

SKULL PRACTICE IN ORDER AT PLAYERS' REHEARSALS

During the past year the local performances of the Penn State Players have been singularly free from any mishaps, with the stage properties and the trick scenic effects, but numerous amusing happenings have helped to relieve the strain of rehearsals.

While "The First Year" was being whipped into shape for the road, A. C. Blaney '27, the property man, was experimenting with the manufacture of a vase which could be broken over the head of one of the characters without causing him harm. He finally made one of plaster paris which appeared solid enough to the audience, but which smashed beautifully when Miss Mabel Reed '28, used it on O. S. Anderson '28, in a quiet scene in the third act. Everything went smoothly until the night of the rehearsal, when a solid vase accidentally came into the hands of Miss Reed. Anderson still lives, but he went around for several days with a rather dazed expression.

Anderson Again
In "The Boomerang," which the Penn State Players will present as their Commencement offering, Anderson has a role very similar to that of his former one in "The First Year." Here he appears as an unwilling patient who is to be examined by a doctor. The operating table used in the examination scene was specially constructed for the occasion by A. W. Staw '28. About four nights before the opening performance in Wilkes-Barre, it was decided to try it out. At the proper moment Anderson took his place upon the table, but the rear end collapsed and he landed head first on the stage. N. D. Zimmerman '27, who plays the role of doctor, tried to save the day by remarking, "Well, that proves you are not light-headed."

"Now I know what is meant by the school of hard knocks," responded the injured Anderson. This remark broke up the rehearsal.
As a result of these two happenings Prof. D. D. Mason, the director, is considering the advisability of equipping his cast with football helmets.

Dr. Ritenour Attends National Health Meet.

Dr. J. P. Ritenour, College physician, returned to State College this week, after having spent all of last week in Atlantic City attending the annual American Health Congress.

Besides the many meetings and lectures on health which he attended, Dr. Ritenour listened to an interesting address by Herbert Hoover on "The Normal Child." Dr. Ritenour was especially interested in a series of lectures delivered on the subject of teaching personal hygiene.

The recent epidemic of German measles is well under control. There are now only two cases at present in the Infirmary, that of H. K. Parker and Claire Ambler. J. A. Younkman, who has had a severe attack of Li Gippe is well on the road to recovery.

Obey That Impulse

When old grads drop in—and around the fire experiences of them are fondly retold—have a Camel!

WHEN famed men return. And by dancing firelight they relate their stories of old—have a Camel!

For Camel helps all men who rise proudly to rise higher and more jauntily. Camels never harm or tire your taste, no matter how plentifully you smoke them. You'll never find more friendly flavor than you get in Camels.

So this night when those from long ago return to think of the roads that join. As you see in their past your future unfold, then zestfully taste the smoke that's prized by the world's experienced.

Have a Camel!

Into the making of this one cigarette goes all of the ability of the world's largest organization of expert tobacco men. Nothing is too good for Camels. The choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos. The most skillful blending. The most scientific package. No other cigarette made is like Camels. No better cigarette can be made. Camels are the overwhelming choice of experienced smokers.

Our highest wish, if you do not yet know Camel quality, is that you try them. We invite you to compare Camels with any cigarette made, at any price.
