WARNOCK FORSEES PASSAGE OF BOND ISSUE AMENDMENT

Philadelphia Business Men Voice Opposition to Proposal By Advertisement

'NO CAUSE FOR WORRY,' DECLARES DEAN OF MEN

Student Voters Desiring Excuses For Election Day Can Obtain Necessary Permission

Despite the advertisement in opposition to all bond issues, printed in the Philadelphia Public Ledger yesterday morning, College officials feel that sentiment favorable to Amendment No. 2 is so widespread throughout Pennsylvania that Penn State will be assisted by a strong affirmative vote at the polls Tuesday of funds to continue the building program.

The advertisement was sponsored by the Pennsylvania Taxpayers Association of 1928. The executive committee of this organization is composed of men chiefly from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. It urges voters to register a negative vote on all bond issues.

"The projects themselves are entirely worthy," asserts the advertisement. "But the State's fiscal officers have demonstrated that they can be financed out of current revenues."

No Cause for Worry
"This action of Philadelphia business men should provide no cause for worry," declared Arthur R. Warnock, dean of men, yesterday afternoon. "In fact, the advertisement should react in our favor, for many persons, knowing the tendency of these business men towards undue conservatism, will be aroused to vote in the affirmative. When the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution declaring Amendment No. 2 unnecessary, the city press retailed by attacking that stand, and it is quite probable that such will be the case in reference to the advertisement."

"The State has been flooded with educational material," the Dean continued. "Keen interest in Penn State's Bond Issue has been displayed everywhere. When the real situation here has been explained to the voters personally, they have without exception expressed a willingness to use their influence towards passage of Amendment No. 2 at the coming election."

More than a million postal card appeals will have been distributed to every county of Pennsylvania by the student body before Tuesday morning. It is believed that each one of these cards will count as one vote, and in many cases two or more. As a campaign worker points out, this should obtain more than a million favorable votes for the amendment.

Student Work in Philadelphia
Many students are planning to visit Philadelphia Saturday to witness the Penn State-Notre Dame football game. Every student whose home is in Philadelphia has been requested to interview Dean Warnock in his office in Old Main before leaving State College. The Dean will explain how student efforts can be directed to the best advantage in arousing support for the Bond Issue, as well as giving each visitor to his office a supply of educational material to distribute in the Quaker City.

Any student of voting age who desires to go home for election day can obtain the necessary permission from the dean of men.

Mr. Edward K. Hishman, assistant to the President in public relations and director of the Bond Issue campaign, has been in Philadelphia during the past week in order to promote the cause of Amendment No. 2. He has as his assistant Robert B. Voskamp '25. All Philadelphia students visiting home this week-end are requested to call at their office at 247 South Juniper street.

Because of a typographical error in appropriation figures for Penn State in recent years, it has been reported from the State Capitol that the College received building appropriations of $500,000 and $600,000 in the legislative years 1923 and 1925. Local alumni point out that in those years the College did not receive one cent from the State for buildings.

The figures should stand for the amounts received for agricultural and home economics extension work, as was actually the case.

Philadelphia alumnae have been active to an unparalleled degree in working for the Bond Issue, according to reports coming from that city.

Do Your Share and Do It Now!

The Penn State students already have proved their ability in securing votes for the Bond Issue, but in the four days remaining before election much more can be done. In Dean Warnock's office and in the town book stores, there is a supply of Bond Issue postal cards waiting for loyal Penn State men and women to send them upon a journey, vital to the youth of Pennsylvania. Your College needs you. Mail your share of postal card appeals today!

If you are a voter, the Dean of Men is willing, and even anxious, to grant you an excuse that your ballot may be cast for Amendment No. 2. The votes which you obtain in your home voting precincts may decide whether Penn State continues to refuse admission to more than 1000 applicants each year or embarks upon a voyage of building expansion. Dean Warnock is waiting in his office to explain how you personally can aid in making the Bond Issue campaign a success.

Dean Warnock requests all Philadelphia students who attend the Notre Dame game tomorrow to see him before they leave State College.

For the future of the youth of Pennsylvania mail your cards today. Tomorrow may be too late. Go home to vote!

