

BRYAN TO CONDUCT OPEN FORUM HERE

Princeton Graduate Will Speak To Students at Church Supper Thursday

VISITOR, CREW MENTOR, WAS ACTIVE IN COLLEGE

W. B. Bryan, twice a chapel speaker at Penn State, will return this year to be the principal speaker at the student supper to be held at the Centre Hills country club Thursday.

The supper is under the auspices of the Presbyterian church and it is the second of its kind. The principal speaker at this event last year was also Mr. Bryan. Mr. Bryan, a graduate of Princeton, class of 1920, is at present the Presbyterian University pastor at Princeton besides acting as assistant coach of the college crew.

On graduation from Princeton Mr. Bryan left an enviable record in college activities. He was a member of the varsity crew, a member of the staff of the Daily Princetonian, a member of the Triangle club, the college dramatic society, and also president of the Christian Association.

The program will consist of the dinner, which will be followed by music, a talk given by Mr. Bryan and a devotional period at the end of the evening. At the conclusion of his talk, Mr. Bryan will conduct an open forum in which all present will be invited to participate.

Lion Soccermen Will Take Northern Tour

Immediately after the Toronto franchise, the Nittany booters will trek their way to the Orange camp in New York to encounter Syracuse in the first inter-league game of the season. Syracuse's start in the league was auspicious since the Hill men lost their initial game to Lehigh Saturday afternoon, 3-1. Lehigh, who is also listed as a Penn State opponent, played a league game Friday with Cornell and lost a 2-0 decision Cornell is another league opponent.

Booters Preparing Lightly

Although resting themselves with light scrimmages for the past few days, the Penn State soccer men have not been marking time. Accurate booting has been stressed as well as swift, sure passing. Coach Jeffrey is instructing his men in the use of the open formation game so that long passes, in contrast to the more puny ones of the opposition, will mark the Lion play in coming games.

According to Coach Jeffrey, the team this year is better organized as a unit and better prepared man for man than it was at this stage of the season last year. There are few weak spots to be strengthened. These can be bolstered only in time after the Nittany passers ascertain the nature and quantity of their defects.

Navy Strong

From all early season indications, Navy has one of the strongest combinations and may again prove the Lion nemesis as it did two years ago by upsetting Penn State for the first defeat in five years. So far this year the Middies in two league games have trounced Lehigh 4-1, and administered a 5-1 drubbing to Swarthmore. Both the Brown and White and the Garnet teams will meet Penn State later in the season.

Lions Defeat Quakers By Aerial Offensive

back's second attempt to break through tackle ended abruptly when he fumbled and Penn State recovered.

After a line forward pass, Roepke to Hamas, and line thrusts by Lungren and Roepke, had proved unprofitable, the blond leader punted to Wilner, a fifty-five yard kick, and the Quaker halfback returned the ball nine yards. Again, Penn's chances for a score were enhanced when Brill and Murphy, using Len Young's backfield magic effectively, carried the ball dangerously near the scoring strips before Penn State's inspired line, aided by a penalty which cost Penn Brill's eleven yards plus five more, checked the determined onslaught of the Red and Blue. Brill had excursioned to the five yard line before the devastating decree of the field judge sent the Penn force back to the nineteen yard line.

Murphy Fumbles

Here, Penn State received the ball on downs as Brill's desperate aerial effort proved futile. Steve Hamas, playing the best game of his career, rushed half furiously off left tackle for a ten yard gain. Roepke failed to reach Hamas' low forward pass but darted five yards through the right section of the Penn wall on the next play. Johnny Licked forty yards to Murphy when the Lion overhead attack failed to make headway. The Penn signal center fumbled the ball and Delp grasped it.

Again Penn State opened a baffling passing system. Roepke caught the opposing second defense contingent unawares and threw a short aerial heave to Lesko who tripped and fell at the twenty-seven yard stripe. Roepke traveled left end for eight more and lost two on a fake forward pass. The third period ended as Hamas acquired a first down through center and Wolf added two yards through left tackle.

With Penn State in possession of the ball on the fifteen yard line, the same mystifying overhead offense which Penn was unable to fathom found the weary Quakers befuddled. In fact, it was this attack that was responsible for the second score of the Berdek machine at a most unexpected time. Lungren's two line thrusts had little profit. From the thirty-three yard line Roepke attempted a placement kick but it veered to the left of the goal post. The Penn stands cried for the well-known belittled rally of Coach Young's gridders.

as they gained the ball on the twenty yard line.

Lesko Scores

Berdek's bloodthirsty Lions were tackling with a ferocity that despatched both Scull and Shober to the injured list earlier in the game. It was the same lunging momentum that upset Murphy and caused him to fumble for the second time. Again Penn State recovered. Forbes was substituted for Waselesons to freshen the second defense of the Quakers. Roepke faked a right end run on the next play and heaved a well timed forward pass to Lesko who was uncovered to the left of the line. The ball launched in the vanguard's arms and he crossed the goal as his line defense quickly cut off every would-be Penn tackle.

Sixty thousand amazed football fans had hardly settled in their seats before the Lion onslaught had curied the ball over for the third time and increased Penn State's total score to twenty. Roepke kicked the ball on each occasion.

Another Penn Fumble

The third and final counter was registered less than two minutes after Mahoney had kicked off to Murphy and the Penn quarterback fumbled for the third time. Delp was alert and recovering the ball whirled his way forward fifteen yards before the Quaker tacklers brought him to earth. Hamas lost two yards on a poorly executed cross buck, and Wolf tossed a shot forward to Delp on the eight yard line. Hamas smashed center for six yards more and a fist down while Roepke carried the ball through the same place and over for the final touchdown.

As the last period drew to a close, forward passes, recklessly attempted, fairly rained over the Franklin Field gridiron. Penn's gain was meager. Penn State profited by last minute passes and with more care and perseverance might have tallied twice more.
