EDDY TO DISCUSS WORLD SITUATION IN TALK TONIGHT

Lecturer Will Continue Series On 'Life' at 8 O'clock In Schwab Auditorium

CONVOCATION ADDRESS EXPLAINS BROTHERHOOD

Speaker Prepares Final Number Of Group Sponsored by Y. M. C. A. Officials

Dr. G. Sherwood Eddy will continue his discussion of "Life at Its Best," at 8 o'clock tonight and tomorrow night in Schwab auditorium.

Tonight Dr. Eddy will talk on "The Present World Situation." Economic problems in the field of industry, especially in engineering and agriculture, will comprise a portion of his speech.

The question for discussion tomorrow night will be "Can We Still Believe in Religion?" He will discuss the conflicts between religion and science, frankly facing the doubts and difficulties of modern students.

Discusses Sex Relations In discussing his philosophy of life, Dr. Eddy cited advancement made by the General Electric company and other modern corporations to illustrate the economic bearing on the relations between man and his fellow men, man and his enemies, and between man and woman.

"There is a central principle to be found in life," Dr. Eddy said, which might be known as "Brotherhood," or "Love as the full sharing of life." Here, more than in the economic side of life, the relations between man and his associates, especially between man and woman, must be considered.

Faculty To Hold Dinner The College banjo club will furnish music at the Eddy meetings tonight and tomorrow night. Harry E. Pfeiffer, president of the senior class, will preside at the talk tonight.

Dr. Eddy's visit to Penn State is under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., Robert J. Porter '30, chairman of the meetings committee, announced at the convocation.

Faculty members are completing plans for the dinner in the visitor's honor to be held in the University club at 6 o'clock tomorrow night. Dr. Eddy's dinner address will be on the subject, "Should a College Teacher be Concerned Only With the Intellectual Advancement of his Students, or Should he Broaden his Influence to Include Character Development?"

COMMITTEE PLANS FOR MOVE-UP DAY

Program Includes Student Parade, Address by President Hetzel And Annual Tug-of-War

Tentative plans for Move-up Day to be held May 18 include a parade of students in class regalia to New Beaver field, an address there by Dr. Ralph D. Hetzel and the annual tug-of-war between the sophomores and freshmen on Holmes field.

An innovation this year will be the tapping of new members by the Skull and Bones and Farm Nuts, honorary upper class societies. The candidates will appear on New Beaver field and the presidents of the respective societies will tap the men they desire for their organization.

Concluding the celebration, the arrangements committee is endeavoring to secure Recreation Hall for the customary Move-up Day dance.

DEAN ATTENDS MEETING

Dean Arthur R. Warnock attended the national convention of deans of men at Washington, D. C., last week.

Bezdek Describes Condition Of Intra-Mural Athletics

Cites Limited Facilities As Detrimental to Sport Plans

Penn State has an extensive program of intra-mural athletics which is not fully realized by the student body, Hugo Bezdek, director of athletics, explained in an interview yesterday.

"We have here," Coach Bezdek said, "about 150 different athletic teams participating in interscholastic, interfraternity and non-fraternity group competition each year."

He continued by stating that there have been as many as six city-five teams competing in the various basketball leagues alone during one season. The baseball leagues include nearly as many teams annually as do the basketball, explained in the Nittany athletic director.

Soccer, football, wrestling, boxing, track, tennis and golf are all included in the program of sports, each having a team or individual competition at some time during the year, he added.

Coaches Co-operate "Each coach of an athletic team is expected to co-operate in successfully

THESPIANS START SHOW REHEARSAL

Expect Maurice Darcy to Arrive Saturday—Grant Will Direct Music

Preliminary work on the musical selections of "H. M. S. Pinafore," opera classic which will be presented May 4, is being rushed in preparation for the expected arrival of Maurice Darcy, Broadway theatrical producer, on Saturday.

The opera will be offered by members of the Thespian, Glee Club and Girls' Glee Club. Richard W. Grant, director of College music, is in charge of vocal selections, while Mr. Darcy will direct the staging and dancing.

