LEAVES RELIGIOUS WORK IN WEST TO COME HERE

W. J. Kitchen Resigns Position At Penn State to Accept Post in New England

With the opening of the new year came the announcement that Mr. William J. Kitchen, secretary of the "Y" for the past few years, had accepted a position as field secretary in the New England Field Council.

Under the leadership of "Bill" Kitchen, as he is known to most of the students, the field of work covered by the Penn State Y. M. C. A. has been broadened and the "Y" has been more fully recognized as one of the forces on our campus that builds character. His whole-hearted co-operation in helping to solve the many student problems that exist and his faith in the power of religion among the students, were some of the salient points of his work as secretary.

The success of Kitchen is Mr. Harry W. Seamans, who has recently served as Director of Religious Education for the Y. M. C. A., Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. Mr. Seamans has had a wide experience in student religious work. He graduated from Park College with major subjects in psychology and sociology, following with graduate work at the University of Illinois. Following this, he spent a year at the International Council of Religious Education Training School where he received a diploma for the course in religious education.

Mr. Seamans brings with him a wide experience in the field of religious education. In 1919 he served as "Boy's" Secretary at the St. Joseph, Missouri, Y. M. C. A., where he came into personal contact with the youth and his problems. His next position was that of executive secretary of the Student Fellowship for Christian Life Service, a field of work which brought him into student religious education.

In 1924-25 he was Director of Religious Activities at the Presbyterian Student Foundation, University of Illinois. Following this, Mr. Seamans became active in the National Student Religious Conference, serving in an executive capacity as chairman of the student phase of religious education.

At present Mr. Seamans is located at Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, engaged in religious education at the Oklahoma City University. He expects to take up his duties as secretary of the Penn State "Y" some time in the latter part of October.

PENN STATE MEN ACTIVE IN DEPUTATION SERVICE

Teams Visit Rural Communities To Stage Entertainments And Services

The object of the deputation work is to visit rural communities with a select group of men from the campus and put on a varied program of entertainment and also to develop a deeper religious feeling. A deputation team is composed of from eight to ten men, some of whom have the ability to entertain and others who are qualified to speak on some religious or moral problem.

Dates for the program of this year have not been definitely set but the following communities are under consideration: Centre Hill, Spring Mills, Rebersburg, Howard, Port Matilda and Gray's Church. The dates and programs are being worked out with some of the men connected with county rural sociology work.

A deputation spends the week-end in a community gathering Saturday evening. Talks on current topics and musical entertainment constitute the schedule. On Sunday the team handles both morning and evening services at the churches.

REVELERS COME HERE FOR OPENING NUMBER

The Y. M. C. A. is presenting, this year, one of the most popular courses in entertainment that has ever been given in State College. The individual numbers that are coming to us are the best in their field and, when grouped together, touch every desirable type of amusement and entertainment.

The Revelers, internationally famous male quartet, come to us first. We are already familiar with their presentations so that a formal introduction is not necessary. They have been touring for years for the Victor Company and, lately, for several other touring machine companies. All summer the Revelers have been traveling in Europe, entertaining the royalty of several nations and at the same time finding something new in the way of entertainment which they can render this coming winter season. We are fortunate in having them come to us so soon, as they are and will be in great demand.

At House Party time, November 9, we will introduce an entirely new form of entertainment in State College. The Marmans have for many seasons been a great hit on Broadway and are now traveling about the East giving the same performance as they produced to the critical New Yorkers. These "Drama Dances" are something new and have gone over very successfully everywhere. The Marmans will render a program of fifteen different numbers, all of which have stood the criticism of Broadway. It is something new, something different and something good. Do not fail to see them.

On December 5, the Sprague plays produce for our enjoyment "Sun-up," a drama. This dramatized story of life in the mountains of North Carolina has been a huge success for years and will always be one of the great plays of the period. Last year they gave "Lightnin'" and it was really good. If you like good dramatic presentations see "Sun-up."

Milton C. Work, that is almost enough to say about him—is lecturing on Bridge on the 18th of January. He comes to us right in the middle of the Bridge season and will be able to clear up, through an open forum, any questions that may be asked him concerning the game. It costs plenty to get this expert advice through your own means, but here we present him right in the middle of the Entertainment course.

Through the courtesy of the International Music League we are able to present two young talented artists, Sadah Sauchari and Joanne DeNault. The first of these two young women is a virtuist of no mean ability and the second a contralto of equal caliber. These two have been able to convince the New York music world that their art is great enough to receive outside recognition and now we are able to introduce them into a new field. Those who have seen them have recognized them and are willing to acknowledge their greatness.

