The vote in each case was, however, not half of the total number of ballots cast. The matter will be left for further settlement in the hands of the election committee composed of Harold E. Hastings, Wallace S. Liggitt, Wesley B. Marshall and William J. McLaughlin.

Cross-Country Separated According to the constitution as it now stands, track and cross-country are two different sports. SENIORS OBSERVE IVY DAY TONIGHT

Committee Will Plant Vine With Traditional Ceremony in Honor of Class

HAROLD B. VON NEIDA '28 TO GIVE MEMORIAL TALK

Ivy Day will be observed tonight at seven o'clock in front of Old Main when a special committee will plant the traditional vine in memory of the departing class of 1928.

The committee is composed of Harold B. Von Neida, William S. Thompson, John C. DeHoff, Harold Dangerfield, Arthur Hawkins, Harold E. Hastings, Alex Dow, Miss Frances Gage, Miss Ann Downing and Miss Ellen Blusholder. Other members of the class will, however, be present at the event.

A tablet with the senior class numerals upon it will be placed on the part of the building over which the ivy will later grow. Harold Von Neida has been chosen as the speaker for the occasion and will tell of the significance of the ceremony as he plants the vine.

Ivy Day was started in the early days of the history of Penn State and was continued until 1898. For eighteen years it was forgotten, but in 1926 the custom was revived. Previously the entire graduating class took part in the activity but this year the task has fallen upon the shoulders of a specified group.

1930 pennants will be distributed tonight and tomorrow night from six-thirty until eight o'clock at Whitey Musser's store.

Jostling Sophs Shove Amazed Plebes For Loss in Annual Pushball Scrap

"What do you do a Soph? I push, I push, I push." Probably actuated by some such parody as the above upon one of the recent song successes, the Class of 1930 pushed and shoved its way through a maze of puffing yearlings, jostling the amazed Fresh right and left, to win the annual Pushball Scrap to the merry tangle of 2 to 0 on Old Beaver field Wednesday afternoon.

There was nothing to it. The plebes started to push the big pill and the second-year men started to shove just as heartily, and perhaps a little more so judging by the final tally. "It is reported, at any rate, that exactly six minutes was the time required for the sophomores to out-push the verdant freshmen and rush the ball over the goal line for the first point.

Governing Body Plans Weekly Convocations

That Penn State should have a weekly convocation on Wednesday mornings at eleven o'clock throughout the academic year was recommended by a special committee and approved by Student Council at the meeting Tuesday night.

To solve the question of attendance, the committee recommended that only men of well-known ability be sought to fill the office of speaker at the weekly gathering. Student Council hopes to put the plan in operation at the opening of College next September.

STICKMEN TO FACE SYRACUSE TWELVE

Determined Lion Lacrosse Team Battles Drumlain A. C. Here Tomorrow Afternoon

COACH PAUL HOPES FOR WIN OVER NEW YORKERS

Enged to alone for the Swarthmore defeat, a determined Lion lacrosse team will battle the Drumlain A. C. twelve, of Syracuse, tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock on New Beaver field. With a battle array composed entirely of former Orange lettermen, the New Yorkers should provide stiff opposition for Coach Erno Paul's rejuvenated stickmen.

The Nittany mentor was well pleased with the display of power and improved stickwork of his proteges in this week's scrimmages and he hopes for a victory in tomorrow's fracas. While not underestimating the strength of the invaders, the Lion lacrosseurs are anxious to register their first win of the season at the expense of the formidable Hill luminaries.

Although tomorrow's encounter will be the first of the season for the visitors, the Syracuse twelve is rated with the strongest independent teams in the country. Stationed in the crease, Lane, a letterman of two years ago, will protect the net. As assistants on the defense, Roy Simmons, assistant football coach and varsity boxing coach at the New York institution, will fill the point position while Johnny Taylor, star Hill performer last season, occupies the cover point post.

Student Hypnotist Gives Exhibition in Old Main Tonight

All roads for the curious will lead to Old Chapel tonight when Joseph E. Armstrong '28, gives his long promised exhibition of hypnosis at seven-thirty o'clock. The student psychologist will both lecture on and demonstrate the various phenomena which can be produced. It will have four and possibly five subjects, and to assure good faith a group of faculty members including a physician will be present.

Astonishing as his first exhibition was, this second demonstration, incidentally the first public one ever given at Penn State, is expected to be still more exciting. Armstrong has made a careful study of an art of which little is known, and the experimenter plans to try some new "tricks" that have never before been attempted.

GRANGE PLAYERS OFFER THREE-ACT COMEDY TONIGHT

ENACT PRODUCTION FOR GIRLS' DORMITORY FUND

Arrange Extensive Itinerary for Presentation—Experienced Cast To Fill Roles

Culminating a week of intensive rehearsing the Grange dramatic club will present "The Easy Mark," a three-act comedy by Jack Larric, in the Schwab auditorium tonight at eight-thirty o'clock. The proceeds of the production will be added to the fund being raised for the new girls dormitory.

