Will Hold Affair at McAllister Hall in Lettermen's and Schoolboys' Honor

BILL ROPER, PRINCETON GRID MENTOR, TO TALK

As a means of honoring those men who have earned varsity letters and of entertaining outstanding high school athletes, the College will hold its first annual "S" banquet at McAllister Hall, on March twenty-fourth.

In addition to the Penn State men who will attend to date, thirty-five high school and preparatory school athletes have been invited. The function will be held during the week-end of the inter-scholastic basketball tournament and the committee plans to extend invitations to ten of the outstanding school-boy dribblers.

Prominent Speakers Efforts are being made to secure several men of prominence in the sporting world as speakers of the men asked, Bill Roper, noted Princeton grid mentor, has definitely consented to attend, but word has been received from Lawson Robertson, veteran track coach of the University of Pennsylvania, that a previous engagement will make his attendance impossible.

Prepare Booklet Work has been started on a proposed fifty-page booklet, copies of which will be distributed among the banquet guests. The pamphlet will give a survey of Penn State's athletic activities during the past year, and will include pictures of teams and captains in all sports.

Federation of Penna. Women Will Meet Here

The Executive Board meeting of the State Federation of Women will be held here on the week-end of the twenty-fifth of April, according to an announcement made by Dean Charlotte E. Ray. This federation takes into consideration at least twenty-five departments among which are those of Education, American Home, Literature and Law Observance.

the invitation extended by Mrs. Clara C. Phillips who is eager to have them become acquainted with Penn State, and to give them an opportunity to vote on the eight-million dollar bond issue.

by Seiler and Frable put the Bucknell five ahead. Reilly followed Seiler's foul shot with a two-pointer to tie the count. After Captain Van Nieuwenhuis sank two short tosses, Captain Seiler counted two for the Orange and Blue to knot the score again.

An exchange of free throws gave the Bisons a one-point advantage which Halicki and Frable immediately augmented with a short toss apiece. After Hamas had scored on two foul tries, Woodring and Klosterman increased the Bison lead to seven points by scoring two from the field. The Blue and White countmen tied the count by scoring three field goals and a foul try in rapid succession. The Bucknell quintet, after taking time out, returned to the floor to gain the advantage by sinking a two-point before the half ended with the score 21-19.

Lions Stage Comeback

After Hamas opened the scoring at the beginning of the final period by sinking a tap shot and evening the count, Coach Plant's dribblers immediately recaptured the lead and held it until Baron and Jacobson were inserted in the Blue and White lineup during the latter part of the half. A 27-27 deadlock was broken by Seiler who gave the Bisons the advantage with a field goal and a foul. Jacobson threatened the Orange and Blue with a long shot, but Frable retaliated with a long toss for the Bisons.

With another long toss from the side and a free throw Jacobson brought the count up to 32-32. Fouls by Woodring and Halicki gave the Bucknell five a two-point advantage, but a long shot by Hamas followed by another by Jacobson put the Lions in the lead 36-34. With but two minutes to play the Nittany quintet resorted to successful "freezing" tactics and the game ended with the Penn State dribblers still holding a two-point advantage.

Knockouts Mark Lion's Win Over Pennsylvania

he cleverly evaded Brodsky's blows and shot left after left to the stomach. After absorbing a barrage of lefts and rights to the face in the third round, Brodsky made a belated rally in the last minutes and rushed Kolakoski about the ring but the Penn State man's early lead gave him the decision.

Penn State's first loss came in the welterweight scrap when Chuck Robb failed to stop Winawski, a lanky southpaw. Both men set a fast pace in the first period and moved furiously in the second period. Winawski dodged past Robb's rights, resorted to fast fighting to win over the Nittany 145-pounder. In the final period, Robb frequently ran into Winawski's rights and failed to land his blows.

Captain Albia Wolff added another triumph to his string of victories when he disposed of Purves by a technical knockout in the second round. The Pennsylvania man was content to remain on the defensive but failed to withstand Wolff's attack in the second period.

The only clean knockout occurred when Horne felled Struble in the 175-pound setto. After getting off to a bad start in the opening minutes of the battle, Struble had his left jab working on Horne's face and managed to even up the first round. But the Pennsylvanian, smaller and lighter, cut loose on Struble's face in the second period and opened a cut over the Lion boxer's eye. With blood streaming from his eye, the Lion ringmen neglected his defense as Horne shot a right and left to his face. Both blows were well-timed. Struble fell against the ropes and sank to the floor.

Marty McAndrews drew a tough opponent in Broslow, Red and Blue heavyweight who stubbornly walled the Lion fighter for three rounds. Rushing McAndrews against the ropes proved costly for Broslow who soon discovered the reason for Marty's willingness to be assailed. A powerful left jab each time sent Broslow staggering back. In the third round McAndrews exhausted himself directing e'outs to Broslow's body and face which were wide open. When the final gong rang McAndrews was still pounding away at the Red and Blue heavyweight who had taken more than his share of punishment.

Captain Levy, 125-pound Quarterweight, forfeited the featherweight setto to Ely when a minor injury for a check infection prevented his participation.

Today, the electric motors of an American battleship have the energy of a million men, and drive thousands of tons of steel through the water at amazing speed.

Man is more than a source of power in civilized countries. Electricity has made him master of power. In coming years, the measure of your success will depend largely on your ability to make electricity work for you. Competition everywhere grows keener, and electricity cuts costs and does work better wherever it is applied.

In industry, transportation, the professions, the arts, and in the home, you will find General Electric equipment helping men and women towards better economies and greater accomplishments.
