each quartet contains several pages for autographs and provision for the listing of twelve dances and encores.

Every R. O. T. C. unit in the country will hold its military ball this evening. Numerous invitations have been sent to ranking officials in governmental and army posts, and it is expected that a few notables will be able to attend.

The committee desires that the ball be strictly formal. Spaces for fraternity booths, were all sold by Wednesday noon, indicating a large crowd for the evening. Tickets will be available at the door for $3.50.

Yearling Passers Face Bellefonte Tomorrow

(Continued from first page) bid for a guard berth. The Easton lad has demonstrated exceptional ability in scoring from the floor and he may be injected into the contest at any stage.

In Koeh and McKeown, Killinger has a capable pair of guards who can perform creditably in substitute roles. Accuracy in long-distance shooting has brought Brownston to the fore and he may fill in as either center or forward. Saylor and Reinhold may be counted on as forward substitutes.

Academy Strong With a record of ten wins out of twelve starts, the Bellefonte academy five is a formidable foe. Traditionary rivalry between the two institutions has always been an added incentive to county-seat teams, and Coach Killinger expects a last-ditch fight.

In Captain Bowers, Academy center, Coach Snavely has a fast floor man and a dangerous shot. The lanky pivot is leading his mates in the number of double-doubles registered and also has a good average from the foul mark.

Rankin, former star of the Uniontown High school team, State cham-

Champion, is the individual light of the squad. Paired with Meyers at forward, he has broken through opposition in previous contests and will bear close watching.

McGuveron, bulky guard, won all western-Pennsylvania recognition last year, and is the bulwark around which the academy defense is built. Robbins holds down the other guard position. As substitutes Coach Snavely has men of such calibre as Hood, fleet halfback on the Academy eleven, Housholder and Doud.

Outclass Gettysburg The Bellefonte quintet gave a conclusive demonstration of its power when it sent the Gettysburg plebe five home on the short end of a 41-20 score. The Nittany yearlings defeated the Battlefield boys by a count of 44-22.

Return games with California Normal netted the county-seat dribblers an even break. On their home floor, the Academy passers nosed out the visitors, 35-34 but were swept aside on the Normal court.