Twenty-three ensembles, solo and special vocal selections fill the two acts of the operetta, beginning with an opening chorus and followed by the number, "I'm Called Little Buttercup," recitation and song attraction by Little Buttercup, the part portrayed by Miss Sarah Wentzel '31.

Other selections included in the operetta are "A Maiden Fair to See," "Sorry Her Lot," "O'er the Bright Blue Sea," "Fair Moon," "The Merry Maiden and the Tar" and "Farewell, My Own."

"The Penn State Little Symphony Orchestra," a special group combined for the occasion, will provide the accompaniment and instrumental numbers for the coming show. Director Grant expects to fill the ranks of this orchestra within the next few days.

Examination of the book of "H. M. S. Pinafore" shows that the scene of the operetta is laid on the quarterdeck of the ship. The time of the first act is noon, while the second is that night. In the beginning, Captain Cocotain finds himself confronted with the fact that his daughter Josephine is in love with a young sailor of his crew, Ralph Rackstraw. As well, the pompous and egotistical Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., has serious intentions toward Josephine.

A second love affair appears in the relations of the captain with Little Buttercup, a woman who comes on board ship selling merchandise. Dick Deadeye is the comedian of the show.

DR. GEORGE C. VINCENT DISCUSSES 'LEADERSHIP'

Deplored the fact that leadership is not appreciated by the masses today, Dr. George C. Vincent, pastor of the Union Congregational church of Upper Merion, N. J., addressed the chapel audience Sunday morning in Schwab auditorium.

During his talk, Dr. Vincent enumerated various instances in which genuine leadership went unrecognized. Modern biographers tear down men who have been leaders and leave nothing for popular imagination, according to the speaker.

"Instead," he declared, "the public has made heroes of individuals who have done one single deed, while those who have performed many but who are of a retiring nature remain in obscurity."

As examples of this situation Dr. Vincent cited the cases of several modern figures, worshipped by the public as if they were Gods.

PIKE WILL DISCUSS MENTAL DISORDERS

Noted Psychiatrist To Deliver Second Talk of Course Tomorrow Night

Speaking on the "Conscious Mind and Its Disorders," Dr. Horace V. Pike will deliver the second lecture of his series in Old Chapel at 7 o'clock tomorrow night.

The course, which includes five talks in Old Chapel and a clinical inspection and lecture in the Danville State Hospital, is on the general topic of "Abnormal Psychology and Mental Hygiene." The discussions in Old Chapel began last Wednesday and will continue until May 8, while the Hospital inspection is planned for May 11.

Dr. Pike, who is clinical psychiatrist and director of clinical work at the Danville State Hospital, has given five lecture courses at regular College sessions, and has also lectured to the summer students on five occasions.

At present, in addition to his talks here, he is giving his lecture course at the Bloomsburg State Teachers college, Mansfield State Teachers college, Bucknell university, Susquehanna university and Lock Haven State Teachers college.

"The Unconscious as a Factor in the Production of Abnormal Mental Functioning" was the subject chosen by Dr. Pike for his opening address. During the discussion he established the fact that he was not altogether in sympathy with Freudian psychology.

"However," he said, "sex is often a contributing factor to mental disorders." The doctor pointed out several cases here to prove the point. "Freud's work is serious and good in certain fields," he continued, "but it is wrongly received by the public."

The basis of the unconscious was outlined during the talk. Desires which we develop in opposition to natural tendencies, repressed desires in making adjustments and former conscious impressions are the chief factors making up the unconscious mind, he explained.

NEWS BUREAU SELECTS CRESSWELL AS OFFICER

D. M. Cresswell, director of the College department of public information, was elected secretary-treasurer of the American Association of College News Bureaus at the fifteenth annual convention held at Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn., last week.

Mr. Cresswell read a paper on "Home Town News" at one of the sessions of the convention. The 1929 meeting of the organization will be at New York university.

DRUIDS, FRIARS TO SPONSOR COMBINED DANCE SATURDAY

Red and green, colors of the Druids and Friars societies, will be the predominant note in the delectating scheme for their annual combined dance being held in the Almy Saturday night.