Carload of Articles Lost, Found, Returned Through "Y" Work

Through the agency of the "Y" Hut, hundreds of lost articles find their owners each year, representing a return of hundreds of dollars. And although several agencies on the campus perform a similar function, especially the janitors, it is hoped that lost articles will all some day be returned to the Hut because of the efficiency of its service.

The articles returned vary from note books to purses containing large sums of money. Through the medium of the Lost and Found bulletin board in the Hut the student readily obtains information as to whether the articles have been found or not.

"Y" Aids Students In Securing Work

Working with established employment bureaus in assisting students in obtaining work, the "Y" secures for the needy students jobs from washing dishes to gardening work. In addition, the needs of the town-people in securing students for work of a few hours are promptly filled. Last year an aggregate amount of over $18,000.00 was represented in the "Y's" employment clearing house. This work is handled through the assistant secretary of the Hut. Records are kept of the positions offered and names of men who secure them. Stand your needs for men or jobs to the "Y" Hut.

HOPES CAMPAIGN WILL INCREASE MEMBER QUOTA

I esteem it a privilege to have this opportunity of expressing my hearty appreciation of the splendid work which is being undertaken by the College Young Men's Christian Association. My own experience has taught me the inestimable value to the entering student if he accepts the invitation so heartily extended to him of becoming a part of this splendid organization. In no other way has he so many contacts with the student leaders and also with members of the faculty, whose aims are at all times to help solve the many problems which confront the man who for the first time is on our campus and away from his home environment. There is always a disposition on the part of the administration of the Y. M. C. A. to listen sympathetically and understandingly to any student who has reached a point where the human relationship is of value, the personnel in the office craves an opportunity of being of assistance to the student if possible at all hours of the day and night—day it and the result will prove itself. Therefore I would advise every newcomer on our campus who wishes to continue to strengthen his home ties, broaden his religious faith and hold fast to the teachings of his childhood, to take steps to join at an early date the College Y. M. C. A.—I heartily endorse it all for which it stands.

PROMINENT MEN SPEAK AT CHAPEL EXERCISES

Dr. Tweedy Proves Popular to Many—Rabbi Lazarov Will Speak Here Also

Penn State has a reputation of having men of the highest rank speak to the students during the year. The object of the meetings is to help the student understand his place in the world and the part he is to play in the religious end of it. The men chosen this year have interests in separate fields so that the student will have the opportunity of gaining Christian viewpoints, given from different grounds. Among the most prominent speakers will be Dr. James Gordon Gilkey, of the South Congregational Church, Springfield, Massachusetts. He will be remembered for his three-day stay here two years ago, in which he gave a series of addresses on religion in international peace and world progress.

Another well known speaker on the program is Rabbi Morris S. Lazarov, of Baltimore, Maryland. He will be followed by Dr. Henry H. Tweedy, head of the Yale Divinity School. It is always with pleasure that the student body hears his message. The discussion group conducted last spring by Dr. Tweedy, at the "Y" Cabin, proved to be rich in religious thinking and spiritual values. Another speaker will be Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, President of Howard University, Washington, D. C.

Six Thousand Dollars Set as Goal—Solicitors Divided Into Four Groups

DRIVE OPENS TONIGHT WITH U CLUB DINNER

Beginning tonight at eight o'clock, the Penn State Student Y. M. C. A. will open its financial drive to cover a budget of $6,500.00, under the direction of William Turner '29, who has complete charge of the campaign. The regular subscription rate is three dollars, although more may be given if desired.

Turner has divided his units into four groups to take care of the various units: the national fraternity, the local fraternity, the non-fraternity, and the faculty groups. The fraternity group will be divided into two divisions, each division being under the head of a captain. Richard Gueder '29, will captain the first group with Don Revicade '29, Andre '29, Bodycomb '29, Gorman '29, and Wolfe '30, as his lieutenants. The other division will be captained by Fred Yocum '29, who will have as his lieutenants Reed '29, Baldwin '30, Reiff '29, Wilkinson '29, Rice '29, and Porter '30.

The non-fraternity group will be captained by Woody Mullen '29, with the junior cheerleaders, Harnish '29, Wood '30, and Felder '29, as lieutenants.

The local fraternities will be canvassed by solicitors under Lewis Barton '29, and his lieutenants Stein '29, and Heit '29.

