JEAN GOLDKETTE BOOKED TO PLAY AT JUNIOR PROM

Latest Disc of Famed Recording Combination Released at Music Room Today

"BEST DANCE ORCHESTRA IN COUNTRY"—KAUFMAN

Ten Men Comprise Personnel of Organization—Goldkette Has Singing Entertainers

Jean Goldkette and His Orchestra, prominent Victor recording artists, and cited by New York city's theatrical magazines as "the hottest band in town," have been secured to play for the Junior Prom on Friday evening, April twenty-third.

Goldkette is at present finishing a tour of the East in the Greystone Ballroom in Detroit. His latest Victor record, now on reserve at Gramham's and the Music Room, will be released today. On one side Goldkette's twelve instrumentalists roared through the intricate arrangement of "Dinah" with ease, while "After I Say I'm Sorry" on the other side of the disc is one of his best numbers. The latter has a vocal refrain.

Famous Duo

The Dorsey brothers, one a saxophonist and the other an expert on the trombone, are members of Goldkette's orchestra. The band consists of pianist, drummer, four saxophonists, banjoist, two trumpeters, trombonist, a bass horn artist and Goldkette himself as violinist and conductor.

Although each of the members of the band is a soloist upon his listed instrument, at least seven of the men are able to "double" on other instruments. During the evening of the Prom, Goldkette plans to present his original version of "the keenest five-piece band in Darktown." Goldkette (Continued on third page)

PLEBE PASSERS OPPOSE PITT YEARLING QUINTET

Killingier Undecided on Line-up For Contest—Regulars in Ragged Condition

Determined to finish the season with an unblemished record, the Penn State yearling basketball team will stack up against the Pitt plebes on at six-thirty o'clock.

The plebe showing in the Syracuse contest was far from satisfactory to Coach Killingier and he has been driving his proteges during the week in an effort to whip them into shape for the last game of the season. Conditioning runs were prescribed for the yearlings, who have sustained a slump.

Line-up Uncertain

Infraction of training rules has caused the temporary demotion of several first-string players, and it is not certain as to who will take the floor at the opening whistle tomorrow evening. Killingier has welded together an entirely new combination which may displace the regular quartet. Brownstein, who has been alternating at center and forward, will probably receive the call at one of the advance posts, although Monahan is pushing him; Hams and Reinhold are struggling for the other forward berth, with the latter holding a slight edge because of superior condition.

Despite an attack of la grippe, Reilly has been handling the pivot position, where he will doubtless be stationed tomorrow. The lanky center lacked stamina in practice sessions, but should round into top form. Captain Delp, Wilson, McKeown, Foch and Horne are contesting for the guard berths, with the first-named pair favored because of their experience. However, any of the others may receive the call. In the mid-week scrimmages, the entire squad appeared to be off color, but Coach Killingier expects it to take a brace before it encounters the Panther cubs.

Pitt Line-up

Captain McCandless and Parry are slated to occupy the forward berths for Pitt against the yearlings. Both are clever passers and accurate shots, the former being high scorer of the team. Wondelich, who scored three field shots in the previous game with the Blue and White cubs passers, will again jump center, while Meyer and other Skinner or McLean will hold down the guard positions.

LION FIVE CLOSES SEASON WITH PITT ON ARMORY FLOOR

Capt. Hood, MacDonald, Roepke, VonNeida, Lungren To Begin For Blue and White

PANTHERS WIN TEN AND LOSE FIVE ENCOUNTERS

Pittites Have Already Beaten Nittany Warriors 30-26 On Foreign Court

Smarting under the sting of defeat at the hands of Penn and Syracuse in the last two games, the Penn State quintet will complete its schedule tomorrow night when it battles the Pitt varsity on the Armory floor at seven o'clock. Earlier in the season the Panther downed the Lion 30 to 26.