INTRAMURAL COUNCIL ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Fred C. Schworer '30, was elected president of the Intra-mural council at the annual election officers held by representatives of the local fraternities at their last meeting.

Louis L. Reymor '30, was elected as vice-president and Joseph K. Gackebach '30, was appointed secretary-treasurer of the organization. The new executives are considering adoption of the rushing code which the interfraternity council put into effect last year.

PLAYERS TO OFFER MURDER MYSTERY

Experienced Cast Will Present 'At 9:45', Broadway Hit, Saturday Night

Murder is the central theme in "At 9:45," mystery melodrama of Broadway fame to be presented by the Penn State Players in Schwab auditorium at 7:15 o'clock Saturday night.

Action in the show takes place in New York city where Howard Clayton, son of a prominent judge, is mysteriously killed. In order to solve the crime Captain Dixon, head of the detective bureau, and Judge Robert Clayton, father of the murdered man, apprehend the accused persons and threaten to give them the "third degree."

Hoping to pin the crime on one of the murdered man's lady friends, the police captain sends a squad to a dance to secure three of the suspects. The department head attempts to prove that Miss Ruth Jordan, implicated in dealings with the man, was the murderer.

Discover Murderer Even the chauffeur at the Clayton home, Tom Daly, is open to suspicion because of being with the victim on the night of the crime. Margaret Clancy, maid at the home, is also subject to observation by the police.

The two detectives, Doyle and Mack, are continually unearthing clues which they think lead to the solution of the mystery. Finally, the discovery of the criminal comes as a complete surprise to both these individuals as well as the audience.

Miss Grace D. Tomlinson '29, playing the role of Ruth Jordan, shares the feminine lead with Miss Myrtle H. Webb '32, who enacts the part of Mary Doane. Another leading feminine role in the play is portrayed by Miss Lola Haid '31.

Charles B. Klay '30 heads the cast in the role of Captain Dixon, who attempts to ferret out the killer. Donald M. Buchmann '29 is cast in the role of the murdered man, while the part of the Judge is taken by Philip K. Roos '30.

NEWSPAPER GROUP TO CONVENE HERE

Publishers Will Discuss Formation Of Placement Department At Meeting May 11

Assembling at State College for the first time, the Penn State advisory committee of the Pennsylvania Publishers' association will meet here May 11, officials of the journalism department announced yesterday.

The committee is composed of M. Fred Fuller Shedd, editor-in-chief of the Philadelphia Bulletin, John V. Chidester, editor-in-chief of the Pittsburgh Press, Col. Ernest C. Smith, publisher of the Wilkes-Barre Times-Leader, A. E. McCollough, managing editor of the Lancaster News-Journal, D. N. Slep, publisher of the Altoona Times, D. J. Lynett, publisher of the Scranton Times, D. R. Gardner, publisher of the Independent Republican, Montrose, Pa.; A. W. Fell, former manager of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' association; and E. A. Sweeney of the Greensburg Daily Tribune.

Ex-officio members are Col. Clarence J. Smith, publisher of the Allentown Morning Call and W. N. Hatley, manager of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' association. President Ralph D. Hetzel, Dean Charles W. Stoddard of the Liberal Arts school and Franklin L. Bannek, assistant professor of journalism, also serve on the committee.

NOMINEES TO PLACE NAMES BY SATURDAY

All candidates for class officers, La Vie editor and business manager, and student council positions are to mail or hand their nomination to Edward Lyon Jr. '29, at the Beta Theta Pi house before midnight Saturday.

NITTANY ORATORS WILL ENCOUNTER HOLY CROSS TRIO

To Debate New England Group In Bellefonte Court House At 8 O'clock Thursday

RICHARDS, KELLER, HOOD COMPOSE VETERAN TEAM

Penn State Speakers Prepare For Final Contest With Dickinson Friday

Modifying their discussion to the merits of trial by jury in criminal cases, the veteran forensic trio composed of Jack R. Richards '29, L. Neil Keller '31 and Kenneth Hood '30 will oppose the Holy Cross debaters in the Bellefonte Court house at 8 o'clock Thursday night.