The premier feminine role of the production will be portrayed by Miss Grace Greer '24, who has played in the first Penn State showing of "The Family Upstairs" and in a Thespian vaudeville offering. She takes the part of the fiancée of an easy-going country youth, Sam Crane, depicted by Forrest Steele '30, who played a leading part in last year's Grange production, "Poor Papa," which had sixteen showings in Pennsylvania.

Humor Roles Humor in the comedy will be provided by Miss Lois Remley '28 and (Continued on third page)

BATTERS TO MEET HOLY CROSS NINE

Engage Strong Massachusetts Team on Worcester Field Tomorrow Afternoon

DEFEAT PENN SLUGGERS FOR NINTH STRAIGHT WIN

Chimneying its second invasion of eastern college diamonds the Penn State baseball machine will go into action for the third time this week when it encounters the veteran Holy Cross nine in an important encounter tomorrow afternoon at Filton field, Worcester, Massachusetts. The Nittany Lions continuing their merry pace, stretched their consecutive victories to nine by downing Penn, 9-0, in the first game of their tour.

Conceded by Jack Bati, former big league shortstop, the Worcester outfit has established a remarkable record in its contests so far. Only once in eleven engagements has the Holy Cross combination suffered a setback. Fordham university accomplished this feat when it overcame the New England athletes in a ten-inning tussle by a 5-1 score.

Win Seven Straight The Massachusetts tossers reeled off eight consecutive victories before facing the Fordham nine. William and May college was defeated, 9-3, in the first game of Holy Cross' southern tour. Then followed overwhelming victories over the Richmond and Georgetown university clubs. Brown was conquered, 18-7 April nineteenth (Continued on last page)

HUGE MASS MEETING TO OPEN CEREMONIES

Annual Event Begins Tomorrow Afternoon at One O'clock on Old Beaver Field With Half-Hour Program

Move-up Chairman

Wheeler Lord, Jr. '28

An out-door mass meeting on Old Beaver field at one o'clock tomorrow afternoon will usher in Move-Up Day ceremonies this year. President Hetzel has accepted the invitation of the committee and is returning from a convention at Atlantic City to be the principal speaker of the occasion.

This is the first time in College history that such an event has been staged on Move-Up Day. At one of the higher portions of the field, workmen are constructing a speaker's platform. The tug-of-war, which follows the speeches, will take place near the platform. Charles C. Berryhill, president of the senior class, will be the other speaker at the gathering.

Tug-of-War Scrap The mass meeting will be of but thirty minutes duration and will be followed immediately by the customary tug-of-war between the freshman and sophomore classes. By being victorious in this affair the plebes receive the right to select their own class color and the sophomores must wear hats until the close of the semester. Should the sophomores conquer the freshmen in this tussle, they will have the right to select the class colors for the first-year men.

PLAYERS OFFER NEXT SHOW JUNE ELEVENTH

Will Produce "The Poor Nut" as Annual Commencement Performance

Presenting "The Poor Nut," a comedy by J. C. and Elliot Nugent, the Penn State Players will appear in their annual Commencement show June eleventh. "The Poor Nut" was chosen to supplant Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," which was originally announced as the choice for the Commencement performance, because it was believed that the modern comedy would have greater appeal to the audience at such a period.

Theme of Play As its name implies "The Poor Nut" is a story of a young man who seems somewhat eccentric but who proves his sterling qualities and achieves happiness. It deals with modern college life, having Ohio State university as its setting. The character of the peculiar hero is very similar to that of "Clarence" of Booth Tarkington's famous play of that name. The cast of "The Poor Nut" has not been entirely selected but will be announced soon. The presentation is under the direction of Prof. Arthur C. Cloetingh of the English department.

AMERICAN RADIO LEAGUE PLANS ANNUAL CONCLAVE

Operators of stations throughout the Atlantic division of the league will attend the convention, arrangements for which are being made by Mr. Gilbert L. Crossley, of the department of electrical engineering. The visitors will be lodged at Watts Hall and at one of the cottages on the campus.

Among the speakers at the convention will be Dr. J. O. Peattie of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, Mr. Alfred Crossley of the Naval Research Laboratory, Mr. F. W. Dunbar of the Bureau of Standards, Mr. V. D. Landon of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, Dr. E. C. Woodruff, director of the Atlantic division of the league and Mrs. E. M. Zandononi of the Bureau of Standards.

A general prize drawing will be held with every representative at the convention receiving an award of some sort. The night of June fifteenth will be devoted to a general exhibition of stunts with loving cups as the rewards for winners of the various contests. A banquet on the sixteenth, at which it is hoped to have W. D. Terrel, Chief of Radio Service as a speaker, will close the convention.
