

WOMEN

Editor-in-Chief
Katherine Holbrook '28

Assistant Editor
Mildred A. Webb '28

Junior Assistants
Mary V. Flanagan '29
Arnes E. Geary '29
Bessie I. Wolfson '29

MAINLY FOR TOWN GIRLS

Last week the Town Girls elected a senator who will represent them on the Senate of the Women's Student Government Association. She will have passed this first milestone in our efforts for better understanding between the girls who live on the campus and those who don't.

All the girls are urged to take to their senator any matters that they feel they care to; and she will take them into consideration in her plans of what she will suggest before the Senate on various matters.

Her job is to do all she can for your benefit, but she will be helpless unless you co-operate with her and tell her just what you want and need.

It is too late this year for much to be done, but the first thing in the fall your senator will be on hand ready to give all the time and effort necessary to see that your interests are not neglected, and that everything possible is done for you.

Mac Hall Inmates Choose New Cells

"What number did you get? Three? Get some folks are born lucky and some aren't, that way. I've got ninety-nine."

This is a sample of the conversation that could be heard all over the campus for a few days last week, for it was not the occasion of the annual drawing for rooms?

Following this came three days of choosing, in turn as the numbers specified, the rooms that are to be occupied for the next school year. There is much rushing about and crying out against the luck that gives the person just ahead the room that you want, or the fact that just when you have gathered a "gang" to take a cottage on a certain group of rooms that of them will change her mind and join many of all over the place to find a substitute.

There is an unusual thing this year in the fact that many upperclass girls have gone back to Mac Hall and that all the rooms are taken except a few on the court. Where, we ask you, are they going to put the new freshmen?

Thespians Give Final Production Tomorrow

(Continued from first page)
Tomorrow night's performance closes the collegiate footlight career of seven members of the Thespian cast, and it is rumored that several of this number have received professional offers.

Fraternity Seats
Although a number of fraternities have purchased blocks of seats, many well-grouped tickets are still available. They will be on sale at the Floral Shoppe from seven until nine o'clock tonight. For the special benefit of the alumni, tickets will be sold on the campus tomorrow between two and four-thirty o'clock and at the box office in the Auditorium an hour before the show.

It is requested that all tickets that have been reserved on credit be paid for previous to seven o'clock. Otherwise these tickets will be placed on sale.

EQUITABLE LIFE OF IOWA
J. A. (Pop) GARRISON
AGENT
Phone 325-W 121 Burrows St.

Marcel, Water and Permanent Waving
THE S SHOP
Phone 354-J 129 Allen St.

THIS SPACE RESERVED FOR SCHLOW'S QUALITY SHOP

Off Campus Girls Elect Officers For Next Year

The Town Girls Club elected the following officers last week: president, Miss Clara Ery, '29; vice-president, Miss Garned Fisher, '28; secretary-treasurer, Miss Jan Wharton, '30; senator, Miss Katherine Holbrook, '28.

PENNSYLVANIA FARMERS TO CONDUCT FIELD DAY

Reforestation Demonstrations Will Mark Program Here, June Seventeenth

Pennsylvania farmers who are interested in reforestation will find six demonstrations of tree growing on the College woods at the Farmers' Field Day, June seventeenth, and fifteen more on the same day at various points in the State. The program is being conducted by the Pennsylvania Forestry Department, under the leadership of Prof. T. I. Mairs, of the Agricultural Experiment Station, University Park.

One of the windbreaks is near the College poultry plant. It consists of red pine, planted in 1920. The trees are set in rows spaced to increase their windbreaking effectiveness. Another planting is of white pine in a pasture too rocky for regular farming. About ninety-five per cent survival has been obtained here.

Woodlot Cleanings
In another woodlot in which the timber was made in 1912, European larch has done excellently in this planting, and there is some good Austrian red and Scotch pine. The chief lesson to be learned from such a woodlot is that frequent cleanings must be made to carry the planting through successfully.

Among the other woodlots to be visited in a regularly planned tour on Farmers' Field Day are the experimental plantations, the locust and catalpa post, spruce plantations, and red pine plantations in shade and sunlight.

Visit Laboratories
Fields, barns and laboratories at the College will reveal the latest agricultural information to the thousands of visitors that are expected. Orchards and gardens also will be open for inspection, and members of the agricultural staff will be on hand to explain the experimental results.

Livestock-judging contests will be open to those desiring to participate, and some of the latest information on livestock feeding, applicable to dairy cattle, poultry and meat animals will be presented. Recent developments in soil management, grain and forage crop production will be reviewed. The program is full of interesting events for the farmer, whether plant or animal grower.

Women's Program
For the women of the farm a special home economics program has been arranged. This will include entertainment, as well as helpful suggestions for the household worker. Spacious picnic grounds and ample parking space make Penn State especially suitable for such a gathering. In addition to many other diversions there are the College exhibits which will be of great interest to the visitors.

Inaugural of Hetzel Marks Graduation Card

(Continued from first page)
Class bouquets and bouquets at various points on the campus during the dinner hour, final presentation of "Girl Wanted" by the Thespians in the Auditorium at seven-thirty o'clock, and fraternity dances an hour later will conclude the program for Saturday.

