two rounds and as a result the Red and Blue captain earned a draw in the three rounds. Filly displayed marked superiority in the extra session, however, and won the title. Two years ago Filegar won the 145-pound crown in the intercollegiate.

Filegar battled Moffett, of Navy, four rounds in the preliminaries before he was awarded the decision. A series of hard uppercuts to the jaw stopped the mad rush of the Muddie in the extra round. Moffett defeated Filly handily in the dual meet between the two schools a few weeks ago. Moffett is the son of Rear Admiral Moffett.

Filly pummeled Glassey, of Syracuse, for three rounds in the semi-finals. Glassey had gained the semi-finals by forfeit and proved an easy target for Filly's punches.

Koly loses in Finals
Kolakeski fought his way to the final by scoring a one-round knock-employed a southpaw style which puzzled Robb. A sustained attack in the first round and a barrage of blows which floored Winorsky in the second set to seemed to swing the fight to Robb but the Penn man was awarded the judges' decision.

Grant Dethroned Hamms
Steve Hamms lost to Grant, of N. Y. U., in the preliminaries. The Violet football hero failed to bother Steve and the decision in his favor came as a complete surprise to the spectators. Grant fought his way to the heavy-weight crown by downing Downer, of Western Maryland, and Broselow, of Penn., in still encounters.

Hoover Wins at Polls In Presidential Ballot votes were cast in the Liberal Arts ballot box and 261 ballots were deposited at the Ag Hill poll.

Hoover encountered no opposition at any of the polling places and also carried the faculty, men and women student classes in all of the returns. Hoover gained 197 votes in Liberal Arts, 136 on Ag Hill, 100 on Co-op corner and 308 in Old Main.

Al Smith also had an easy time for second place although he was given a battle by Daves on Ag Hill and just nosed out the soldier-economist by two votes. Smith garnered eighty-two votes in Liberal Arts, forty-one on Ag Hill, 155 on Co-op corner and 112 in Old Main.

Marty McAndrews was eliminated from titular competition in the semi-final round when Captain O'Malley, of M. I. T., scored a technical knock-out over the Lion mauler early in the third session. Marty shook up O'Malley in the first round and floored him for a short count in the second session but a spirited rally by the M. I. T. puncher overcame Marty's early lead.

O'Malley Drops Marty
In the third round O'Malley started right after Marty and floored him with a right to the jaw. The champion then cornered McAndrews and slashed him with hard rights. The referee stepped in and stopped the bout at this point. Marty was somewhat weakened by the punishment he had taken but he was still fresh at the end of the milking.

McAndrews won the judges' decision over the popular M. I. T. captain here in a dual meet early in the season. O'Malley was very popular with the audience and upheld his title as the "laughing comedian" in intercollegiate boxing circles. Burke, of Navy, put up a hard fight against him in the finals but O'Malley easily outpointed the Navy 175-pounder.

What Shakespeare says about Coca-Cola

Delicious and Refreshing

"Halloo your name to the reverberate hills, and make the babbling gossip of the air cry out"

The Bard of Avon gave much good advice. And this piece certainly has been followed by Coca-Cola.

The drink you read about. And the little red sign brightens the streets and corners of cities and towns everywhere, its name more familiar than the names of the streets themselves.

Telephone men of today are extending the horizons of speech to points beyond the sea.

New Worlds for Old

LIKE Galileo, every pioneer seeks new worlds. In the telephone industry this has led to discoveries of ways and means to better service.

Telephone pioneers of yesterday hewed a way through intricacies of science, finance and business management to establish the era of "distance speech." Telephone pioneers of our own day imagined a 'cross-ocean service—and then made it.

Telephone pioneers of tomorrow will face the challenge of new and greater problems sure to arise.
