IT'S UP TO YOU

A request came not long ago from the women's debating team at Bucknell asking for an engagement with the women's team at Penn State, and having no team, we had to refuse an opportunity which comes to us rarely for intercollegiate contact with other women. According to Professor J. H. Frizzell, varsity debating coach, there would be no difficulty in financing a girls' team, in coaching it, or in arranging a series of debates. All we need is the team itself.

Obviously, debating is valuable experience for those who may specialize in some phase of public speaking after graduation, but not for these only. The time has passed when women, like children, were to be seen and not heard. Every college woman today finds it as necessary to be able to speak with assurance when the occasion arises as to write a letter in good form.

In their isolated and circumscribed position at Penn State the women of the College as a group would profit immensely by the broadening influence of contact with women from other colleges. Intercollegiate athletics for girls are impossible at present, we are told, because of inadequate facilities; and so in a debating team we have our first opportunity for stimulating personal association with women from other institutions.

At seven o'clock Tuesday night in the office of the Dean of Women, Professor Frizzell will meet team candidates. To date seven girls have signified their interest in this new activity—a good beginning leading to be followed up. Membership on the debating squad is by personal invitation; cars will not call for the candidates to take them to the meeting; nor can women students be impressed into service. They must come on their own initiative. Shall Penn State have a girls' debating team? It's up to you.

Hockey Teams Play in First Game of Season

The first games of the hockey tournament were played last Monday and Tuesday on Holmes Field, the seniors and juniors tying in a score of 1 to 1 and the freshman and sophomores in a 0 to 0 tie. The sophomores and seniors meet in a second struggle at five-thirty o'clock today.

The junior-senior game played Monday was a lively struggle. With the exception of several fouls, the girls on both teams showed snappy action and good spirit. The first goal was made by Mabel Reed on the junior team and the senior goal was scored near the end of the game by Lydia Robertson.

The freshman-sophomore game Tuesday was a harder combat, neither team scoring but each trying to outplay the other. Coach Haupt commended the girls on both teams for their co-operation when in action. Compulsory freshman attendance has proved successful and will continue throughout the season.

Y. W. C. A. ORGANIZES 1926 FINANCIAL DRIVE

Cabinet Members Will Sell Christmas Cards To Aid in Raising Funds

The Pennsylvania Association of Deans of Women met at Harrisburg last Friday and Saturday at the Penn Harris hotel for the purpose of discussing and comparing problems confronted daily in the dean's office.

Among the seventy-five deans assembled Penn State was represented by Dean Charlotte E. Ray accompanied by Miss Esther Fink '27, president of Women's Student Government. The dinner Friday night in the Penn Harris ball room was the most interesting session of the conference according to Miss Ray.

"The Dean As Seen by the Student" was the title of the opening after-dinner address given by Miss T. W. Amos, dean of Women at the University of Pittsburgh. She illustrated her address by reading papers written by four girls who had attended more than one college and were capable of expressing honest opinions concerning the deans with whom they were familiar.

Aside from the fact that these papers were amusing to the attentive audience they were equally as just and fair in their demands of an ideal dean. The one criticism agreed upon was that any dean in order to comply with the requirements listed by these students would certainly have to be a super-woman with no end of good qualities.

Several criticisms made were that deans should not refer to every girl as "this young person"; neither should they be "too inquisitive"; and above all things they should not be slouchy in dress.

Dr. Beebe, president of Allegheny College, followed Miss Amos with an address on "The Dean As Seen by the President." "The Dean As Seen by the Faculty" was the subject of the speech given by Dr. Canell of Temple University. Concluding the program Miss Stimson of Goucher college and president of the National Association of Deans portrayed "The Dean As Seen by Other Deans."

Saturday meetings were mainly an attempt to solve these various problems or at best to arrive at some definite conclusion. Dean Ray expressed her regrets that not more of the woman leaders in colleges, normal, and high schools, could not attend the conference.

SOLICITORS SEEK FIVE HUNDRED DOLLAR GOAL

With an organization that promises to make the Y. W. financial campaign one of the most successful in years, the fifteen members of the senior cabinet will continue solicitation throughout this week for the five hundred dollar goal.

More than fifty dollars has been raised to date. The work was temporarily suspended because of the holiday for the week-end. Miss H. B. Foster '27, assisted by Miss Katharine Holbrook '28, president of the Town Girls' Club, will solicit among the women students living on the campus.

One Dollar Asked

In order to meet the financial obligations of the women triangle workers, each student has been asked to contribute the small sum of one dollar. With the arrival of the regular year, each subscriber will receive the "button" in recognition of her support of the work.

The Y. W. C. A. received this year $250 of the blanket tax and one dollar from each woman will furnish sufficient funds for the numerous activities. Percentage dues have been made as follows: National and state obligations 25 per cent, social activities 20 per cent, student work 20 per cent, conferences 25 per cent and Women's Handbook 10 per cent.

Reading Room

Papers have been ordered and magazines will be arranged for at the earliest possible date to furnish a current reading room for the girls. These will be placed in the Y. W. room in McAlister Hall where they will be available at all hours of the day under present plans. When the 1929 girls' cabinet has been organized, it will take charge of the sale of Penn State seal Christmas cards. Several designs are in the hands of the committee. Four from the group will be chosen within the next two weeks. Sending delegates to the Eagles-

The Conference has for many years been a policy of the Y. W. C. A. but the institution of Freshman week and the necessity for paying the expenses of the cabinet members who return for it has cut short the amount the Y. W. could spend in sending delegates to Eaglesmeie. If the campaign this year is successful the local organization hopes to send other representatives in addition.