On Sunday morning the Reverend Donald E. Aldrich, D. D., of New York City, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon in the Auditorium at ten-thirty o'clock. The next event scheduled for the day is at three-thirty o'clock in the afternoon, at which time the College band will hold its concert on the front campus.

A vesper service address by the Reverend Eraser Metzger, D. D., of New Brunswick, New Jersey, in the Opera and Theater at six-thirty o'clock, followed by the Penn State choral club combined concert in the Auditorium at eight o'clock, will close the Sabbath program.

Open Air Exercises
Senior Class Day exercises in the open air theater at nine o'clock Monday morning will usher in Alumni Day events to which the remainder of the day will be devoted. The annual meeting of the Alumni Association will be held in the Auditorium at ten-thirty o'clock and continue until noon, when the group will adjourn to the front campus for luncheon.

A parade of classes to New Beaver field, where class stunts will occupy the attention of visitors, will form on the front campus at one-thirty o'clock. One hour later the varsity finale will spotlight the alumni baseball team on New Beaver diamond.

Visiting parents and alumni will be formally received by the College at four-thirty o'clock in the afternoon, while alumni members, seniors and guests will dine at McAllister Hall. The College musical clubs will entertain in the Auditorium at eight o'clock and from nine-thirty to ten-thirty o'clock alumni, faculty, seniors, juniors, candidates for advanced degrees and guests will be rendered a commencement reception in the Armory.

At the conclusion of the reception a formal dinner lasting until two o'clock will cap the day's events. Tuesday will mark the climax of the five-day program. The commencement procession will form in front of McAllister Hall at nine forty-five o'clock and march to the front campus under the leadership of the College band. At ten o'clock President Hetzel will be formally installed as Penn State's tenth executive, with the induction officiating by Judge H. Watson Mitchell, U. S. D., president of the Board of Trustees.

Governor Fisher will administer the oath of office, after which President Hetzel will deliver his inaugural address. The latter will then award diplomas to the graduates in the front of Old Main or in the Auditorium in case of inclement weather.

The five-day commencement calendar will be officially closed with a Senate luncheon to Trustees at the Centre Hills country club at twelve-thirty o'clock.

W. A. A. Elects Manager Of 1927-28 Rifle Team
M. Y. Flanagan '29 was elected manager of next year's rifle team at a meeting of the W. A. A. Monday evening.

Fire Insurance
Eugene H. Lederer

REYNOLDS SAILS ABOARD "RYNDAM" AS INSTRUCTOR

College-ship Weighs Anchor in September for Cruise Around World

Combining world travel with teaching, F. T. Reynolds, English instructor here for the past three years, will sail from New York September twentieth on the S. S. Ryndam as a member of the faculty on "The Second College Cruise Around the World."

Mr. Reynolds graduated from Amherst college in 1924, where he received his B. A. degree. In 1925 he received his M. A. at Penn State. During the greater part of last summer he attended the University of Geneva, in Switzerland, taking post-graduate work.

Others in the faculty of the college cruise are John Carlton, Ph. D., LL. D., president; R. D. Westerfield, Ph. D., dean, and twenty-eight more educators.

The purpose of this cruise is not merely to promote an interesting travel course, but to broaden and sharpen the student by actual contact with the subject he may be studying. Examples of this illustrated study would be architecture in Greece, foreign languages in their native homes, comparative governments, and such unending examples. In fact, the curriculum has been adapted to the course of the voyage. In doing this such subjects as physics and chemistry have been excluded and more emphasis given to history, economics and others of a like nature.

Itinerary
The itinerary, which practically circles the globe, begins and ends at New York, although starting and returning in opposite directions. The route lies through the Panama Canal, across the Pacific, down the Singapore Straits, through the Suez Canal, the Mediterranean and Gibraltar, up to London, and home again.

While in the Mediterranean the ship crosses and recrosses the lake of Simbad the Sailor in sight of the Saccrae Cliffs, where the Roc of the Arabian Nights laid her egg. Crossing the equator at Java, the rites of Neptune are administered to all novices aboard. It is interesting to note that Shanghai, China, is included in the itinerary, nearby which is the University of Lingnan, an extension of Penn State.

Although vastly different from

Annual Concert Marks Alumni Day Activities

(Continued from first page)
With the reunion classes and the new alumni as spectators the alumni nine will test its strength against the varsity baseball squad. With a large number of old grads signed up to sustain the honors of teams of former years the contest promises to be good.

As a climax for the events of the day a large dinner will be held in McAllister Hall at six o'clock. President R. D. Hetzel will be the principal guest and at this time will make his first address to the former graduates and their guests.

Everyone is welcome at this event and the class 1927 of especially are requested to attend.

In accordance with previous plans it was hoped that the Honorable John S. Fisher, governor of Pennsylvania, would be present for this ceremony, but his secretary stated to Mr. Sullivan in a telephone conversation Monday morning that it would be impossible.

