

Penn State Collegian

Wanted—Heavies for The Boxers

VOL. XXII, No. 24

STATE COLLEGE, PA., TUESDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1926

PRICE FIVE CENTS

PUBLICATIONS AID IN CAMPAIGN FOR "OLD MAIN BELL" SUBSCRIPTION LIST

Collegian, Froth, Farmer, La Vie And Engineer Join Forces Under Direction of B. C. Wharton

Will Meet Tonight Canvassers Will Visit Students And Faculty After Informal Session—Editors Laud Present Issue

With the assistance of the editorial and business staffs of the COLLEGIAN, Froth, Farmer, Engineer and La Vie, the officers of the Old Main Bell, under the direction of B. C. Wharton '27, business manager, will launch a campaign for subscriptions to the magazine.

D. D. Henry, former editor of the Old Main Bell will speak to the workers tonight R. D. Dundore, present editor of the publication, will act as chairman of the meeting.

Abundance of Material Many stories, poems, essays, drawings and special articles have been submitted by alumni, faculty and students. The editors are satisfied that the coming issues will surpass all former efforts.

NOTED JOURNALIST TO SPEAK HERE THURSDAY

Glenn Clarke Will Lecture to Four Groups—Is Editor of Works on Religion

At the invitation of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet and Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalistic fraternity, Glenn Clarke, noted journalist, coach and religious authority, will deliver four lectures of varying subjects to gatherings of students at Penn State Thursday.

Mr. Clarke, a graduate of Grinnell college, Iowa, has been track coach at Macalester college, Saint Paul, Minnesota for the past fourteen years.

The Western visitor will address the Y. M. C. A. cabinet at luncheon Thursday at the University Club on the subject of "Prayer."

Penn State Gridmen Gather for Banquet

Members of the varsity football squad will unite with freshman non-varsity men over the banquet board in Varsity Hall Thursday evening at six-fifteen o'clock.

"Build Your Own Home" Is Advice Given In Engineering Correspondence Course

"Design and build your own home" is the advice offered through a correspondence course in building construction being introduced by the Department of Engineering Extension.

THESPIANS OFFER VAUDEVILLE AGAIN

Will Present Two Showings in Bellefonte on December Fifteenth, Sixteenth

PROGRAM IS IDENTICAL TO HOUSE PARTY CARD

Presenting practically the same bill of vaudeville acts that went on the boards before a house party audience last month, the Penn State Thespians will appear at the Richelieu Theatre in Bellefonte on the evenings of December fifteenth and sixteenth.

DOCTOR HETZEL GIVES UNOFFICIAL TALK HERE

Prexy Predicts Service Between Penn State and Industries At Engineering Lecture

Dr. R. D. Hetzel, Penn State's new proxy, made an unofficial visit to the campus during the past week-end where he gave an impromptu talk to a gathering of engineering students assembled for their weekly lecture in Old Chapel.

FOOTBALL ELECTIONS

Manager P. P. Hess '28 First Assistant J. W. Bair '29 Second Assistant H. P. Smith '29 Freshman Manager R. R. Kuhns '29

CUB RIFLEMEN REPORT

All freshmen candidates for the rifle team are asked to report to the rifle range for practice every night from six to eight o'clock, it was announced by Lieutenant Miller, coach of the rifle team.

College Given Award At Sesqui-Centennial

For its "conspicuous educational service in the fields of agriculture and industry," the College is to receive a medal of honor from the jury of awards of the Sesqui-centennial Exposition.

Dean Wendt Shocks Himself and Class When Misbehaving Electrons Revolt

Dean R. L. Wendt, Penn State's untiring apostle of science, added another thrilling experience to his long list when he attempted to save a glass tube from breaking when the current from an electric transformer overwhelmed the capacity of the demonstration receptacle in the Bull Pen Thursday morning.