If the Blue and White dribblers continue their regular order of winning and losing they are set to emerge the victor. After taking the first three contests of the schedule the Nittany passers have been annexing and dropping in pairs ever since. The struggle with Pitt marks the beginning of a pair of supposed wins. Chase Lost to Pitt Pitt comes to the Nittany valley raked by the loss of Chase, center, who was expelled from the team a few weeks ago because of a physical attack upon an official of the game. To fill Chase's place Coach Carlson has Rihaneq or McMahon, both of whom are rangy jumpers. Captain Bill Parsons will hold down a forward position with Kowallis as running mate.

Both Lasselt and Reed are to eavort in the defense jobs. Coach Carlson has Rihaneq, guard, Wroblecki, forward and Salata, guard, for reserves. All of these men, except Parsons, will be available for varsity duty again next year.

Hermann's Selection

As the Blue and White line-up, Coach Hermann may use Captain Hood and Roepke in the forward berths, MacDonald at center and Lungren and Von Neida at the guard positions. Baron, Saylor, Hams, Kent and Welker are to be held in reserve. Although the first-named outfit has been showing spasms of real basketball-playing at various times during the year, the playing has not been consistent. "Only in the Syracuse game on the home floor," Coach Hermann remarked, "did the boys show any real determination."

Since Lungren reported for duty just before the game with Navy the squad has been materially bolstered. Not only has he proved to be a consistent guard but he has always been among the leaders in the scoring column. (Continued on last page)

CO-ED MARKSMAN HOLDS INTERCOLLEGIATE RECORD

Miss E. A. Bullock Makes Sixth Perfect Target To Set Up High Scoring Mark

Although defeated by the female shooters of the University of Cincinnati in the match last week, Penn State now holds the women's intercollegiate record for individual high scoring. This record was made by Miss E. A. Bullock '27, who shot her sixth successive perfect target in the Cincinnati match, and replaces the old mark of four successive perfect scores fired last year by a Drexel sharpshooter.

The Oklahoma match to be fired this week is well under way, and the total scoring is expected to be high. This match is the finals of the co-ed's first intercollegiate rifle season, with the exception of the international match the Nittany women will be pitted against sharpshooters from various colleges and universities throughout the country. The award of a large silver loving cup to the winning team in the tournament is expected to further the organization of a National League of Women Shooters.

BELL CO. SEEKS MEN

A committee from the Bell Telephone company is in State College this week interviewing all seniors who will graduate in electrical engineering in June. The object of the committee is to look over the men in the class and pick probable candidates for positions in the various branches of the Bell system.

COLLEGE WOMEN TO HOLD BANQUET

Celebrating its tenth anniversary, the Central Pennsylvania branch of the American Association of University Women will give its annual dinner Monday evening, March fifteenth at six o'clock in the Women's Building. Miss Clara C. Phillips of Washington, Pennsylvania, the first woman trustee of Penn State, will be present as guest of honor. In the plans for entertainment, many novel features have been introduced by the committee of which Mrs. David Allen Anderson is chairman.

Following an established precedent, the home economics students, now managing the Practice House, will have entire charge of planning and serving the dinner.

DRUID CONVENTION OPENS HERE TODAY

Society Will Consider Expansion Into Lafayette, Bucknell And Dartmouth

LOCAL CHAPTER HOLDS BANQUET FOR VISITORS

Considering the extension of the Druid Society to several other colleges, notably Dartmouth, Lafayette and Bucknell, all five Druid chapters will meet at Penn State today and tomorrow for their annual convention. The institutions in which the national Druid society is established are the University of Pittsburgh, Washington and Jefferson college, University of Delaware, Carnegie Institute of Technology and Penn State.

When the representatives of the Society meet to discuss the affairs of the group tonight, they will be banqueted at the Kappa Sigma house by the local chapter. Professor M. M. Harris, of the English department, will act as an honorary member of the Society, will act as toastmaster during the evening. Tomorrow night a Druid dance will be given at the Sigma Nu house.

