Lion Five Falls Before Orange Floor-men, 29-14, in Fray Saturday Night

After annexing a close and spectacular game at Colgate by the score of 33 to 32, the Lion basketball team returned to Syracuse to receive a 29-14 defeat at the hands of the Orange quintet Saturday night in a loose and ragged contest.

Colgate's quintet led by a narrow margin during most of the first half. Starting like a flash, the Maroon dribblers rolled up a lead of six points before the game was barely under way. The Nittany tossers soon tied the count and continued to hold their own for the rest of the period and the half ended with the score 20 to 17 in favor of the Maroon.

Score Tied Four Times Immediately after Bickle had tallied from the foul line at the opening of the second half, the Lions made two baskets to tie the score. Bickle counted from scrimmage for Colgate and Delp retaliated. The Blue and White courtmen led for a moment after Jacobson, who was substituted for Hamas early in the first period, made a field goal, but Bickle overcame the advantage on the next play with another two-pointer.

At this juncture Hagy dribbled down a clear floor to re-establish the Maroon's lead. Hamas, who had just re-entered the game, tallied from the foul line, Hagy added two points to Colgate's advantage and Reilly tallied. After Hagy's foul shot, Reilly (Continued on third page)

Chemical Group To Honor Memory of Doctor Evan Pugh

That Penn State owes its very existence as a land grant college to the personal efforts of her first president, Dr. Evan Pugh, will be but one of the many interesting features to be brought out by Dr. Erwin W. Runkle, college historian, in his address at the Pugh Centenary celebration to be held tomorrow night at eight o'clock in the Chemistry amphitheater.

It will also be established that this thirty-one-year old president of the old "Farmers High School," through his experiments in England, proved the contention that plants have ability to manufacture nitrogen, thereby gaining for himself world wide recognition. The meeting will be an observance of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Dr. Pugh, February 29, 1828. It is being held under the auspices of the Central Pennsylvania branch of the American Chemical society, of which Professor Raymond A. Dutcher is president.

McAndrews Defeats O'Malley in Heavyweight Battle to Get Decision

Penn State's boxers downed the Massachusetts Institute of Technology mittens, 6-1, Saturday night, in a meet that was filled with action from beginning to end. In spite of the one-sided score, the Tech boxers put up strong fights which called for extra rounds in two bouts.

Battle of the Heavies

The battle of the heavies, between Captain "Tools" O'Malley and Mart McAndrews proved to be the most exciting bout of the evening. Both boxers were of the same build and employed the same style of fighting while neither lacked punching power. O'Malley opened the first round with a rush and peppered McAndrews with rights and chased Marpy to his favorite place on the ropes. But every time O'Malley charged the Lion heavy he ran into one of Marpy's lefts which were enough to stop the M I T man's rushes. O'Malley got the first round, but McAndrews came back in the last (Continued on last page)

IOWA WRESTLERS WIN FROM LIONS

Westerners Display Strength and Skill in Taking Five Individual Contests

PACKARD, HOLLOBAUGH OBTAIN NITTANY POINTS

Iowa State's husky and well-conditioned string of grapplers displayed a superior brand of wrestling such as is seldom seen at the Armory mats, Saturday, when they handed the Penn State wrestlers their first defeat of the season, 19-8.

Packard and Hollobaugh secured the only victories for the Nittany team, the former winning over Blair, formidable Iowan, in a triple-period bout. The two middleweight wrestlers went through the allotted ten minutes without either being able to demonstrate superiority. It was only in the second extra period that Packard was able to show his supremacy by maintaining his offensive hold and gaining a time advantage of one minute, twenty-seven seconds.

Hollobaugh had his opponent, the short but heavy Ruggles, down well before the bout had gotten well under way. Ruggles suddenly threw himself off guard, was on his back, formidable Iowan, in a triple-period bout. The two middleweight wrestlers went through the allotted ten minutes without either being able to demonstrate superiority. It was only in the second extra period that Packard was able to show his supremacy by maintaining his offensive hold and gaining a time advantage of one minute, twenty-seven seconds.

