CO-OPERATION

We often hear rumors, complaints and laments because there is so little co-operation among the girls. We are prone to take one or two outstanding cases of conflicts and talk about them until we have ourselves and everyone else convinced that the condition is universal.

The success of the He-She dance last Friday night should prove conclusively that a spirit of friendliness and co-operation is far more popular and acceptable among Penn State women than hostility and conflicts. A successful all-girls function could not be managed, even though our committee did execute the plans so well, if the majority did not give backing and encouragement.

Last Friday night there was a large crowd in the Armory—a large crowd and a happy one. The predominating spirit was one of friendliness.

When we see some dark spots of disagreement, and are inclined to call the whole situation hopeless, why not be fair and think of the many times we work together for a common end, rather than dwell entirely on the undesirable aspects. Let us see things not only at their best like Pollyanna, not only at their worst like Sinclair Lewis; but merely as they are.

Miss Brill Writes Pamphlet on Life Careers for Girls

Attempting to solve the problems for women in selecting their life work, Miss Julia G. Brill, assistant professor of English composition, has compiled a pamphlet on "The Occupational Opportunities for Women in the School of Liberal Arts."

The pamphlet is divided into a varied number of sections each dealing with a certain phase of work. At present it is being used as a guide to freshman girls.

Different parts of her booklet include business, art, accounting, advertising and public relations, book publishing and selling, law, literary work, as well as many other branches of industry. At the conclusion of each section there is a bibliography, which can be used for reference.

Dean Charles W. Stoddart, in speaking of the pamphlet, said, "It is one of the first attempts made by the College and the School to help solve the problem for women."

Miss Brill has recently been appointed as advisor for freshman girls taking general training as their major in the School of Liberal Arts. She was graduated from Penn State in 1921.

JOINT CABINET MEETING HELD AT LYTLE CABIN

A high note of interest was evident among the forty students who were present at the cabin party held by the combined Freshman "Y" cabinets at the Andy Lytle cabin last week-end.

This Smoke Aids Artist To Nab Ideas

Independence, Mo. June 24, 1928.

Larus & Brother Co., Richmond, Va.
 Dear Sirs:

Perhaps you would like to know in just a word or so how I am in partners with Edgeworth in a business way. By profession I am a cartoonist, who you probably know, called upon to create new ideas. While this is ranked as the hardest part of the profession, I have proved it may easily be mastered, if a person will but recline in an easy chair, light a pipe, and live with imaginative persons in the aromatic smoke clouds that will soon fill the room. Edgeworth has given me more ideas than any other brand of tobacco, so I "married" my pipe to it quite a while ago. The result has been wonderful. The more you use Edgeworth, the more you crave it—not as a drug, but as a wholesome pleasure.

Complimenting the standard quality (which means more than the words signify) of Edgeworth, I am a devoted and profound user.

Yours very respectfully,
 James W. Bright

on Saturday evening at which Rev. Elder, a returned missionary from Persia, spoke and a religious service on Sunday morning led by Rev. Ray Paus, the Freshman Y. M. C. A. secretary. The remainder of the entertainment tended toward the purpose of the party, which was to bring about a spirit of familiarity and co-operation between the two cabinets.

Freshman Holds Up Standards of Class

"A man's a man, for a' that," thinks a Freshman girl who is well versed in the rules and regulations imposed on college girls.

"There shall be no liding in cars with men" are the words of the Freshman handbook and though not in bold face type, they are sufficiently well known to be interpreted literally by the conscientious Freshman.

One of the green youngsters who gets her semester hours of hiking, has likely been warned of the consequences resulting from "hops," and when Frey Hetsel, who is oblivious to the danger of a hold-up by college students, asked the girl to ride, he was firmly refused on the grounds that "We are not allowed to ride with strange men."

It was a hard blow for the President, but from it has come a revolutionizing effect on regulations. Now the cry of the Freshman class is "More rules; we've learned the ones we have."

SOPHS DEFEAT FROSH; SENIORS BEAT JUNIORS

Seniors trounced the Juniors in the opening game of the 1929 basketball season last Monday night. The Juniors were unable to hold down the score which kept steadily mounting in consequence of the activities of Gould and Hudnall, the Senior forwards. The final score was 37-7.

In the second game of the evening the Sophomores beat the Freshmen to the tune of 23-14. The playing was about evenly divided until the end of the third quarter, the Frosh gamely holding their traditional opponents to a 13-14 score. But, in the last few minutes of the game, the sophomores proved too much for the doughty yearlings and closed the playing with a goodly lead.

"The line-up was as follows:

Seniors	Juniors	Freshmen	Sophomores
Hudnall	Dorbanow	Wieland	Wieland
Gould	Meyers	Meek	Wieland
Moore	Chambers	Meek	Wieland
Parsons	Lees	Meek	Wieland
Hitt	Motter	Meek	Wieland
MacLachlan	Young	Meek	Wieland

PRINTING ERROR CAUSES MUSIC COURSE OMISSION

An error in printing caused the omission of music courses in the second semester time table. The department of music will offer the same courses as during the first semester.

Those desiring to schedule courses in music may consult the first semester time table or the offices of the various scheduling officers.

'Curiosity Shop' Ruler Bares Penchant For Experimenting

A venturesome ray of sunlight filtering through the solitary window in the passageway leading to State College's "curiosity shop" falls upon a varied array of ancient typewriters, sewing machines, cash registers, adding machines, and other devices of varying use and application.

Lord of this tiny realm is Charles F. Schilling, sole proprietor. Although he professes to be a cabinet maker, he devotes the greater part of his time to repairing typewriters and tabulating machines. "Typewriters are complicated," he declared, "but adding-machines and cash registers have them stopped by far."