Society Established Here

The Druid Society was established at Penn State in 1907 as a sophomore society exclusively. Its active membership, limited to fifteen men, is chosen in the spring from those freshmen who have achieved leadership and class distinction and in the fall from outstanding second year men.

According to the Druids' code, all members are bound "to promote the welfare of the college and the class; to foster and promote the spirit of the organization."

CHAPLAIN SPEAKS SUNDAY IN PLACE OF DR. ALEXANDER

Taking the service because Dr. Albert J. Alexander of the First Presbyterian church of Beaver, Pennsylvania, has cancelled his appointment, Dr. Ray H. Dotterer, associate professor of Philosophy and acting chaplain, will speak at Sunday. He will have his talk on the parable of the sower. Dr. Dotterer, prior to 1918, when he became a member of the Penn State faculty, held Reformed charges at Rockwood, Baltimore and State College, having been graduated from the Theological Seminary at Lancaster in 1906.

At Franklin and Marshall college, Dr. Dotterer received his Ph. D. in 1906 and his Ph. M. in 1910. At Johns Hopkins university, his M. A. was conferred upon him in 1916 and a Ph. D. degree in 1917. Dr. Alexander, scheduled speaker, has promised to talk at a later date.

STRIKING STUDENTS RAP UNJUSTIFIED DISCIPLINE

Because students say he told them that the abolition of compulsory chapel had as much chance at St. Stephen's college as "a snowball in hell," and had attempted to enforce unjust disciplinary measures, Dr. B. I. Bell, president of the college, is now facing the walkout of eighty-eight of his one hundred and twenty-one students. According to the New York HERALD-TRIBUNE, leaders in the revolt did not approach an amicable settlement with Dr. Bell on Tuesday. Dr. Bell vigorously denies that he has ever taken disciplinary measures except on a certain matter of recommending five seniors on a committee. Should the eighty-eight strikers leave St. Stephen's, a Protestant Episcopal college at Annandale-on-Hudson, Dr. Bell will be left with thirty-three students.

DRAMATISTS STAGE POPULAR MYSTERY THRILLER TONIGHT

"The Seventh Guest" Acclaimed Outstanding Melodrama By Chicago Critics

ACTORS PORTRAY ROLES IN ADMIRABLE FASHION

Gripping Situations, Suspense and Comedy Abound in Progress of Play

"The Seventh Guest," regarded as one of the outstanding mystery plays of the year by Chicago audiences, will be presented by the Penn State Players in the Auditorium tonight at eight-fifteen o'clock.

With "The First Year" so successfully produced last Saturday, the Players will try to duplicate or even exceed the popularity of that comedy by this racy melodrama written by Innis Osborne and A. J. Aubrey. A play of this type has not been on the Penn State boards since "Seven Keys to Baldpate" was acted here last year.

Cast Performs Well

According to D. D. Mason who is coaching "The Seventh Guest," the cast has mastered the difficult situation which abounds in tonight's production. Jackson Wheatley '28, as the male lead, admirably portrays the role of Paul Scott, a young man who is seeking his father's murderer. The action covers a single evening at the "Hermitage," a house opposite New York City and towering on the Palisades above the Hudson River. Suspense, comedy and gripping predicaments crowd the play with thrills.

Critics who have followed the long run of "The Seventh Guest" in Chicago acclaim it one of the best mystery plays of the year. Following its showing at State College, this thriller will be presented in New York City by the Century Play company.

COMMERCE STUDENTS TO HEAR ORMEROD TONIGHT

Delta Sigma Pi Secures Bell Telephone Official for Advertising Talk

Coming to Penn State as the first speaker in the proposed lecture series of Delta Sigma Pi, professional commerce fraternity, Mr. Leonard Ormerod, general information manager of the Bell Telephone company, will talk on "Advertising" in Old Chapel, tonight at seven o'clock.

Mr. Ormerod comes to Penn State from an eastern tour during which he addressed student organizations at New York City college, Franklin and Marshall and the University of Pennsylvania. Following his lecture here he will leave for Pittsburgh and Carnegie Tech.