Dance Completes Program
With a concert by the musical club at eight o'clock in the Auditorium, followed by a commencement reception for alumni, faculty, seniors, juniors and guests, and a dance in the Armory from ten-thirty o'clock until two the day's program will be complete.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening six classes will come together for a reunion. These classes are '92, '95, '97, '02, '14 and '22. All except the class of '95 have arranged for banquets. The groups of '97, '02 and '14 have made plans to meet at the Centre Hills Country club, the class of '02 at the Berkshire hotel and the class of '92 at Snowshoe Intersection.

most schools, the floating college is not without its activities, which range from a newspaper, the "Binnacle," to swimming, soccer and other sports. Stopping at ports along the way, the ship team has scheduled games with the colleges located at these places.

The S. S. Ryndam of the Holland-American line, which served in the first cruise, is chartered for this trip. It is 560 feet long and has unusually wide decks which admirably adapt the ship for a floating college. It is well equipped with all the necessities for comfort, study, recreation, etc.

Plan of Teaching
The plan of teaching will be a modification of the tutoring system, having but fifteen men in a class. Another advantage is that studying at sea will have none of the distractions of land.

"PENN STATE ENGINEER" TO HAVE SEVEN ISSUES

Price Remains Same—Hold Two Contests—Cover Designer Will Get Prize

In considering the policies of the Penn State Engineer for the coming year, the executive board has formulated several new plans, and has decided to publish seven issues instead of the four printed heretofore.

Two contests will be held under the auspices of the Engineer. As one of these, prizes will be awarded to the students submitting the best articles. The other contest will be conducted among the designers of the covers of next year's issues.

Although the number of issues of the magazine will be increased by three, the board has decided to keep the subscription price at one dollar a year. Because of this important change, a great forward stride next year is expected for the engineering publication.

AGRICULTURAL CHEMISTS REPORT EXPERIMENT ON VITAMINE A TREATMENT

Prof. R. A. Dutcher, J. O. Ely and Miss Hannah E. Hoagery, of the agricultural chemistry department, have recently completed an experiment showing that mineral oil has little worth for vitamin A treatment. This report was made at the Rochester meeting of the Federated Societies for Experimental Biology and Medicine, held during the last month. The local chemists prove that mineral oils dissolve the fat soluble vitamin A not only from the food, but also depletes the body tissues. A preliminary report has been submitted for publication in the June number of the proceedings of the last meeting.

Penn State Students Leave for Eaglesmere

Five women and fifteen men students will leave Penn State today to attend the ten-day Y. M. C. A. conference at Eaglesmere. Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, who was at the College for three days last year will be one of the opening speakers.

Players Glee Active Year With Dover Road

(Continued from first page)
Jackson Wheatley '29, Miss G. M. Davis '30, R. S. Pritchard '28, R. W. Huston '27, N. D. Zimmerman '27, Miss O. E. Osterhout '30, W. B. Iiko '28, G. A. Knight '30, Miss L. H. Robertson '27, Miss M. D. Reed '28 and Miss Dorothy Musser '27.

According to Professor Clostinech, the stage force has been unusually efficient this year. During the coming season E. L. Paterson '28 will be the senior stage manager, assisted by H. M. Penhigon '28, C. B. Gilbert '28, L. M. Hines '28, A. W. Straw '28, W. C. Bradycomb '29, T. M. Bartram '29, Howard Alexander '29 and Miss V. Kluge. Miss Sara Hartz '28 will have charge of costumes, and E. W. Bailey '28 will again take care of the lighting.

Seniors, Alumni Revel At Commencement Hop

(Continued from first page)
flanked by eucalyptus behind a white miniature fence.

At the entrance of the Armory will be a bower of fresh-cut trees ranging from six to twelve feet in height from which a two-hundred foot canopy, with a cocoanut matting beneath, will extend.

1927 Numerals
The basketball backboards will be decorated in blue and white while the numerals of the graduating class will be set forth in electric lights.

Ross Smith's orchestra, of Johnstown, has a special list of Penn State songs for the occasion and will also present several novelty acts and entertainment features.

"The Dover Road" An Absurd Comedy, Tonight

Wishing You a Pleasant Summer Vacation
EGOLF'S

We thank you for your patronage during the past year.
Best Wishes for a Happy Vacation

NELO'S
Allen Street

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR
NISSANY MOTOR CO.
TRACTORS PHONE 445 SERVICE

I wish to thank the student body of Penn State for their patronage during the last year and I hope to be able to serve you in 1927-28.
W. H. HUDNALL

While in Town Be Sure to Dine at LAIRD'S TEA ROOM
"A MEAL WITH US IS A REAL TREAT"
228 W. College Ave.
Two Blocks From Co-Op. Corner

Commencement Gifts
Appropriate and Priced Right
HANN & O'NEAL

We wish to thank the students of Penn State for their patronage during the past year and to wish them, one and all, a Happy Vacation.

Winner's Meat Market
Bell 293

SENIORS

Watch Penn State Advance

By Reading The Collegian

1927-28

Subscribe Now