To be extremely original, we'll start this new column of commentaries by stating that Penn State and the Valley boys pried off the football lid on New Beaver Field Saturday afternoon—with no reference whatever to the score.

And we can't help feeling that football lids are becoming more and more difficult to pry off each year.

To wit including officials, linesmen, players, substitutes, gate-tenders, assistant-managers of the 7th degree and juvenile vendors of sundry munching bars, exactly 89 persons were involved in the annual lid removing task.

And even at that they made a poor job of it.

Socially, however, the game was a success for such celebrities as Rags Madera, one-time Lion football and boxing star, attended incognito—like Governor Fisher.

Rags, by the way, was a versatile athlete who used his boxing talent with effect on the gridiron and his football knowledge successfully in the ring.

Then there was Judge M. Ward Fleming of Bellefonte, a former Penn man who knows his rules and penalties notwithstanding.

He should have been on the field.

There was a general business of crossing fingers when the first Lebanon Valley sub appeared in jersey no 13.

That was George (May) Delp's number until he went out.

Like a light.

Both teams were lucky. They were absent during the wend snake dance staged between the halves.

The freshmen executed it—in more ways than one.

But it was so realistic that after the blebs had returned to the stands, the field was full of infant worms.

All-crying for daddy.

For a time it seemed as though the worm (from Anville) was about to turn.

On the Lion.

Speaking of worms reminds us of Diedrich, Wolf, Miller, Hama and Collins, all of whom did some excellent worming of their own.

Saturday was such a cold day that Joe Miller had to break the ice.

By scoring the first touchdown.

Hamas procured the first down of the game; Alie received the first punt; Miller kicked the first one; George Delp scored the first extra point.

And Marty McAndrews scored the first referee.

Local Ministers Help Bond Issue Campaign

Father B. A. O'Hanlon, of Our Lady of Victory Chapel, has also made an appeal for serious consideration of the Bond Issue through the Catholic press of the State.

The Rev. C. E. Hewett, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Church, in commenting on the College and the $8,000,000 Bond Issue made the following statement:

"During the time I have served the congregation of St. John's Evangelical Church, I have found the students of the Pennsylvania State College to be earnest Christians. The large number of students who have been refused admission in recent years because of lack of building accommodations and equipment should be of the greatest interest to the church which has ever been the friend of education."

Methodist Comment

"For the past six years I have been the pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church and Director of the Wesley Foundation and I am happy to recommend the Pennsylvania State College as an institution of higher learning which is vitally interested in the intellectual and moral development of its students," declared the Rev. Archibald E. Mackie of the church mentioned.

The Rev. J. F. Harkins, of Grace Lutheran Church, stated that in his ten years of service in State College he has found the College zealous in its efforts to provide a strong and helpful moral atmosphere for the student body, and that men and women attending Penn State have excellent opportunity for the development of strong moral character.

"The spiritual and moral life of the students attending the Pennsylvania State College deserves the recognition and commendation of the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania," declared the Rev. Clarence A. Adams, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Leaves Tobacco Tin as All-time Calling Card
Calgary, Alta. March 4, 1928

Larus & Bro' Co., Richmond, Va. U. S. A. Gentlemen:
While in Banff, Alberta, in 1909, I climbed Tunnell Mountain. On top of this mountain there is a cairn of stones where tourists leave their cards with remarks about the scenery, etc. Not having a card with me, I left a tin of Edgeworth Shedd, scribbled my name and address on a piece of paper, and said, "Have a fill on me."
I have kept up a haphazard correspondence with one of three who wrote me thanking me for the Pipeful of Edgeworth. What makes me write you is that today from Australia I received two sheets of Edgeworth with the words, "Have a fill on me," so you see Edgeworth keeps friends friendly.
Yours sincerely,
P. B. Johnstone

Electricity opens a new era of ocean travel

Miraculously quiet and vibrationless, luxurious and swift, the new electrically operated S. S. California, largest American-built passenger ship, has opened a new era in ocean travel.
Electricity drives the California so efficiently that the fuel bill for the initial coast-to-coast trip was even less than the Canal tolls. Electricity mans the winches, bakes the bread, makes the ice, polishes the silver. And electricity cools the cabins and provides passengers with the comforts found in the finest hotels. Complete electrification makes the California an engineering marvel and a commercial success; it is booked far in advance, a sister ship has just been launched, and another is under construction.
On sea or land, in every walk of life, electricity is in the van of progress. Undreamed of yesterday, the electric ship is a symbol of the electrical industry's part in modern civilization and a prophecy of even greater accomplishment.

This monogram is found on great motors that drive the California, and on a multitude of electric appliances which contribute to the comfort of her passengers. It is an emblem of skilled engineering and high manufacturing quality.
