

Choosing A Career, Like Blindman's Buff--Sackett

"Choosing a career is often a game of 'blindman's buff' among high school boys," declared Dean R. L. Sackett, of the School of Engineering yesterday.

This school has just published an illustrated booklet which is intended to serve as a guide for young men who contemplate entering one of the many branches of the engineering profession. It may be obtained by high school principals and students upon request to Dean Sackett.

Gives Advice

The young man about to select his course at college is urged in the booklet to study his qualifications with great care, talk with his parents, his teachers, and men engaged in the industrial profession he desires to enter, and make his life work selection the biggest decision of his life.

The subject of the professional guidance for industrial students was foremost in the conference held here at the engineering school over the week-end, attended by one hundred industrial executives from Pennsylvania and nearby states.

"Surprising as it may seem," says Dean Sackett, "it is not every young man, no matter how great his enthusiasm, who will make a successful engineer. A bling for machinery or radio is no positive indication that he can become a successful mechanical or electrical engineer. This booklet tells of the type of work in preparation for the ten different engineering courses offered at Penn State, and the kind of work the young graduate may expect to follow."

LIEBIG CHEMISTS STAGE ANNUAL CABIN EXCURSION

Party Of Thirty Visits Stone Valley—Freak '26 Wins Senior Present

Laying aside their text books for the week-end, the Liebig Chemical Society, composed of students in agricultural and biological chemistry, held its annual cabin-party in Laurel Run Tiger hunting camp in Stone Valley.

Over thirty student and faculty members were present, including Robert Meigs '27, and M. E. C. Thompson, chief chemist of Borden's Condensed Milk Company. Meigs is also employed with Borden's.

M. E. P. Hamilton, vice-president of John Wiley and Sons, publishers, was the guest of honor. A program given on Saturday evening included speeches by faculty members and visitors, and the presentation of the senior prize given annually by Prof. R. A. Dutcher to the senior Agricultural chemist who in the opinion of the faculty is the best all-around student. The prize was awarded to Donald '26 who each given scientific dictionary, H. A. Craft '26 and V. L. Quinones '26 were each given scientific dictionaries for receiving second and third honors, respectively.

AGRICULTURISTS MEET TO DISCUSS RESEARCH

Twenty delegates to the State Agricultural Council, a body which represents the various agriculture organizations throughout Pennsylvania, met here Wednesday and learned the various experiments and research work that is being carried on at Penn State.

The delegates convened here at this time to better acquaint the farmers of the state with new and helpful farm information.

A group meeting was first held in the Horticultural building, after which luncheon was served in the Women's building. The afternoon was spent in an inspection tour of the various departments of the School of agriculture.

At a banquet held at the Centre Hills county club in the evening the delegates were addressed by R. W. Thatcher, director of the Agricultural experiment station of New York, and by H. G. Knight, director of the Agricultural experiment station of West Virginia.

FARM DELEGATES VISIT AGRICULTURE BUILDINGS

Directors of the agricultural experiment stations of all north-eastern states from Maine to West Virginia met at the Centre Hills country club yesterday at the opening of the annual convention of Agricultural research work.

During the meeting which will continue in session today, the directors will be shown the research that Penn State is undertaking at present.

Yesterday the directors took lunch and dinner at the University Club and attended the Agricultural news meeting which was held last night. Each of the delegates spoke at the mass meeting on a subject which previously had been assigned to him. Tonight the directors and members of the faculty will attend a banquet to be held at the Centre Hills country club.

with a girl, was acquitted after he explained to the satisfaction of the jurors that he was taking the girl to an authorized social function.

mentioned before the assembly for not attending the tug-of-war because "he did not have any old clothes." J. F. Ross '29, was found to be entirely untruthful and presented proof that he was in attendance at the underclass scrap.

Following the regular meeting it was announced by President C. H. Moore '26, that freshmen customs would continue to be effective in all boarding houses, dormitories and clubs where house customs such as mail and telephone are in use. In addition it was stated that hereafter all half-year men will receive the privileges of Move-up Day and will advance at that time into the customs of the next class.

While yesterday's meeting was the last scheduled in this semester it is probable that the body will meet again to consider any cases that may be reported.

Chapel-goers Hear Brumbaugh Sunday

Dr. Martin Brumbaugh former governor of Pennsylvania and now president of Juniata college at Huntingdon, will again address the students of Penn State at the chapel service Sunday. The topic of his speech has not been announced.

In his public career Dr. Brumbaugh has continually sought to better the educational institutions in this country. At the age of twenty-one, he was appointed to the position of superintendent of the schools of Huntingdon county and a few years later took a position as head of the public schools of Philadelphia. Mr. Brumbaugh is a graduate of Juniata. He assumed his presidential duties after his retirement from the governorship.

COEDS HOLD MEETING TO DISCUSS SORORITIES

To determine the attitude of women students toward the sorority question an open meeting of all these interested will be held in the zoology room of McAllister hall Tuesday night. Attention for Penn State sororities has been growing for some time and sentiment at present seems to favor their introduction here.

Opening the meeting, Miss Sprague will give an outline of the situation. A public discussion is to follow, and club-girls, non-club girls and all others concerned are urged to attend and express their opinion.

Jason Weeps As New Froth Appears Today

fleece at Graham's eleven o'clock this morning.

Jason is not so much to blame but Froth is not to be let off lightly. The Muggers behaved outrageously and with Walt Eschenbach's pen as a lance committed one of the greatest sacrileges that mythology has ever known. Froth's conception of "The Golden Fleece" consists of a young man lying contentedly in the arms of a more or less shapely young girl. It is a touching picture. The girl is busily engaged in kissing the young man and in plucking a resplendent fraternity pin from his manly chest.

A Juke

It is the first attempt of the new Froth board and for sheer beauty of art and brilliancy of wit it promises to be one of the most staggering yet published. Not only is the magazine larger than usual but the jokes are positively hilarious. "A veritable galaxy of humor," admits Joe Taylor, editor-in-chief.

The editorials deal with the new board, the old board, rushing and fraternities pins. In keeping in harmony with the co-ed, the entire staff collected then was and crammed their exquisite math into an "Ode to the Greeks." The Ode which promises to eclipse Byron's "Don Juan," features every fraternity on the campus. There is also a gem called "The Volga Boatman."

Commencement days are not far off. As a college man you are looking forward to a successful career. In a short time you will be in keen competition with thousands of other men who are also striving for success.

Note

Students may enter FOUR TIMES A YEAR. Summer term starts June 28. Fall term starts Sept. 22. Course covers nine consecutive months.

Are you going into business? Are you thoroughly grounded in the fundamental laws of business, the knowledge of which is necessary for ultimate success?

Such academic training as you have had would prove an excellent foundation for the intensive business course given at the Babson Institute. We teach young men the fundamental laws of production, distribution and finance and how to apply them to commercial life.

If you aspire to business leadership, now is the time to consider plans for the coming years.