The Penn State orators will maintain that trial by jury in criminal cases should be abolished. A decision will be given by three judges: The Rev. Stuart S. Gast, and Prof. George Reiter and Headmaster James R. Hughes of the Bellefonte academy have been selected to announce the winner.

This will be the last appearance of Richards representing Penn State in an intercollegiate debate. In his sophomore year, Richards won second place in the extemporaneous speaking contest, and since that time has been active as a public speaker. He engaged in the debates with Oxford, (Continued on last page)

WOMEN LEADERS ATTEND CONCLAVE

Executives Represent College At W. S. G. A. Convention In Norman, Okla.

Problems relative to woman's position in campus life face the delegates to the national convention of the Women's Self-government association in session at the University of Oklahoma, Norman, Okla., from today until Saturday.

Miss Helen Boyle '29, president of the W. S. G. A., and Miss Helen Faust '30, president-elect of the organization, are Penn State's representatives to the convention. Both women left Saturday to attend the session.

More than three hundred women students from universities, colleges and denominational schools located in approximately thirty states are expected to be present. They will represent the 138 institutions associated with the national organization.

To discuss Women's Problems Speakers from both faculty and student groups will address the assembly during the five-day meeting. Fifteen deans of women from various co-educational schools are listed on the program.

Problems of co-educational life and of campus conduct with special emphasis on student government, together with other activities of the association will be discussed. Another purpose of this year's meeting is to formulate a program to promote higher standards of scholarship through student agencies.

Business meetings of the convention will be divided into three groups, one (Continued on last page)

COMMITTEE ANNOUNCES SELECTION OF BLAZER

Blue blazers trimmed with red have been selected as the official insignia of the junior class according to an announcement by Hamilton M. Redman, chairman of the blazer committee.

The blazer will be on view at Montgomery's for the remainder of this week. Measurements for them will be taken from 7 until 9 o'clock tonight, tomorrow night and Thursday night.

STUDENT ACCEPTS POST AT LINGNAN

Lester M. Zook '29 Will Teach Animal Husbandry Course In Chinese Mission

Lester M. Zook '29, a student in dairy husbandry, last week accepted an appointment as instructor at Lingnan university, Penn State's mission in China, and announces that he will sail in July.

Zook was nominated to the position by the American board of directors of the university, upon the recommendation of Dean Ralph L. Watts of the School of Agriculture, himself a trustee of the institution. The appointee has contracted to teach animal husbandry for a term of three years.

With the appointment of Zook three Penn State men are now intimately connected with the affairs of the Chinese university. Dean Watts is a member of the board of trustees, while G. G. "Daddy" Groff and Zook are members of the teaching staff.

Will Meet Groff "Daddy" Groff, a graduate of Penn State in the class of 1907, has just been reappointed for another period of service at the institution, according to a statement issued yesterday by Dean Watts.

The name of Groff has been known to all Penn State students for more than twenty years in his capacity as the college representative. He is now at the University of Southern California pursuing graduate work on the flora of Southern China.

Groff, it is expected, will agree to return to his work in China. Zook will then have the opportunity of associating with him.

Zook, along with a group of Americans, the number of whom he has been unable to ascertain, will cross the continent and sail for China from San Francisco in July.

The past record of the young man shows that he obtained his first two years of college training at Haverford. He ranked so high scholastically that he was offered a scholarship to remain here, but preferred, however, to study agriculture at Penn State.

Dual Representative In his two years at Penn State he has attained high scholastic ranking. Last semester he stood second in the School of Agriculture. He is a member of Gamma Sigma Delta, national honorary agricultural fraternity.

Zook goes to China not only as representative of Penn State but also president of that institution, is also a trustee of Lingnan.

Commenting upon Zook's appointment, Dean Watts declared that he believed the young man would fill the office capably.

"We are certainly glad to have Zook representing us at Lingnan," the dean stated. "What I particularly admire about the young man is the spirit in which he accepted. He thought little of adventure, but accepted with the idea of serving."