FAMOUS QUARTET IS "Y" ATTRACTION

Flonzaley Four To Give Concert As Seventh Offering on Saturday Night

GROUP HAS ENTERTAINED IN EUROPE AND AMERICA

The Flonzaley Quartet, universally famous in the realm of chamber-music will give a concert at the seventh number of the Y. M. C. A. Entertainment Course in the Auditorium, Saturday night at eight-fifteen o'clock.

Founded in 1904 by Mr. E. J. de Copper, New York banker and lover of chamber music, the string quartet has given more than twenty-five hundred concerts throughout Europe and America. Following next year's tour, which will celebrate the musicians' twenty-fifth anniversary, the Quartet will disband. Unique in the history of the quartet is the fact that three of the original players are still with the organization. Adolfo Betti, first violin, Alfred Poehn, second violin and Juan d'Archaibeu, cellist, have been with the Quartet since its first concert. Ill-health contracted during the World War forced Felician d'Archaibeu to relinquish the viola seat to Nicholas Molivan in 1925.

Critics Laud Artists

A San Francisco critic recently wrote of the artists, "The string quartet in its perfection is what the Flonzaley Quartet represents." Following the Quartet's engagement in Town Hall, New York City, last November the New York Times music reviewer said, "The playing of the musicians had all its old ravishing beauty of tone, exquisite refinement of phrase and shimmering play of color."

FRESHMAN TOSSERS WIN CLASS CAGE SCRAP, 49-22

Krumrine, Meyers and Curtiss Star As Yearlings Rout Sophomore Quintet

Coach Larry Conover's versatile court charges, through the stellar playing of Meyers, Krumrine and Curtiss, handed an inexperienced sophomore quintet a 49-22 defeat in the annual class basketball scrap Saturday afternoon.

At the outset of the contest the sophomores took the lead. The freshmen, however, stimulated by the short put of their adversaries, retaliated by tossing a string of field goals which overcame their opponents' margin and placed the cubs at the helm for the remainder of the game.

Twenty field throws and nine fouls gave the first-year men a convenient lead and marked the peak of their scoring activities, thus far this season. At half time the cubs led 23-12, while in the ensuing period they outscored the 1930 contingent, three to one.

Sophomores Lack Unity Passing and shooting among the cophomores was lagged because of the continual substitution of new material. It was only during a dead-end lull on the part of the 1931 engers, that the second year men were able to tally eight double-deckers and eight penalty tosses. Captain Atkinson led the scoring list in the 1930 camp and was high point scorer of the contest with five field tosses and one free throw to his credit.

BOXERS ENTER FINALS

Phi Sigma Kappa will meet the winner of the semi-finals tomorrow night in the Armory for the interfraternity boxing title. This team defeated Delta Sigma Phi in the only bout last week. Theta Kappa Phi encountered Phi Delta Theta in the semi-finals last night.

"Selection of 'Ain't It the Truth?' as a tentative title for the coming road show and a visit here Sunday by Al White Jr., noted Philadelphia dance mentor, in order to make and approve initial plans for the production, mark recent Thespian activities. This year's offering will be a modern version of a W. S. Gilbert comic opera. The script which the club will use was prepared by Dr. William S. Dye of the English department, but has been varied somewhat by Prof. David D. Mason, working in conjunction with Mr. White.

Curiosity Satisfied The curiosity of a wife to know what her husband's country home looks like, an estate whose presence he has kept hidden from her for eighteen years, coupled with complicated and humorous situations, which follow the characters in their vast world the play with its text.

Starting off the real action of the production on the wife requests the husband to take her to this home although she has been warned that the grounds and buildings are enchanted and force all persons coming under their influence to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

Friend husband readily consented to do this because he is in possession of a charm, around which the whole play hangs and which enables him to overcome the estate's enchantment.

White Makes Special Visit On a special visit here Sunday Mr. White met some of the Thespian dancers and had a chance to observe them in action. He expressed himself as very well pleased with both the play and the dancing prospects. He will return early next week to begin intensive rehearsals for the show.
