Side Lines

"Grid Gossip" has gone. But there is no cause for joy, for in its place comes "Side Lines," successor to the former which has had a reign of six years or more. Gossip implies feminine chattering, doesn't go well with grid and finds favor only with Miss Delp. Besides Joe Krall is on the bench.

Saturday was a day of deception. The maroon and white jerseys of the end cash customers for a time. Some of the crowd thought Rog Mahoney had transferred to the valley institution when his unmistakable practice was discovered. Still others wondered when the managerial corps was going to put the goal posts in place.

The new scoreboard, quite a novel thing, attracted much comment during the Lebanon Valley games. Red lights are used to indicate five yards and white lights to indicate one yard. Every time Gebelt, wily visiting halfback, carried the ball, the score board looked like a traffic signal in a busy city. And when Dangeloff put on his hide-and-seek act the light governor blew out a fuse!

The Lions dined new jerseys this year because their colors coincided with Lebanon Valley's in 1926. Bezdek's cohorts were tossing the oval to every valley player except the subs—and even to them when they were needed. This season, however, the colors conflicted distinctly!

back usurped his dessert. Just then, Bez entered and barked, "Nice work, Cy!" But Hugo referred to the 40-yard dash Lungren manipulated in the last period.

"It takes the Irish to beat the Dutch," laughed Rog Mahoney as he received the centre assignment in favor of Parana.