FACULTY PREPARES NEW PETITION FOR HONORARY SOCIETY

Association Desires Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, National Scholastic Group

WILL SEND PAMPHLETS TO DISTRICT MEMBERS

Booklets Illustrate Character, Organization in School Of Liberal Arts

New petitions for membership are being prepared by the Penn State faculty association of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity, to be presented to the national organization at its convention in 1931.

Application for admittance was previously made last fall but because of certain difficulties the move did not succeed. The new pamphlets will be sent to the district headquarters, as well as the various chapters, in this district.

The local organization consists of thirty-nine faculty members, with Dr. Carl W. Hasek, professor of economics, heading the group. It has been organized since 1916 and is represented in the College in the attempt to charter a chapter here.

Division Aids Penn State Since the Phi Beta Kappa convention last fall this district of the national system has been divided into two groups. Previously it had consisted of Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and the New England states, but the latter group was made into a separate district at the last convention.

Before the formation of a new division this section had forty-four chapters as members, being the largest group in the country. The Middle Atlantic district, which this is called, has at present twenty-four chapters and is still the largest.

Dr. Hasek stated that he believes the move will aid Penn State since the district had previously been so unwieldy that it had been impossible to get a quorum vote on the question. He pointed out that in order to have a new chapter admitted two-thirds of the societies must vote in favor of the petition.

Preparing Pamphlets

Prof. A. Howitz Espenshade, head of the department of English composition, represented the organization at the convention which was held last September at Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware, Ohio. He said that sentiment there favored us, but it was thought inadvisable to force the matter to a vote at the time.

Pamphlets showing the character and organization of the School of Liberal Arts, on which basis chapters are admitted, are being prepared by the faculty association. These, in addition to the signed petitions, will be presented to the national Senate of Phi Beta Kappa.

Colleges in Pennsylvania that are represented in the society include University of Pennsylvania, Lafayette, Lehigh, Dickinson, Haverford, Franklin and Marshall, Gettysburg and Allegheny. Other members of the district are Cornell, New York university, Colgate, Princeton, Syracuse and Rutgers.

LECTURE OFFICIAL CHANGES COURSE

Committee Rearranges Liberal Arts Discussions to Accommodate Final Three Speakers

Changes in the annual Liberal Arts lecture course schedule have been announced by Prof. Harold F. Graves, chairman of the lecture series committee, in order to accommodate the final three speakers on this year's program.

Dear Edward W. Steidle, head of the School of Mines and Metallurgy, will be the next speaker. He will talk next Tuesday on "The Efficiency of Rock-Dusting in Bituminous Coal Mining." The dean has made a study of this problem and will announce some of the results of his research.

The fifth lecture of the group will be given by Prof. John B. Brauer, head of the landscape architecture department, on April 30. The topic for his address will be "Gardens of Europe" with special emphasis on the work of L'Enfant.

Concluding the series, Dean L. M. Wright of Muhlenberg college will talk on "The Social Fraternity on the American College Campus." Dean Wright, head of the School of Education at the Allentown institution, will speak on May 11.

Gillilan Calls for Waffles, Finds New Material for Broadway's Amusement

"That State College contains enough humorous material to keep even a Broadway audience laughing for an hour, was the belief expressed by Strickland Gillilan, noted humorist, after spending only a short time in town.

Mr. Gillilan was in State College Friday and Saturday. He presented the last number of the "Y" entertainment course, discussing the subject "Among Us Dumbbells."

"While in a usual shop around for my meals," he stated in an interview. "That is, I eat part of my meal at one restaurant and part somewhere else, at times visiting as high as four places before my meal is complete.

"About noon today I became hungry so many people do. I went in one restaurant. Couldn't accomplish anything there, though, for the college boys attracted all the waitresses away from me.

"At another place I had better luck. But after consuming my ham and eggs I decided that I didn't like the apple pie the proprietress didn't have. Accordingly, I ate my pie at another restaurant."

The humorist's appetite still was not satisfied. He asked his waitress whether any place in State College "built waffles."

"We used to," she replied to his query. "We made them once, and the roof leaked. Daddy decided we better not make 'em again!"

Such incidents, picked up here and there all over the world, comprise the well of material from which he draws most of the jokes for his lectures and humorous writings, Mr. Gillilan revealed.
