BETA CHI PHI PAYS VISIT TO ENGINEERING EXHIBITS

Beta Chi Phi, honorary women's science fraternity, had a meeting just before vacation which was in the form of an inspection trip through the Engineering buildings where various "stunt" exhibits had been prepared for them. They were also shown the new street car, the telephone exchange, and the radio department.

GRANGE FUND FOR DORM NEARS GOAL

With the beginning of the year comes the news that the Grange fund for the new women's dormitory has reached the ninety thousand dollar mark, which will enable them to begin work on the building as soon as conditions permit in the Spring.

The Grange has been working on this fund for more than a year, and as it nears its goal of one hundred thousand dollars enthusiasm attempts to attain it in the near future are being made.

Town Girls Will Hold Closed Dance Tonight

All Town Girls who have not done so already are asked to sign up on the list at Dean Ray's office immediately if they expect to attend the dance at the Alpha Chi Sigma house tonight, so that sufficient refreshments may be provided.

The girls who have not yet paid their first semester dues are urged to do so at once, as this is the price of admission.

Campus girls, and boys other than members of the Alpha Chi Sigma fraternity are urged to note that the dance is closed.

Professor J. O. Keller Joins Engineering Tour

Professor J. O. Keller, head of the engineering extension department at the College, will be one of three members of a faculty in charge of an engineering tour to the industrial countries of Europe next summer.

Public utility industrial executives, engineering students and instructors will make the trip to England, Germany, Belgium and France for the purpose of studying industrial and commercial conditions there. Professor Keller is to give a series of lectures during the tour. N. C. Miller, former head of the Penn State engineering extension department, and now director at Rutgers University, will have charge of the trip.

Dr. John Cornelius To Address Chapel Group

His lectures throughout the United States and his writings concerning international and inter-racial relations have made him a well-known figure. Last spring he made an extended tour of the western states.

Concerning the work of Dr. Cornelius Bishop F. B. Fisher of Calcutta, India writes:

"Only an Indian can interpret the soul of Indian to Americans and John Cornelius is the best man now in America to do it."

PROPOSED GRANGE DORMITORY

Dean Wendt's Varied Life Warrants Recent Honors

The life of Dean Gerald L. Wendt has been one of varied experiences and warrants the honor which he has received by his selection as director of the Battelle Memorial Institute.

Born in Davenport, Iowa, on March 3, 1891, he was educated at the Harvard, where he received the degree of A. B. in 1913, and his A. M. later and in 1924 his Ph. D. degree. After graduating he was engaged in research study at the radium laboratory of Professor Jacques Danne at Gif, near Paris. In 1916, he became junior chemist in the United States Bureau of Mines and took part in the development of the American process for the extraction of radium from carnotite ore at Denver.

Dean Wendt then taught for a year at the Rice Institute in Houston, Texas and in 1917 was appointed instructor in chemistry at the University of Chicago. His service there was interrupted by the war, during which he was commissioned as captain in the Chemical Warfare Service and was in charge of researches in the laboratory established at the American University in Washington, D. C. Returning to Chicago after the war, he was promoted to assistant and then to associate professor but resigned in 1922 to become assistant director of research for the Standard Oil Company of Indiana at the Whiting, Indiana, plant.

In 1924 Doctor Wendt came here as dean of the School of Chemistry and Physics and at once began organization of the division of Industrial Research and acted as its director for two years. He was also active in the organization of the Institute of Chemistry of the American Chemical Society and was the director of the first session, which was held at the College during this past summer.

Dean Wendt is best known for his researches on the chemical action of radium rays, the ozone form of hydrogen, the active forms of hydrogen, nitrogen, and chlorine, chemical reactions in electrical discharges, the measurement of hydrogen ion concentration, the thermal decomposition of tungsten into helium, and his knowledge of the chemistry of petroleum refining.

tractive effect on the stage. The men's costumes will be rented from a theatrical firm.

Complete Lights
An entirely new system of lighting, has been completed, and together with the scenery, which has been built for this play, is expected to add considerably to its effective production.

Because M. Rickett will graduate in February, there will be but one showing of the play.

Tickets will be on sale at "Whitey" Musser's beginning January thirtieth. They will sell for seventy-five cents and one dollar.

who presented their religious difficulties.

Questions that vitally concern the Christian world today, such as, "The Weakness and Strength of Christian Missions," "Foreign Missions and the Future" and "Inter-racial Co-operation for a Better World" were freely discussed by various groups at the convolve. Topics of the college campus were also brought up at the convention.

