Five Penn State students aided in the discussion of the Chinese problem at a convention of Y. M. C. A. groups of various colleges of the Middle Atlantic states at the University of Pennsylvania Saturday.

The following resolution was passed and sent to the State department at Washington, D. C. "Whereas, The aspiration of the Chinese people as expressed through its nationalistic movement are constant with the principles of right and justice, whereas it has been the traditional policy of the United States to adopt a friendly policy toward China and whereas the existing conditions in China are not favorable to the interests of the United States, including the safety of American lives and property, be it resolved that the United States should withdraw her forces and that the United States take immediate steps to negotiate new treaties of principles of right and reciprocity."

Darcy, Thespian Mentor, Relates Story Of Hectic Childhood Passed on Stage

"Young man, you go home!" These were the words in which the elder Mr. Darcy expressed his decision to his son Maurice, seven years old whom he found becoming a self-willed and rather stubborn youngster after four year's performing on the stage as a comedian and imitator.

"I made my debut in the theatrical world at the age of ten weeks," explained Mr. Maurice Darcy, coach and honorary member of the Thespians. "It was in the arms of Agnes Booth, one of the most outstanding actresses of the time, and took place in MacVicker's Chicago's largest theatre."

For several years the youngster was prop child in his father's company, appearing on the stage whenever the script called for a baby. But at the age of three he had shown so much individual ability that he assumed a definite place in the company, telling jokes and giving imitations of his father, then a well known comedian.

This lasted till at the age of seven when his father came to the conclusion that the lad needed a change from theatrical life. Accordingly Maurice was sent to the family home in Chicago to improve his manners and disposition. The result was not encouraging for when the father returned home from a road tour he found the precocious lad regularly smoking a lengthy briar pipe.

Again the father declared his ultimatum, "Young man, you go back on the road!" But reconsidering his decision he sent the lad to boarding school where he remained for about five years. However, school-life began to bore the lad and feeling the call of the spotlight he ran away when he was twelve years old. He made for Denver, Colorado, where his father's company was playing. Singing and dancing for the amusement of train crews, he was passed on from city to city until he reached his destination.

Until he was twenty-one years of age he remained with his father's company as property man and actor. Then he returned to the stage as a "regular." He became comedian and director of the Girard Avenue theatre in Philadelphia. For two years he served as comedian with the Trivoli Opera company in San Francisco. He then returned to the East and became connected with several of the New York theatres, playing leading roles and directing well known productions.

When connected with Ned Wayburn, Mr. Darcy came to Penn State to direct a Thespian production. Since then he has served as director and coach for all their musical comedies. Dancing comes as second nature to Mr. Darcy. Many of the dances that his proteges do are invented by him; others he picks up by just seeing them done.

BAKELITE COMPANY TO HOLD EXHIBITION HERE

Will Show Seventeen Displays Illustrating Variety of Uses For Product

Many of the thousands of uses of bakelite will be demonstrated in an exhibit which is a graphic illustration of recent mechanical achievements in industry, to be displayed by the Bakelite Corporation next Friday and Saturday in Engineering E. The exhibit will be opened at nine o'clock both mornings but will close at two o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The exhibit comprises seventeen displays, arranged on tables covering one hundred feet of floor space, and showing a wide variety of purposes for which Bakelite materials are used. The articles were contributed largely by two hundred companies who use Bakelite material in the manufacture of their products.

Grouping will be according to industry and also as to the specific qualities which the material contributes—such as insulation, mechanical strength or heat resistance. One table will be devoted to a demonstration of the uses of from twelve to sixty separate pieces of molded or laminated Bakelite, which are a part of every standard radio of today.

A recent feature of Bakelite manufacture in the form of different building accessories such as door plates and handles, together with fire-proof, acid-resisting, wood-finish tops for tables and desks will also be shown.

Hold Sale of Senior Lion Suits at Stark's

Senior Lion Suits were placed on sale yesterday at Stark Brothers and can be purchased until Move-up Day. On the back of the white jacket, a blue cloth lion is sewed. This jacket, plus a pair of white trousers, is the official uniform which is supposed to be worn by members of the graduating class on and after Move-up Day, according to the tradition started last May. Any senior can buy a costume at a cost of two dollars and twenty-five cents.

Last May, nothing but ordinary overalls and coats were worn but this year's committee has ordered a more comfortable uniform for the class of nineteen hundred and twenty-seven. Judging from the number of garbs ordered, the custom of wearing Lion Suits is being placed on a lasting foundation.

conference with his mates. To date, Syracuse has had only a fair season, having won five games and dropped four. The New Yorkers have triumphed over Fort Monroe, V. M. I., Columbia, Hamilton college, and Michigan university, but they have dropped decisions to Washington and Lee, William and Mary, Michigan and Catholic university.

Six and Three
On the other hand, the Lions have won six out of nine games. Styboriski, veteran Penn State hurler, will take the slab against the Orange batters, while the opposing finger is undecided, Minor, Lambert and Dickson, being eligible for the box assignment. Goldman, visiting shortstop, is the Orange luminary and is considered one of the best hitters in college ranks. Gotch Carr, of football renown and Eimann, captain-elect of basketball, will also appear in the line-up for the foemen.

The Lion's roll-call will remain the same. Captain Page, who recently replaced Hamas in right field, will retain his post because of his hard hitting methods. Von Atta, Harrington, Haines and Harris may also see action.

BROWNAGLE WILL PLAY COLLEGE AIRS AT DANCE

Asks for "Victory," "Blue and White" and "Susie" for Farmers' Hop Here

Ted Brownagle and his eleven Victor Areadians will include several Penn State songs in their program of dance music at the Ag All-College dance in the Armory, Friday, May twelfth, announces J. M. Stawski '27, chairman of the committee in charge.

The words and music of "Victory," "Susie" and "The Blue and White" have been sent to the orchestra in order that they may be rendered adaptable for dancing. The committee has decided to carry out its original plan of decorating the Armory with potted plants and natural greenery. Palms and ferns will provide a setting for the orchestra box while green cut branches will grace the corners of the dance floor.

A prize poster contest has been launched with the award of a complimentary ticket to those submitting twenty accepted posters. The posters should be in three colors and should be turned in to A. S. Zerbe '27, at the Sigma Pi house by Tuesday. Tickets for the Farmer's Ball will be priced at two dollars and will be available at one of the State College shops next week.
