COLLEGE PREPARES FOR HOMECOMING DAY CROWD FRIDAY

Alumni Will Celebrate Gathering With Specially Arranged Week-end Events

GOLF TOURNEY TO START OPENING DAY ACTIVITIES

Visitors May Inspect Campus And View Movies of 'Old Main's Last Stand'

Final preparations are being made for the annual Homecoming of alumni and former students to be held this week-end at the College. The program will open Friday with a golf tournament and close with chapel services Sunday morning.

Special arrangements have been made by the chairman of the various committees so that the week-end visitors will be kept busy during their stay here. Alumni officials expect one of the largest Homecoming day crowds in recent years to attend the Lafayette-Penn State football game Saturday afternoon.

Several new features are listed on this year's program for the enjoyment of the guests. Among the innovations are a campus tour including a visit to all new buildings on the campus, and a series of College movies showing 'Old Main's Last Stand'.

The campus tour will open the program Saturday morning. Various members of the administrative board and members of the Blue Key society will act as guides. The tourists will visit the new Main Engineering building, Mineral Industries building, and other new structures.

GLEE CLUB PLANS HOUSEPARTY SHOW

Professor Grant Prepares Acts For November 16—To Pick Varsity Quartet

The Penn State Glee Club is preparing a Houseparty Show to be presented in Schaub auditorium November 16, according to Prof. Richard W. Grant, head of the music department.

Thirty men have been added to the club as a result of trials held during the past week. The Varsity Male Quartet will be chosen by Director Grant some time during the week.

Professor Grant also announced that plans are being made for the Fourth Intercollegiate Glee Club competition. He stated yesterday that Penn State will have a difficult time securing the State trophy for the fourth consecutive year.

'Hopes For Good Year' The glee club will be 'cut' after a period of three weeks, Director Grant states. All those who have not demonstrated their fitness to continue as permanent members of the organization will then be released.

'A great wealth of material is available for the musical club this year,' Professor Grant disclosed, committee expects to present an all-around such fine talent on hand the star show.

Professor Grant went on to say that competition is particularly keen this year for places in the quartet. All members of the club will be eligible to compete for places on the College quartet.

Filling the vacancies caused by the resignation of Prof. William H. Weaver and Prof. George F. Mellen of the industrial engineering department last June, Prof. Sam Colgate and Mr. Robert A. Hussey assumed positions as members of the faculty at the beginning of this semester.

Professor Mellen is now head of the cost accounting department of the Imperial Paper and Color company in Glenn's Falls, New York. Professor Weaver is doing general industrial engineering in Lancaster.

N.Y.U. DEFEATS LION ELEVEN AS BOOTERS, HARRIERS WIN TILTS

COLLEGE BAND WINS PRAISE IN NEW YORK

Making its first appearance of the year on a foreign gridiron, the Penn State Blue band, under the direction of Mr. Wilfred O. Thompson, was recorded popular acclaim when it played during the Penn State-New York university football game in Yankee stadium Saturday.

The College organization presented a program of band music from station WJZ in New York City over the National Broadcasting system from 12 until 12:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Much favorable comment has been received upon the performance of the band during the radio presentation.

PLAYERS SELECT DATE FOR OPENER

College Dramatists Will Begin Season With 'The Royal Family' Dec. 14

Selecting the date for their first production, the Penn State Players will open with 'The Royal Family' in the Auditorium December 14. First call for candidates resulted in 243 men and women turning out, club officials state.

Retrials for the show will begin tonight under the direction of Prof. Arthur C. Cloetngh, Prof. David D. Mason, and Frank S. Neusbaum. Those who will be used in one of the first three productions will find their names posted on the bulletin board in Liberal Arts building sometime this week.

Professor Cloetngh will direct 'The Royal Family' and will announce the cast early next week. Among the plays that the coach directed last year were such successes as 'The Poor Nut' and 'The Queen's Husband.'

213 Report for Trials

'The Royal Family' is the story of a stage family, supposedly that of the life of the Barrymores, and is the work of George Kaufman and Edna Ferber. It was first presented at the Selwyn theatre, New York City in 1927.

'Never before have we had such a record turnout as this year,' said Professor Cloetngh. 'It was a pleasant surprise to find so many candidates present at the opening trial. Two hundred and forty-three is the largest list of candidates in the history of the organization.'

The other directors now are engaged in preparation of their production for the coming year. Professor Mason and Mr. Neusbaum also produced some striking successes last season and they believe that with the large number of candidates available a successful season is ahead.

Haverford Soccermen Bow Before Late Nittany Rally

RUGGED HARRIERS DOWN VIOLET, LEHIGH TEAMS

Gridmen Outplay Meehan Outfit But Lack Power Needed To Cross Goal

While Penn State's gridiron stalwart were suffering a heart-breaking 7-to-0 setback at the hands of a stubborn New York university eleven at Yankee Stadium Saturday, a fighting Lion soccer team downed Haverford 2-to-1 on New Haven practice field. Earlier in the day, a rugged pack of Nittany Lion outmaneuvered N. Y. U. and Lehigh harriers over the Van Cortlandt park course in New York city.

Taking advantage of penalties imposed on Penn State in the earlier minutes of the game, Violet gridmen scored a touchdown and maintained this lead throughout the battle by repeatedly repulsing Lion scoring attempts. With four of five Nittany harriers in the first five to finish, the Lions scored 21 points to 34 for N. Y. U. and 65 for Lehigh. A gallant comeback after trailing for the greater part of the fray enabled the soccermen to nose out the Haverford booters in two extra periods.

Failing to overcome an imposing seven point lead after outplaying its foe throughout the contest, a fighting Penn State football team bowed before New York university's gridiron machine by a 7-to-0 score in the Yankee stadium in New York city Saturday afternoon.

Smashing the Violet line again and again for gains, the Lion team repeatedly forced its way to within scoring distance of the New York goal only to falter and lose the pigskin on downs before the determined resistance of the Meehan-coached machine. The Nittany team registered lightening first downs while the New Yorkers stalled ten.

Earle Edwards, Penn State wingman, repeatedly stopped Violet offensive attempts. His playing was equally effective when the Blue and White team was in possession of the ball. Aggressive tactics by Merv Kaplan, Johnny Zocella, and Gil Shawley were also instrumental in Lion ground gaining activities as well as defensive plays. Plunging

COLLEGE RETAINS 2 RESEARCH MEN

Mines, Metallurgy Officials Secure Paul G. Shelley, Clark Barb As New Instructors

Coming here last year to work on the problems confronting oil, gas, and petroleum production, Paul G. Shelley and Clark F. Barb have been retained in the School of Mines and Metallurgy, the first as an instructor-research man, the latter as a full-time research worker.

Mr. Shelley is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, and was formerly engaged by the Midland Oil company in research work. Mr. Barb is a graduate of the Colorado School of Mines.

Robert T. Gallagher '27, is substituting for Philip B. Bulch as an instructor in mining. Gallagher had considerable coal and iron mining experience with the Bethlehem Mines corporation in their plant at Johnstown.

Prof. Cheslogh A. Bonne, head of the department of geology, is developing a program which includes making a survey of the petroleum industry. In connection with this program, Dr. Arthur P. Hones will study the microscopic formations in which oil is found, and Dr. Elmer M. Swartz will be engaged in considering rock formations in which oil sands occur.