Although the subject chosen by Mr. Ormerod is of special interest to students in Commerce and Finance it is not of a technical nature and should be of interest to anyone. In order that the address will not come at the same hour as the Players' show the play will not begin until after the lecture is finished.

Providing this first lecture is well attended Delta Sigma Pi will manage a lecture series and will induce prominent speakers to come here.

FORENSIC ARTISTS MEET RUTGERS AND LAFAYETTE

Nittany Combination to Argue On Affirmative of League of Nations Question

With the hope of avenging a double defeat at the hands of Rutgers in 1924, a Penn State debating team composed of J. J. Bieman '26, J. W. Brandt '29 and S. K. Stevens '26 left there to match wits with the strong Rutgers team.

The Nittany combination will argue on the affirmative side of the question "Resolved That the League of Nations Should Enter the League of Nations." Although Bieman and Stevens have been supporting the negative side of this argument all extension students, who are preparing for the affirmative, they will be quite capable of upholding their end, according to D. D. Henry '26, coach. The third position is ably filled by Brandt, a freshman who has come to the front by his fluency of speech and keenness in attack.

After the encounter with Rutgers, the Penn State team will depart for Easton to engage Lafayette in a debate tomorrow evening on the same (Continued on third page)

1929 Class Histories Called In For La Vie

All freshmen desiring to submit histories of the class of 1929 for the La Vie should have them in the hands of R. D. Dundore, editor-in-chief, at the Chi Phi house not later than Monday evening. Five manuscripts will be selected which are considered the best and these will be turned over to Prof. M. M. Harris for a final choice. The freshman whose manuscript is selected automatically becomes Class Historian, which post he holds during his term in college.

Ohio U. Engages Matmen As Orange Tries Boxers

Lions To Be Tried By Conference Champs In Final

WCODELL AND KEEK ARE POWERFUL CONTENDERS

Coming to Penn State with a powerful combination, the Ohio university grapplers will attempt to break the winning streak of the Blue and White wrestlers in the Armory at three-thirty o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The Ohio university team is reputed to be one of the strongest in the state and last Saturday saw it crowned the champion team of the Ohio Conference. The Athens matmen grappled their way to the fore with a total of twenty points, while their nearest rival was Ohio Wesleyan with a twelve point tally.

Kaiser and Packard

Practise this week has been strenuous and Coach Leonard has devoted much of his time priming his men for the last dual meet of the season. Both Freddy Kaiser and Packard face the probability that they may be unable to enter the meet tomorrow. Packard sustained a torn muscle injury at the meet with Navy last Saturday and Kaiser is still bothered with his left hand. A substitute for the fifteen pound bout would be difficult for Coach Leonard to secure since Freddy is practically the only candidate in this weight.

The Buckeye grapplers have as their leader Captain Woodell, veteran of two years experience, who has gone through the season undefeated. In him Kaiser will find a formidable opponent should he wrestle.

Breed Next
Wallace Lizzgett will represent Penn State in the twenty-five pound class and his opponent Breed although a new man this season, has shown promise and is a clever grappler. O'Neil is reputed to be one of the best men with the visiting team and Captain Walt Lizzgett may have his hands full in his attempt to garner a victory.

J. Long will probably be Coach Leonard's choice for the forty-five pound bout, although Al may receive the call. Schaffer in this weight is also reputed to be one of the best wrestlers of the visiting team. In the 135-pound division Packard may be called into action against Brubaker, veteran of the Ohio team.

By the in the 175-pound class is a capable wrestler and also plays tackle with the varsity football eleven. Rumbaugh has been given the assignment as the Nittany representative. Pop Garrison will attempt to avenge his defeat last week when he faced Keek, a powerful contender in the (Continued on last page)

ENGINEERING NEWS CITES PROGRESS IN EXTENSION

Paper Describes Success Made By Industrial Executives Enrolled in Courses

Showing the work and progress made by the electrical extension department as well as that made by companies whose executives are enrolled in the engineering extension courses, the Engineering Extension News for March is now being mailed to extension students.