CUBS ENCOUNTER TARTAN GRIDMEN

Revised Yearling Team To Leave At 1 O'Clock for Struggle With Carnegie Tech

PLAID ELEVEN LOSES IN FIRST THREE ATTEMPTS

A revised Lion cub eleven, still smarting from the sting of two successive setbacks will leave State College at 1 o'clock this afternoon for Pittsburgh where it will meet the thrice defeated yearlings of Carnegie Tech in a traditional gridiron battle tomorrow morning.

Coch Coach Heimann has selected two full teams to make the trip to the Smoky City. These are the men who have shown up exceptionally well during the last two weeks of practice. The plebe tutor hopes to be able to give each of the 22 gridmen a chance to prove his worth in tomorrow's contest.

Coch Changes Backfield
Behrm will take his usual post at left half back in the Tartan fray. The La Salle prep star is learning to follow his interference effectively and has at last acquired the habit of plunging into the line with head down and knees high. Smith, although the lightest man in the backfield, is a good broken field runner and with his side stepping, dodging and pivoting tactics is capable of

PLAYERS TO ENACT COMEDY ON BOXING

Authors Perform Each Incident Before Writing To Develop Realistic Plot Action

As the first new show on their schedule for this season, the Penn State Players, under the direction of Prof. David D. Mason, will present "Is Zat So," a comedy of the boxing game, in Schwab auditorium Saturday night, November 24.

Part of the interesting history of this play is the fact that the comedy was enacted as it was being written. The authors, James Gleason and Richard Tabei, went through each incident before it was written.

Wms Championship
The principal characters are a prize fighter and his manager, who are taken into the home of a Fifth Avenue millionaire. Part of their time is spent as butlers and the remainder by keeping their employer in condition.

While in the employment of the millionaire both fall in love, one with the nurse and the other with the secretary.

DR. F. L. PATTEE RESIGNS COLLEGE FACULTY POSITION

Authority on Literature Names Advancing Age as Reason For His Retirement

WILL DEVOTE EFFORTS SOLELY TO AUTHORSHIP

Author of "Alma Mater" Leaves Penn State Following 31 Years of Service

The resignation of Dr. Fred Lewis Pattee, professor of American literature at Penn State since 1891, was made public late yesterday afternoon. He is widely-known as an authority on American literature.

Advancing years and opportunity to devote his time to writing are the reasons given by Doctor Pattee for desiring to drop his work here at Christmas time. Since he finds the climate more agreeable, he has maintained a winter home in Florida for several years. He expects to make his permanent home at Winter Park about December 15. Several days ago he announced his appointment as a special lecturer at Rollins College, Fla.

Author of "Alma Mater"
Doctor Pattee is the author of the College "Alma Mater" and has had greater influence in molding the cultural side of Penn State's life than any other individual. Several years ago he refused an offer to become head of the English department at the University of Illinois. Shortly afterwards at his own request he relinquished similar duties here and completed his teaching by Christmas in each academic year.

"There were only 300 students when I came here in 1921," Doctor Pattee stated. "Penn State has grown so rapidly and so well that it is entirely different to me. I want (Continued on third page)

LION BOOTERS TO ENGAGE TORONTO

Sports Writers, Coaches Concede Mythical North American Title to Winner

CANADIANS PLAY AS UNIT USING STUDENT COACHES

Mythical champions of North America for the coming season will be decided when the Lion booters encounter Toronto university, Canadian title-holder's last year, on Old Beaver field at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Penn State, conceded the championship of the United States in collegiate football, will present its strongest line-up of the season with both Allen and Edgerton forming a veteran back line. Coachless Team
Toronto, the coachless team, as in former years has another powerful squad and is considered the best college eleven in Canada. For the last two years by successive victories over contending foes they gained honor in the northern country.

The game tomorrow will be the third played between the two teams. The first year they fought to a 2 to 2 tie on Old Beaver field. Last year on Toronto's home ground, the Lions bowed 4 to 1 before a superior Canadian attack. Anderson, inside right, who is considered the best college soccer player in North America, will face the Lions tomorrow.

Both Teams Strong
Both teams have commendable records thus far this season, the Canadian having won all of their games while the Nittany booters have been defeated and tied once and have won the remainder of their contests.