PENN STATE WILL HAVE EXPERIENCED BASKETBALL TEAM

Eight Candidates Report From Last Year's Squad—Nine Sophomores Out

MIKE HAMAS FLASHES OLD FORM IN DRILLS

Hermann Will Retain Fifteen Prospects—May Start Scrimmage Today

The five men who draw the assignment of Coach B. M. (Dutch) Hermann to start the opening basketball game of the season against Lebanon Valley on January eighth will not suffer from lack of court experience.

GLEEMEN TO GIVE CONCERT IN ITHACA

Club Will Present Recital of Tour Tomorrow—Appears in Lewisburg Tomorrow

MISS M. GOBRECHT AND S. H. TORCHIA ON BILL

PLAN CHANGE OF HOUR FOR PROM

Continuous Dancing From Ten to Three O'clock Proposed by Chairman P. P. Hess

COMMITTEE CUTS LIST TO ELEVEN ORCHESTRAS

Instead of the customary dance favor, an elaborate seven program and two orchestras with continuous music will feature the Junior Prom, the date of which has been definitely set as April twenty-ninth.

PENN STATE DEBATORS OPEN SEASON SATURDAY

Affirmative Team Faces W. & J. Here—Negative Squad Goes To U. of Pittsburgh

The Penn State debating season will get under way Saturday when the Kiltany forensic artists face Pittsburgh and Washington and Jefferson in a triangular debate.

Dean Wendt Shocks Himself and Class When Misbehaving Electrons Revolt

Dean R. L. Wendt, Penn State's untiring apostle of science, added another thrilling experience to his long list when he attempted to save a glass tube from breaking when the current from an electric transformer overwhelmed the capacity of the demonstration receptacle in the Bull Pen Thursday morning.

College Given Award At Sesqui-Centennial

For its "conspicuous educational service in the fields of agriculture and industry," the College is to receive a medal of honor from the jury of awards of the Sesqui-centennial Exposition.

Dean Wendt Shocks Himself and Class When Misbehaving Electrons Revolt

Dean R. L. Wendt, Penn State's untiring apostle of science, added another thrilling experience to his long list when he attempted to save a glass tube from breaking when the current from an electric transformer overwhelmed the capacity of the demonstration receptacle in the Bull Pen Thursday morning.

COLLEGIAN'S PENN STATE-OPPONENT GRIDIRON SELECTIONS

Table with 2 columns: Penn State Opponent and Selections. Includes SINGER, GREENSHIELDS, BOEHRINGER, LEVY, McMANMON, HANSON, WELCH, ROEPKE, NEIMIEC, BARBUTI, DELP, HAKE, McGEE, BUTLER, HASTINGS, FILAK, ARCHOSKA, ROGERS, CLARKE, FLANIGAN, DIEHL.

National Oratorical Contest Is Arranged

The third annual intercollegiate oratorical contest held under the auspices of the Better American Federation of California, and scheduled for early in April is already beginning to attract attention.

PLAYERS LEAVE ON FIRST ROAD TOUR

Windber, Johnstown, Pittsburgh And Cleveland Included In Itinerary

TRYOUTS FOR MYSTERY PLAY SOON TO BE HELD

Leaving today for the first road trip of the year, the cast of the Penn State Players production, "The Witching Hour," will make a five-day tour of Windber, Johnstown, Pittsburgh and Cleveland, Ohio.

COMMITTEE CUTS LIST TO ELEVEN ORCHESTRAS

Instead of the customary dance favor, an elaborate seven program and two orchestras with continuous music will feature the Junior Prom, the date of which has been definitely set as April twenty-ninth.

PENN STATE DEBATORS OPEN SEASON SATURDAY

Affirmative Team Faces W. & J. Here—Negative Squad Goes To U. of Pittsburgh

Dean Wendt Shocks Himself and Class When Misbehaving Electrons Revolt

Dean R. L. Wendt, Penn State's untiring apostle of science, added another thrilling experience to his long list when he attempted to save a glass tube from breaking when the current from an electric transformer overwhelmed the capacity of the demonstration receptacle in the Bull Pen Thursday morning.