Two more companies have enrolled the greater part of their executive personnel in the extension courses. The Griswold Manufacturing company of Erie and the Lukens Steel company of Coatsville have enrolled for special courses to be given by the department.

The course outlined especially for the Griswold plant will consist of a series of lectures pertinent to effective organization. The lecturers will be Professor J. O. Keller '11, who outlined the courses, and Professor G. F. Mellon, of the Industrial Engineering department. At the Lukens Steel company the course will consist of lectures, reading assignments and regular recitations.

OUTING CLUB TO HIRE

Speaking on the subject "Some Annual Phenomena," Professor Garrison of the zoology department addressed the Outing Club Tuesday night.

Coach Houck Shifts Men For Stiff Battle Tomorrow

KRUPPA ENDEAVORS TO MAKE 135-POUND BERTH

When the Penn State boxing team meets Syracuse tomorrow afternoon in the Armory at two o'clock, it will face one of its hardest tests of the season with the possible exception of the Army and Navy encounters.

Coach Houck was called home Wednesday evening because of the illness of his wife and the team was placed in the charge of Captain McClellan. Still another shift is expected before the leatherpushers take the ring. Kruppa has been trying to get down to the thirty-five pound class and may replace Filgezi if it does not weaken him too much.

Light-Heavy Uncertain

In the seventy-five-pound division, Lave-more and Uibel are the strongest contenders for the position. Uibel has the advantage of having seen service in the squared circle but Lave-more is much sturdier and is a capable mauling. Both men have had practice bouts with Welko, who continues to show improvement in the use of his powerful right.

With the last two meets captured by close margins, the Orange combination is prepared to put forth a stubborn battle for a third consecutive victory. Melamed, 115-pound Syracuse matman, likely will give Gans trouble. The former holds a title in the Metropolitan A. U.

McClellan Has Worthy foe

Although he was defeated by Leviden of Colgate last week, Prechysto, the fighter who will carry the Orange colors to the ring in the twenty-five-pound division, will offer strong opposition to Captain McClellan. But if Johnny's exhibition against O'Brien of Army is any criterion, the Blue and White maulinger should take the honors.

The Nittany representative in the lightweight class will find a wary opponent in Captain Corasco, who is boxing his third year in a varsity berth. He is credited with a clever generalship and a strong right. Coach Houck will probably make his choice after the workouts tonight between Filgezi and Kruppa.

Grazias has given ample proof of his improvement in the practice sessions held during the past week. He has increased his skill in leading and (Continued on last page)

RAPID PROGRESS MARKS WORK OF LA VIE BOARD

Dedication Will Be Decided at Meeting Monday—Scripts Almost Finished

With the "publishable" activities of the year rapidly coming to an end, the work of thirty men and women is being brought together every phase of Penn State and the junior class into historical form for the 1927 La Vie.

A majority of the different assignments connected with the junior annual have been completed and H. D. Londono, editor-in-chief, plans to have all of the manuscripts ready for the publisher before the end of next week, with the possible exception of the athletic section which will be delayed because of the incomplete seasons in various sports.

The dedication of the annual will be the most important subject for consideration when the La Vie Board meets Monday evening and the choice from a number of men who have figured prominently in the development of Penn State will be made known at a later date. At the meeting, the histories of the class of 1929 which will be submitted by various freshman members before Monday night, will be considered. From these manuscripts five will be selected which will be given to Prof. M. M. Harris for the final choice. The freshman whose history is selected automatically becomes the historian of the class, a position which he holds for four years.

Almost all of the ideas for the remaining at work are in tangible form and it is expected that this phase of the annual will be entirely completed during the coming week. The proof of the senior section has been received from the publisher and a proof of the junior panel is in the hands of the editor. The fraternal section is almost complete and the girls' section, which composes book five, has been finished.
