FORMER NITTANY STAR BUILDS REPUTATION AS GENEVA COACH

Ken Loeffler '24, distinguished Nittany basketball and baseball satelite who starred with such luminaries as Mike Palm, Glenn Killinger and Johnny Reed is attracting the favorable attention of sports writers to himself for his recol as basketball conch of Geneva college.

Since graduating Ken has icturned to his college-day hunts numerous times and last year directed the summer coaching school here in conjunction with Herb McCracken of Lafayette. Their course proved so popular that they have been signed by College authorities to take charge of it again this year.

Accepts Geneva Offer

When Bo McMillan resigned his position as Geneva coach, the Geneva college officipls were in a quandary concerning the situation. Casting pobut for some capable mentor to instruct their athletes, they came to the decision that Loeffler would fill the bill and offered him a contract

Ken accepted and has since organized one of the best basketball teams in the history of the college. His team recently came into the limelight ydefeating Vest Virgina after the Mountainees had defeated the strong Pitt quintet. It is generally conceded by sports writers that the Geneva

Twin-Brother Act Fools Wily Houck

"Leo, here comes Epstein and here to limping," a joyous second-assistant boxing manager informed Coach Houck Friday afteinoon as a stold youth walked briskly toward the Recreation Hall ing. The face of the Nittany mentor virtually glowed because the promising bantamivegith, who had ton a ligament in his leg on the eve of the Western Manyland meet, was not expected to icturn to varsity ranks until this week. But Leo's aido. turned to dismay when the 115-pound puncher, limping, stepped from behind the advancing form of his twin biother, Philip.

Philip is enrolled here for the second semester and, having nothing to do, he decided to work out with the boxers, Julius, the Lior bantamweight, explained to the amazed Nittany coach.