College Given Award At Sesqui-Centennial

For its "conspicuous educational service in the fields of agriculture and industry," the College is to receive a medal of honor from the jury of awards of the Sesqui-centennial Exposition.

Dean Wendt Shocks Himself and Class When Misbehaving Electrons Revolt

Dean R. L. Wendt, Penn State's untiring apostle of science, added another thrilling experience to his long list when he attempted to save a glass tube from breaking when the current from an electric transformer overwhelmed the capacity of the demonstration receptacle in the Bull Pen Thursday morning.

College Given Award At Sesqui-Centennial

For its "conspicuous educational service in the fields of agriculture and industry," the College is to receive a medal of honor from the jury of awards of the Sesqui-centennial Exposition.

Dean Wendt Shocks Himself and Class When Misbehaving Electrons Revolt

Dean R. L. Wendt, Penn State's untiring apostle of science, added another thrilling experience to his long list when he attempted to save a glass tube from breaking when the current from an electric transformer overwhelmed the capacity of the demonstration receptacle in the Bull Pen Thursday morning.

College Given Award At Sesqui-Centennial

For its "conspicuous educational service in the fields of agriculture and industry," the College is to receive a medal of honor from the jury of awards of the Sesqui-centennial Exposition.

TWO PENN STATE GRIDDERS CHOSEN FOR COLLEGIAN'S OPPONENT ELEVEN

Roepke Honored with Halfback Post—Greenshields Paired With McManmon at Tackle Berths

VIC HANSON LEADS TEAM

Pennsylvania and Notre Dame Place Three Warriors—Linn And Welch of Pitt On First Team

Two Penn State stalwarts are numbered among the eleven gridgers selected by a committee of coaches and sports writers who were present at every football game during the 1926 season for the annual COLLEGIAN Penn State-Opponent eleven.

LACK OF HEAVIES FACES LEO HOUCK

Boxing Coach Must Develop Men For 175 and Unlimited Posts To Strengthen Team

CHAMPION FILEGER MAY CONTENT IN 125 DIVISION

Leo Houck faced the first glove of the 1927 boxing season last week, but it was merely a gesture on Leo's part and none of the twenty-six young pugilists who are skipping rope daily in the Army will feel the touch of leather against his cheek until after the Christmas holidays.

ANNUAL HORTICULTURE WEEK TO OPEN TODAY

Visitors to Participate in Round Table Discussions—Social Activities Planned

The third annual Horticulture Week opens today with commercial covers of fruits, vegetables and ornamentals from all parts of the state in attendance.

SOPHOMORES PREPARE FOR SPEAKING CONTEST

Orators Will Hold Eliminations Tonight—Six Finalists To Compete on Friday

Approximately thirty sophomores, including the second year co-eds, are expected to report in Old Chapel tonight at seven o'clock to receive speaking assignments for the elimination contest prior to the annual sophomore extemporaneous speaking contest Friday.

PENN STATE DEBATORS OPEN SEASON SATURDAY

Affirmative Team Faces W. & J. Here—Negative Squad Goes To U. of Pittsburgh

College Given Award At Sesqui-Centennial

For its "conspicuous educational service in the fields of agriculture and industry," the College is to receive a medal of honor from the jury of awards of the Sesqui-centennial Exposition.

Dean Wendt Shocks Himself and Class When Misbehaving Electrons Revolt

Dean R. L. Wendt, Penn State's untiring apostle of science, added another thrilling experience to his long list when he attempted to save a glass tube from breaking when the current from an electric transformer overwhelmed the capacity of the demonstration receptacle in the Bull Pen Thursday morning.

College Given Award At Sesqui-Centennial

For its "conspicuous educational service in the fields of agriculture and industry," the College is to receive a medal of honor from the jury of awards of the Sesqui-centennial Exposition.