

WOMEN

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Can a woman be open-minded? Can she see that her most sincere convictions may be only prejudices? Can she be so unbiased in her judgments that she may express an opinion of another woman without being called "catty"? Can she realize that people differing with her point of view mean no personal insult? Can she take criticism? Can she give an advantage instead of taking it? Can she be a person as well as a woman? These questions are being asked by people who watch woman's progress across the field of what has hitherto been man's endeavor.

The modern woman starts out on her career with a handicap of hundreds of years of narrow, circumscribed living, in which the only problems to be solved were personal and these were solved for her because she was considered incapable of thought. Besides discouraging reasoning, this impression forced women to resort to more or less unscrupulous means to gain their ends. Unfortunately it is not so easy to relinquish the habits of centuries as to bob one's hair, so here women are, as they are, and everyone concerned is paying.

A woman's first reaction to a new situation is personal and probably always will be; but she must not stop here. She must consciously cultivate a habit of suspending judgment until she has looked at the question with as far-seeing a view as she is able to attain. She must become reconciled to the uncomfortable process of changing her beliefs with the progress of time and truth. She must learn to take knocks and perhaps even to give them. These requirements are not designed to be the virtues of a mythical superwoman, but are characteristics necessary to the modern college girl in the kind of life she has already chosen for herself.

Horses, Horses, Horses! Whoa!

"With a horse and a whip, and a whip and a horse and we're ready to go!"
Yes, the co-eds are impatiently waiting for nice weather since from now on they will receive honor points from the W. A. A. for horse-back riding. The W. A. A. has been asked many times to add riding to the list of sports worthy of honor points, but the request was never granted, since a few girls rode for pecuniary reasons or otherwise.

Although there are no statistics to show a change in the average co-ed's allowance for this year, many of the girls have been riding all fall. Since the increase of interest in the sport the W. A. A. has decided to give one honor point for every ten hours of riding. Isn't that a pleasant way to earn your Varsity "S"?"

STUDENT COUNCIL HITS AT RAZING OF CO-EDS

Suggests Cheerleaders Prevent Ungentlemanly Conduct At Indoor Events

After discussing the ungentlemanly and unsportsmanlike attitude shown toward women students at indoor athletic events, Student Council suggested at a meeting Tuesday evening that the cheerleaders spread out through the men's sections of the Army bleachers to call attention to the action of any offenders. Class presidents will take up the matter at meetings.

A committee of A. C. Alloway '27 and J. G. House '24 was appointed to make an investigation in order to put more life into the College songs and to find new ones. Favorable comment was made upon the Bullenpher's, calling attention to the "cow path" on the campus, especially since the Council passed a ruling that there should be no beaten paths across the grass earlier in the year.

WOMEN'S BUILDING WINS INTRA-MURAL CONTEST

Mac Hall Plays Town Girls to Tie Score—Cottages Team Suffers Defeat

Running up forty-three points while their opponents went scoreless, the first Women's Building team dashed the hopes of the Cottages' squad Monday evening in the Army and won the Intra-mural tournament. The members of the winning team are the same girls who won the cup for the third floor of Mac Hall last year.

The victors lined up with Hap Frank and Lyd's Robertson at the forward berths, Bobby Sheridan and Mable Reed at the center posts, and Speed Wheeler and Connie Ognibene at the guard positions. Sass Hartz and Evelyn Stum played forward for the Cottages. Helen Hartz and Mable Chambers were in the center positions, and Mary Huggler and Ruth Carter upheld the guard posts.

Town Girls Tie Mac Hall
The Town Girls battled with Mac Hall to a 20 to 20 tie in a hotly contested tilt on the Army floor Monday night. At half time the Town Girls led by two points, but the Mac Hall sextette took the lead in the third quarter. They held their advantage until the last two minutes of play, when a basket by Gould knotted the score.

Captain "Pete" Hudnall and Helen Gould lined up at the forward posts for the Town Girls, with Marian Winter and Mary Mitchell in the center area and Mable Letzell and Elizabeth Markle at the guard positions. The other captain, "Pete" Pomeroy, and Maun Dorboian occupied the forward berths for the Mac Hall squad. Margaret Herman and Mable Chambers were stationed in the center and Jeannette Ritter and Kate Preston played the guard positions.

Miss Marie Haidt officiated during the Women's Building clash, while Speed Wheeler refereed the Town Girls' battle, with Miss Haidt as umpire. Mildred Seidman held the official watch during both contests.

Favor Contract Awarded
Contracts for favors and invitations, have been awarded by the committee. The favors chosen are combination leather vanity-pocketbooks of convenient size and distinctive appearance. Invitations will be similar to those customarily issued.

The decorative scheme under consideration is a Spanish garden effect. Fresh flowers and greens will transform the Army into a veritable old-world patio. Should this plan prove impractical, the committee will consider another.

Offering a complimentary ticket as reward for each set of four posters accepted, the committee is conducting a poster contest. Competitors should submit four posters of any size in three colors to E. J. Lockwood, Phi Delta Theta house.