GRANGE SUMMONS BOOSTER MEETING

Town Canvassers Will Report On Progress of Drive For Dormitory Fund

SOLICITORS MUST RAISE QUOTA OF LOCAL LODGE

Attainment of its fifteen hundred dollar quota as a contribution to the fund for erecting the Grange Memorial Dormitory for women will be the purpose of an open meeting of the Penn State Grange tonight at seven-thirty o'clock in Room 100 Holt Hall.

Mrs. W. D. Phillips, trustee of the College and member of the home economy committee of the Penn State Grange, will be the principal speaker at the meeting. Dean Charles E. Ray, Ellen Burkholtz, president of the Women's Student Government Association, and W. F. Hill, past Master of the Pennsylvania State Grange, will also address the gathering.

Canvassers State College. During the last few days the faculty, student organizations and lay people have been canvassed by a special committee of the local lodge, which will make a report at this meeting.

The new structure will cost $250,000 of which $150,000 will be raised by bond. To date, Grange throughout the State have collected approximately $90,000 for the gift to the College and as soon as the remaining $10,000 has been raised building operations will begin. The local Grange expects to raise fifteen hundred dollars, five hundred of which have already been collected by the sale of cook books and plays.

Gift to College

According to the architect's plans for the dormitory there will be a large central building of three and a half stories with two wings two stories in height. It will be situated between McAllister Hall and Everyn College and it is believed will be the finest gift that the College has received in recent years.

"Oh! Will It Rattle? Did You Hear It?" Co-eds Are Rattled By Empty Cage

That even co-eds are subject to all types of animal psychology, and that they of the fair sex are also human, was proved by the incident which occurred in the Nature Study department in 100 Old Main just before vacation.

Following the usual class work several of the skirted students while walking near long rows of exhibits, noticed that the wicked looking rattlesnake was not in its usual place. At this alarming discovery it was feared the animal had escaped and was possibly at that very moment in the act of tangling with some innocent Old Main letterer.

As in the movies, several hours elapsed and one of the professors from the extension department returned from a trip to Williamsport where he had taken the snake for exhibition purposes. All student fears were thereby allayed and beauty sleeps resumed their former ascendancy.

VARSITY DEBATERS RESUME PRACTICE

Forensic Team Starts Extensive Schedule in February with New Jersey Law School

COACH FRIZZELL NAMES TRIO OF WOMEN VOTERS

In preparation for seven debates already scheduled and several more which are being arranged, the varsity debaters will resume practice next week, announced Prof. John H. Frizzell, coach of the team, yesterday.

The next forensic meet will be on January tenth when the Penn State team will debate New Jersey Law School at Newark on the motion "Resolved That the United States should cease to protect American investments in foreign countries." The following night the Nittany team will discuss the same topic at Rutgers.

George Washington university will be the next opponent encountered here when on February eighteenth, the orators will again debate the American investment problem in the Auditorium.

Schedule Marietta

On February twenty-second, the Penn State team will begin its western trip at Marietta, Ohio, and on successive nights debaters representing Wooster, Western Reserve and Ohio Wesleyan will be met by the Lion trio. At Wooster the team is coached by Prof. Emerson W. Miller, formerly a member of the Penn State faculty, while at Ohio Wesleyan the squad is in charge of W. Roy Denn, formerly a varsity debator here.

A girls team is being selected by Professor Frizzell to debate George Washington university's women orators March second in the Auditorium on the foreign investment question.

New Year's Day Resolutions Disrupts Usual Routine of Girls' Dormitories

The girls' dormitories were not ill most of the inmates did not even think they were ailing, but there were some anxious souls who wondered if the abnormal air of goodness that floated about was not the mockery of some internal fever. They investigated, and after several days spent in making the diagnosis, they sagely pronounced it a "false alarm" and went their way in peace.

That is the medical way of saying that New Year's Day has come and gone, and left behind it the resolutions that New Year's Day usually inspires. So for a time fat girls will go candy-less, lean girls will get up for breakfast, and all work will be done on time. Then the resolutions will seem less and less desirable and finally go the way of all impossible things.

Distinguished by a favor that places it first

It is a natural pride that Camel feels for its triumphs. Not only did it lead the field shortly after its introduction. It passed steadily on with each succeeding year until today it holds a place in public favor higher than any other smoke ever reached. Camel is supreme with modern smokers.

Obviously, there is a quality here that particular smokers appreciate. It is indeed the myriad qualities of perfection that are to be found in the choicest tobaccos grown. And the art of Nature is aided by a blending that unfolds each delicate taste and fragrance.

You will more than like Camels. You will find a solace in them every smoking hour. Their mildness and mellowness are an endless pleasure.

"Have a Camel!"
