THE FUTURE OF PENN STATE

If someone said to you, "The future of the college is in your hands", what would you think? Very probably you would laugh, and say "What nonsense!" Nevertheless, that is just the situation.

Paramount among the questions which will come before the voters of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania at the next voting time is that of the eight million dollar bond issue for Penn State. It is on the success or failure of this issue that the success or failure of Penn State rests.

Many people know nothing at all about the college and its needs. Your part comes in selling the bond issue to the folks at home. If every girl in college would take up this matter to all the voters with whom she comes in contact during the vacation, it might mean the difference between success and failure.

This bond issue means as much, or more, to the girls as to the men. One of the first questions asked by visitors from national women's fraternities is "What future has the college?" The passing of the bond issue will mean just that much more to tell these women, and hasten the advent of national women's fraternities on our campus.

With the expansion which will be made possible by the bond issue, more girls will be able to come here. Let every girl take it upon herself to convert at least twenty-five voters to the cause, and as the girls come from every corner of the state, this will be doing unmeasurable good towards creating a "bigger and better Penn State".

The future of Penn State is in your hands. What are you going to do about it?

Convention of Cwens Will Meet In Missouri

Caroline Haller and Helen Foust from the Penn State chapter of the Cwens, honorary sophomore activities society, will attend the National Convention of that organization on March twenty-ninth and thirtieth at the University of Missouri, Columbia, Missouri.

At the Costume Cotillon to be held in the Armory after the Easter vacation, the Cwens are sponsoring a tea-room which will be decorated in keeping with the general scheme. The money which is cleared will be used to defray the expenses of the delegates to the convention.

McAllister Hall Will Hold Subscription Dance

The girls of McAllister Hall will hold their second semester dance tomorrow night. The affair, which is in charge of Anne Fernald '29, social chairman, will be a free social function. Upperclass girls are invited to visit, and underclass girls may attend on payment of the subscription, which is one dollar.

The music will be furnished by the Campus Owls Miss Ray, Mrs. Champlain, Mrs. Dingle and Miss Heidt are the patronesses.

Medieval Effect Will Characterize Cotillon

The committee in charge of the Costume Cotillon has set aside the twentieth of April for the dance. This will give the girls an opportunity to get costumes during Easter vacation. Caroline Haller and Eleanor Dutton, both of the sophomore class, are in charge of the decorations for the dance. Their plan will give the Armory a medieval atmosphere.

The committee has planned several surprise features for entertainment during intermissions.

COMMITTEE PLANS FOR MAY-DAY CELEBRATION

May Day will be celebrated Saturday, May twelfth, the day before Mother's Day.

Elizabeth Hazel and Frances Gager '28 were the candidates nominated Monday for May Queen while Anne Mellinger and Grace Geier '30 were selected as candidates for Freshman attendant.

The committee has been working on new plans to make this year's celebration more elaborate than ever. A play coached by Prof. A. C. Cloetingh of the English Department will be given. Margaret Girven '29, chairman.

Girls Favor Rosy Cheeks and Health

"It isn't the burden that breaks you down, but the way you carry it," said second floor Mac Hall and it won first prize in the Health Slogan contest in the dining room Tuesday night. The third floor received honorable mention. Their slogan was "Posture correction—Schoolgirl complexion—Right direction—Physical perfection." Some other clever slogans were "Health bent for heaven," "The Old Golden rule not a cough in a cold," "Health is wealth, let's be millionaires." The Freshman dormitory yelled, "Health is a gold mine, dig for it."

During the past week red tags have hung from the club and fraternities of girls who had good posture, wore low heels and looked healthy. Lights have been turned out earlier than usual, and the waiters have had to bring in more milk than formerly.

Health Week has started all girls seeking for health and they mean to get it. They have begun a quest for rosy cheeks, slim figures, and soldier-boy postures, and unless there is a decided drop in interest, Penn State girls are on the road to better health.

Debating Season Ends For Penn State Girls

With the cancellation of the debate against Waynesburg, the Penn State girl's debating squad has concluded its season.

The girls lost their first debate to George Washington. They were again defeated at the University of Pittsburgh, but won their last encounter with Cedar Crest at State College.