Some reason for the strength of the Canadian team can be given in that it is a seven year school. It is listed as a pre-medical and pre-legal university. The fact that the team is coached by one of the players is common in the English colleges and universities.

With all of his men on the ground in good condition Coach Jeffrey has been conducting stiff workouts during the week, stressing long passes. The Toronto team employs a fast moving attack and defense and is adept at breaking up short passes such as the Lion booters have been using.

John H. Frizzell To Talk in Chapel

With "A Young Man's Chance" as his subject, John H. Frizzell, associate professor of public speaking and acting college chaplain, will address the chapel audience in Schwab auditorium 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

Professor Frizzell has spent many years working with young men. After three years as principal of the Reading High School for boys, he served three years as field secretary among men and boys of the Episcopal church in 20 different states. While in State College he has been active in Episcopal church work.

Long Term on Faculty
Professor Frizzell has been associated with the college since 1902, when he came here from his alma mater, Amherst College. Until 1911 he was in charge of the work in public speaking. From then until 1920, he taught American literature under D. Fred Lewis Pattee.

Active in Student Work
Professor Frizzell has taken part in many student activities. With Doctor Pattee and Prof. A. Howie Eschenshade, he was instrumental in the establishment of the COLLEGIAN and Froth. He has served also as treasurer and director of the Thespian's.

Professor Frizzell aided in the establishment at Penn State of three national fraternities, Delta Upsilon, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Phi Kappa Psi. He is one of the organizers of the Interfraternity Council.

Nittany Gridmen Face Western Eleven on Franklin Field

ROCKMEN RECORD WINS OVER NAVY AND DRAKE

Delp, Shawley Retain Old Posts On Line—Miller To Start At Quarterback

Two powerful elevens, both exponents of the forward pass as an offensive threat, will clash tomorrow when Notre Dame's husky gridiron stalwarts encounter the confident Nittany Lions on Franklin field, Philadelphia, in one of the most colorful inter-sectional battles of the day.

Coach Rockne's warriors have had varied legacies of success so far this year. Eggholm college of New Orleans opened the South End eleven's schedule and fell prey to the superior aerial attack of the Rockmen, 12-6. The Lovola team was undefeated last year and was considered the leading eleven in the South East.

The Fighting Irishmen journeyed to Madison, Wisconsin, the following week and were out lined by the Badgers' battering line attack, 22-6. Wisconsin's greater weight and experience were important factors in the downfall of Notre Dame. Since its victory over Badger's charges, the Madmen in celebration converted Purdue and Michigan, two of the middle west's strongest teams.

Overcome Navy
Displaying a crafty overhead attack, the South End gridmen felled the strong Annapolis warriors, 6-0, on October 13. The superior offense of Notre Dame and a completely outplayed Delp. The next week Georgia Tech subdued the visiting South End eleven, 14-0 at Atlanta. Five intercepted passes were the cause of Notre Dame's reverse.

Showing marked improvement in play over its previous performance, Rockne's nucleus swept through the husky Drake gridmen, 5-0, today, for a 22-0 victory. Baffling passes by Niemiec, Chevigny and Carl also proved to great a handicap for the Drake Bulldog's stubble substitute fullback, stored out with crashing plunges that gained considerable yardage for Notre Dame.

Niemiec Star
John Niemiec, classic triple-threat mack, is Notre Dame's outstanding performer. Lion gridmen will remember him as the man who played such a prominent part in Penn State's '26 defeat at South End two years ago. Niemiec played a stellar role in the Rockmen's victories over Navy and Drake. He is the main cog in the system's pass offense.

Chevigny, another veteran who performed against the Navy in 1926, will occupy his old place at right halfback with Niemiec as his running mate. Carl and Miller, both playing varsity football for the first time, will be stationed at quarterback and fullback, respectively.

Heavy Line
Notre Dame's forward wall is unusually heavy, averaging 190 pounds. Goal tackle to tackle, Tom Moynihan, stocky veteran, will serve as center. Tom distributed himself in the Navy and Georgia Tech contests and conducted one of the best centers in the west. Liv and Twomey will serve as guards for the South End eleven.
