Notices

The Engineering lecture this afternoon at four-thirty o'clock in Old Chapel will be delivered by Dean R. L. Sackett and his subject will be the "Cultural Aspect of Engineering."

There will be no chapel service Sunday, according to an announcement from the President's office, which declared also a holiday from Saturday morning at eight o'clock to Monday morning at eight o'clock.

Debating squads are to report as follows at Old Chapel: The "Practical Tendency" squad on Wednesday, November tenth at seven o'clock. The "Vot-lead" squad on Thursday, November eleventh at seven o'clock.

Lion Gridders Primed
For Game With Penn

(Continued from first page) ... but is back in harness and primed to withstand the Quaker attack. Coaches Bezdek, Conover and Bentz, have the varsity and second teams through a hard but drab scrimmage Tuesday, with no flash of football to ease the coaching worries. The warriors went through their paces with plenty of snap, but failed to measure up to expectations until the last few minutes of play.

Pitted against Pennsylvania plays for about periods on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the varsity and second teams crushed every variation of the famous "hidden-ball" attack which the scrubs could devise. If the team can shake itself out of its temporary lethargy and display the same power on Franklin Field, the "Four Magicians" will be in for an interesting afternoon.

Roepke Semitallies
Returning to the varsity line-up after an enforced absence of more than three weeks, Roepke, star halfback, is in mid during the week. His beautiful passing and kicking were surpassed only by his deceitful open-field running.

Piston legs and elusive twirl enabled Roepke to outwit tackler after tackler.

Humm is slated for the other half-back post, with the diminutive Dangelheld and Wolff in reserve. Cy Lungenon has continued his improved playing this week and will direct the team, with Pincus as alternate. Greene or Pitchaid will complete the backfield.

Weston and Delp, ends, may be relieved by Lesko, Faulkner and Curry, while Greenshields and Filak have capable substitutes in Beigman and Munz. Hastings and Kial flank Mahoney at the pivot berth, but the reserve center trio of Darragh, Roseberry and Reed will be ready for action.

Running Attack Improves
A versatile attack against the scrubs Tuesday and Wednesday evenings opened an avenue of hope for Lion followers. A perfectly-timed aerial attack is in repertoire and will probably be used to vary the deception of Bezdek's line plays.

The line as a unit has shown no note and no less power than a week ago. Defensively impregnable, it is still a comparatively weak-charging septet when in possession of the ball, though Mahoney is expected to give Butler, Penn ace, a mighty battle in the center of the forward wall.

Peters, the Illinois fireman, was the margin of defeat when the Quakers travelled to Urbana last Saturday.
Hard Battle Expected

It is no secret in sporting circles that the Pennsylvania game is the high spot in the Penn State schedule. The Lions have unconsciously been pointing for the fray since the first of September and may surprise the battered dope-bucket with a lusty kick.

Coach Bezdek was non-committal when questioned as to the prospects. "I hope some kindly providence will inspire the boys," he smiled.

A cheering section of ten thousand will support the Nittany cause at Franklin Field, while Penn State's famous Blue Band will vie for honors with the Quaker musicians. Play by play results of the game will be broadcast on at least three wave lengths.

STATION WPSO STARTS
REGULAR PROGRAM SOON

Many Listeners-in Will Operate Sets Made by Extension Course Directions

When WPSO, the Penn State Radio broadcasting station, resumes its regular programs in the near future, many residents of Pennsylvania and nearby states will have the novel experience of listening in with sets built according to directions issued through correspondence courses in radio which are offered by the College engineering extension department.

Since the engineering extension department first announced these courses for correspondence study in 1922, many students have enrolled and more than half built their own receiving sets. The student rolls now include enthusiasts from nineteen states in the Union and from a number of foreign countries.

The department's most distant student is a doctor in Moscow, Russia, who has just completed a twelve-tube receiver. He has close rivals in a retired lawyer living in Belgrade, Serbia, and an isolated engineer who requests that his lessons be forwarded from an obscure post in the Belgian Congo. Each of these students has been enrolled for over a year and it will require a minimum of two years more for them to complete their courses, since each lesson takes two months to make the round trip to the department for correction.

been beaten and Syracuse has been improving little by little and they're determined to win their last game of the year."

Twenty-two Make Trip
Twenty-two yearlings, Manager S. C. Runkle and the Coach left Bellefonte by sleeper Wednesday. Yesterday the team ran through signals on one of the Orange practice fields. They will return tonight immediately following the contest.

Craig, the flying fullback, and Martin, end, are still hindered with injuries and they have not made the trip. It was this same injury that handicapped Hermann from the start. No sooner was a backfield working well than it was disrupted with injuries and the line met the same fate.

A light drill Monday night, a long scrimmage Tuesday and a practice Wednesday made up all the practice the cubs had this week. A Varsity lay-off Tuesday night enabled Hugo Bezdek to scan the prospective Nittany Lions and offer pointers for the impending fray.

Miller at Quarter
Miller is still running the squad at quarter, but Wilson replaced him for a large part of Tuesday's scrimmage and it is possible that Wilson will get the call today. Struble and Staley are the halves with Ridgeway fullback. Maxwell, Hanna and Weber are the utility backfield men.

Faulk and Reilly, handicapped hitherto by inexperience, are improving and are the wingmen with Davis and Balmer in reserve. Pannacion and Ricker, tackles, Parana and Wieland, Guards, and Shule, center, complete the line.

Line-up Undecided
Brown and Morill, tackles, Reynolds and Zuhunsky guards and Cunningham, snapper-back, also made the journey. Coach Heilmann will definitely decide his line-up today before the game. Yesterday's showing in the practice session will influence his choice.

lally since soccer is the national sport "above the line." To oppose the visitors, Coach Jeffries will likely send the same men who downed the University of Pennsylvania onto the field tomorrow. After working with numerous combinations and changing his men around almost daily, he believes that the present line-up composes the most powerful team.

The line which was weak during the early part of the season has shown great progress during the past week. Although some of the forwards are inexperienced they have already learned many tricks of the Scotch sport in games played to date that they have molded together to form a fast, fighting offense.

As wingers, Pecori and Serry have been taking care of the outside night

In the backfield, Coach Jeffries has built up his halfbacks around Bell who earned his letter last year. With Bell at left half, Jeffries has been playing Mollinger at center half and Repino at the right end of the half-back line. Captain Lippincott and Cherry, both veterans, fill the full-back posts. At present the most likely man for goal is Semisch, a sophomore, who received his first varsity experience in the Penn game last week.
