

MILK MOST POPULAR CAMPUS LIQUOR, SAYS GENIAL VENDOR

While the whole country is agog with the "whys" and "whynots" of the prohibition amendment, and sociologists and lecturers are seriously declaiming that liquor is the curse of the college, William Gates, a small, white-capped ruddy cheeked figure, declares that most of the intemperance in the marble bar of the "Genie" saloon in the Dairy Building on Ag Hill Mt. Gates is a sales-man and shopkeeper and he ought to know.

Each day Mr. Gates sells dairy products to the value of one hundred and fifteen dollars over the counter of his sales room and on warm days the receipts climb with the temperature. "Men can say what they will," declared Mr. Gates, "but most of the drinking in this college goes on right across this." And he pointed proudly to the gleaming white counters and stools that give an inviting appearance to the place.

"Do you know," he continued impressively, "that next to ice cream we sell more chocolate milk than anything else. The sales of that cooling beverage proves beyond a doubt that the most popular liquor on this campus is chocolate milk. Those wishing a drink with more kick may choose buttermilk." Mr. Gates looked about him triumphantly.

The custodian of the milk fountain stoutly asserts that co-eds are his best customers. Not only do they come often and eat heartily but they have a large personal following. The girls' favorite dish is lemon ice. "Never have I had a complaint," went on Mr. Gates, "but once a Lib-eral Artist, a conceited nonchalant man about town, had the effrontery to object because there was no foam on his bottle. The name of him," said Mr. Gates, bidding. Then he smiled appreciatively, "Two-year Ags have the greatest capacity. They seldom stop with less than four dishes." For compactness and tidiness, the local creamery has few equals. An automatic refrigeration system, electrically operated, preserves the products without the use of ice. An automatic, self-registering machine has replaced the ordinary cash register, while an electric fan keeps the patrons cool and contented on the most sultry days.

There is a significant reason why innumerable nickels and dimes which student books record as contributions toward books, incidentals, and chapel collections, find their way into Mr. Gates' till.

MEDAL TO BE AWARDED TO RANKING SOPHOMORE ENGINEER BY SIGMA TAU

As an incentive for underclassmen of the engineering school to attain a high scholastic record, Sigma Tau, honorary engineering fraternity, will give a gold medal to the sophomore engineer obtaining the highest average for his first three semesters in college.

The medal will be given annually on spring Scholarship Day. The first one will be awarded at the coming exercises on April twenty-ninth. The awarding of this prize was deemed advisable by the members of Sigma Tau after they had investigated and found that many of the engineers do not obtain sufficient honors points during their first two years and in the senior year scarcely have enough honor points for graduation.

In Goldkette the Prom has secured a master harmony craftsman. The popular Victor artist scored a hit with Philadelphians at the Ivy Ball last week, and has been booked to play at the Alpha Phi ball after his appearance here.

Unassuming and almost inconspicuous, Goldkette started a march to the musical hall of fame, and now ranks with the best artists of the day. His orchestra will play several Penn State songs transposed into the Goldkette style.

The Junior Prom guest lists will be published in the COLLEGIAN Friday. Fraternities should have their lists in not later than tomorrow night at ten o'clock.

FORWARD PASSES USED TO TEST PENALTY RULE

Superior teamwork and powerful line-bucking enabled the first team of Leon gridders to subdue their second team associates in a regulation game on New Beaver Field Saturday afternoon, 13-0. Coach Dutch Heilmann supervised the scrimmage and used only three plays.

Following this hectic battle the second eleven engaged in a brief session with the third string warriors and triumphed 7-0. Although the football spirit was not in the air a brisk wind that swept over the field added zest to the grid workout.

WORKOUTS PLEASE COACH

While Saturday's performance gives little indication of what may be expected of the team next fall, Dutch said he was pleased with the spirit and hard work shown. An normal test that was used several times with gratifying success tested the merits of the new forward pass penalty rule.

On the first team Saturday were Captain Weston and Slamp, ends, P. Lak and McAndrews, tackles, and Hastings and Bergman, guards. Mahoney took care of the center post.

DEAN WARNOCK EXPLAINS MOTOR CAR REGULATION

(Continued from first page) one With the present low price of second-hand cars, there is no doubt that five hundred or more students would be having cars here. Each good looking fraternity house would be cluttered up with eight or ten of these wrecks of better days. What our streets would be like with such an increase of wildly-driven cars can be left to the imagination.

This rule works hardships at times but on the whole it is a wise rule, and will be enforced."

Dean Warnock explained that the regulation was necessary to prevent the streets from being cluttered with second-hand cars. He mentioned that the rule would be enforced.