The managers, lieutenants and solicitors will officially open the campaign following a Pep Meeting at the University Club Wednesday night. The key note speech will be given by a representative of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A. at New York City, Dean R. L. Sackett and other faculty members will also address the solicitors.

Cards will be given to the solicitors with the names of the students on them. Each student who subscribes will be given a receipt by the solicitor, which when presented at the "Y" Hut will be exchangeable for a Membership Card. This card will be available after the arrival of the general secretary, Mr. Seamans. City Y's recognize this membership for members rate's and visitors privileges.

Girls Organize to Solicit Funds To Aid in Carrying Out Annual Work

The Y. W. C. A. is fostering, in connection with the Y. M. C. A. financial drive, a similar campaign among the girls. Several girl representatives will be present at the "pep" meeting tonight and after the meeting will start soliciting for Y. W. funds.

FRESHMEN REMEMBER ALL-COLLEGE WELCOME

Annual "Y" Reception Proves Landmark to All New Penn State Men

Standing out vividly in the memory of graduates, undergraduates and especially freshmen is the "Y" Reception which is held annually on the initial Friday night of the first semester. A gala night for the newcomers, it has come to be one of Penn State's most cherished traditions, for this is the occasion when the whole college—administration, faculty, students—turn out to receive the newcomers into the portals of Penn State's student life.

Starting with a receiving line, composed of notables of the campus and the administrative force, and ending with a light repast of punch and cakes, the entire reception breathes a spirit of congeniality and good fellowship. At no other time during the year is there such a whole-hearted "Hello" given to the newcomers, and although many are the greetings of welcome extended during the first few weeks of college, none are so long remembered as that given to the members of the "Green Invasion" at the "Y" Reception.

Since Penn State has such a large enrollment, it is practically impossible for the President of the college, the Dean of Men and the Dean of Women, as well as the outstanding leaders of the student body to become personally acquainted with the Freshman, and "Y" Reception bridges a difficult gap here by having a receiving line, thereby giving each newcomer an opportunity to meet those who have his interest most at heart.

Another feature of this memorable night is the introduction of captains of athletic teams, editors of college publications, presidents of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., class presidents, leaders in dramatics, music, and fraternity life at Penn State, as well as other activities which are promoted here. Because of this, freshmen become acquainted with these campus leaders at the start of their first year. If this feature of the reception were omitted, freshmen would find it a slow process to familiarize themselves with many of the student leaders.

This year the Glee Club made its first public appearance at the "Y" Reception since its return from abroad, and freshmen were able to catch a glimpse of the first Penn State organization to carry the blue and white across the sea and spread the fame of the college throughout Europe.

Freshman Cabinet Proves Successful

One of the most effective organizations on the campus last year was the "Y" Cabinet of the class of '31. Meetings were held regularly after this Cabinet was formed and a series of most helpful and interesting discussions was held. Several joint meetings with the Freshman Y. W. C. A. Cabinet at Andy Lytle Cabin helped to stimulate interest and resulted in a splendid spirit of cooperation between the two organizations.

In the near future the Cabinet of the class of '32 will be formed. As soon as the new Secretary arrives, Ray Faus, the Freshman Secretary, will devote all of his time to Freshman interviews and with the help of a number of upperclassmen the men who are to form the "Y" organization of the class of '32 will be chosen. A large number of students are taking an active part in the various forms of activity in the "Y", and it is inevitable that the men who become interested in the work in their Freshman year will be the ones to take important places in the "Y" work as upperclassmen. Freshmen interested in becoming active in the "Y" are urged to see Ray Bowers who is Chairman of Freshman work, or Ray Faus, the Freshman Secretary.

Dr. Henry Crane Talks On Religious Subjects

One of the most invited speakers that appeared before the students of Penn State last year was Dr. Henry Crane, the brilliant young New England orator, of Malden, Mass., pastor of the second largest church in New England.

Favored as speaker at Harvard, Illinois, Southern California and many other colleges and universities of first rank, Dr. Crane proved as popular with the students of Penn State. His three day stay here, last spring, was one of intense and dramatic addresses on students and their religion and the connection of religion in the business world. His address on "The Quest For Life" was one of the most stirring and effective religious talks ever given before the students. Almost equally popular was his address on Companionate Marriage, in which Dr. Crane showed the subject of companionate marriage from the Christian point of view.

Such powerful speakers as Doctor Crane make a much-needed contribution to the intellectual and religious life of Penn State. The reception accorded his talks by the student body proves his popularity.