Twenty Years Ago

Alleghevy college found our team in its best form on Thursday night and met the first defeat. I had sustained in two years, by a score of 23 to 22. Penn State's passing kept them guessing and won the game for the blue and white. Reed secured five baskets while Heimann and Vaha were close behind with three each, yet the work of our team was so good that untried players are due each one of them.

Lehigh university has paid a marked compliment to Pennsylvania State College. By a vote of the faculty, the Board of Trustees has issued a mandamus conferring upon President Sparks the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. This is the first time in the history of Lehigh that this degree has been conferred and is the third honorary degree given by the college in forty-three years of existence.

When Governor Stuart arrived at the Alumni Association of Central Pennsylvania banquet last week, he was greeted by loud cheers. A quartet from the College Glee club rendered selections and songs broke out frequently around the room to be caught up and sung by all. A series of stereopticon views of the campus, student activities and famous old grads were shown.

It is necessary to announce that, because of the crowded condition of the auditorium, children under sixteen years of age will hereafter be excluded from free lectures unless accompanied by parents.

According to custom Captain Hirschman posted earlier this week a list of men who are to take part in the winter baseball practice in the Armory. The playing space is so cramped that only infielders can get any fielding practice and it has been found necessary to have only varsity men present at weekly practices.

The question of fix up room 273 Main for a lounging room was discussed at the Senior meeting and the class voted to pay its share towards furnishing the room. At present there is no place in the Main building where students may lounge between classes.

Collegian-a

These are bitter days, cold, biting, icy days when students find it difficult to get extremely heated.

Except possibly, over final examinations.

These are hard, hectic times, trying times for students.

Who are trying to stay in college, as it were.

If the difficulty were diagnosed, something would be found wanting. But what? There are plenty of books—"for the man who craves"—plenty of time—for the man who doesn't care. There is even a sufficiency of financial support.

But there is no moral support, no spiritual inspiration.

Which is no startling revelation, for it is traditional to believe that the college student needs props for his morals.

And whatnot for his spirits.

However, there is a custom at the University of Texas which provides a simple little stunt designed to give students' heart around examination time.

Although it seems that what students need more are brains.

While those of professional status need to have the heart!

But to get back to the University of Texas—which, by the way, would be an excellent idea at this time of year—we were about to say that students of that institution have a custom of assembling in a body before taking final exams to do a bit of organized yelling.

That's an odd custom. At most colleges students wait until after exams.

And devote several weeks to monogamous yelling!

Probably calling for lost honor points.

Which reminds us that the same "honor" points always gives us a hearty chuckle. You see, one "honor" point he had always liked to experiment. "All my brothers were the same way," he added. "My father was like that too, and so was my grandfather on my mother's side. I remember when I was about eight years old, I found two old grandfather clocks under our back porch. Well, I tinkered with those old pieces of junk for hours at a time. They were running after I had taken them apart and put them together again several times."

Mr. Schilling, who is now a middle-aged man, slightly bent as a result of working over a desk on tiny bits of machinery, commenced talking a living as an apprentice to a glass-blower.

Miss Atherton is to be congratulated on the success of the sacred concert given under her direction Sunday evening. The audience was surprisingly good.

A large number of students interested in the German language with the assistance of the German department have taken steps toward organizing a "Deutscher Verein" for the purpose of practicing the spoken language and cultivation of a taste for its literature.

I. F. C. QUINTETS BEGIN THIRD ROUND MATCHES

With the playing of the three concluding games last night, the various fraternity quintets completed the second round of the annual interfraternity basketball tournament in Recreation Hall.

In the third round Theta Kappa Phi, Alpha Gamma Rho, Beta Theta Pi, Phi Kappa Sigma, Lambda Chi Alpha, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon encountered Triangle, Sigma Pi, Alpha Chi Rho, Phi Gamma Delta, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Sigma Chi, respectively. Also Phi Sigma Delta meets the winner of the Theta Upsilon Omega-Phi Delta Theta contest, while the winner of the Alpha Tau Omega-Delta Upsilon tilt clashes with the survivor of the Delta Sigma Phi-Phi Kappa match.

per credit is required for graduation. But where is the honor?

Furthermore, a 2.00 is required for passing a course.

But that means nothing!

In other words, you can pass all your courses and exhaust your list of credits—but you can't pass out.

Unless you try to understand the system.

You pass and yet you don't pass. You clear credits and yet you don't clear them. Nearly everyone passes, yet no one passes.

Without honors!

Question: How do you stand, if any—and where?

Ag School Offers Short Course for Golf Greenkeepers

"How to Grow Grass" or "Scientific Grassgrowing" might have been the title of the short course for greenkeepers which the School of Agriculture will offer February 15-21.

Once grass is cut and then mowed all. Then came the art of grassgrowing which developed a technique all of its own. Now we have the science of grass cultivation being put to use in the maintenance of the royal and ancient game of golf. It is a far cry from the dour old Scotch greenkeeper lacking a precise knowledge to the science of soils, grasses and fertilizers.

Thirty-five men from various parts of the state have already enrolled in this course and others are expected to. The course is an experiment which is hoped will develop into a longer and more comprehensive survey of the field.

Debaters Practice for February Encounters

The men's and women's debating teams are practicing three times a week in preparation for a hard schedule of debates which begins early next semester.

The women's team will travel to Washington, D. C. where they will debate against the George Washington University team February 16. On February 29, the men debaters are scheduled for an extension debate at Williamsport.

At present both groups are working on a question regarding the abolition of the jury system. Each side will have a series of debates on this subject.
