DEAN R. L. SACKETT PROPOSES UNIFORM ELIGIBILITY RULES

College Should Sponsor Eastern Athletic Conference, Official States

PENN STATE REPLIES TO COMMERCIALISM CHARGE

President Hetzel Approves Aim Of Carnegie Foundation In Talking Movie

Penn State might well take the lead in forming an organization among the larger Eastern institutions similar to the Big Ten conference which would seek to establish uniform eligibility rules in athletics.

Concluding Penn State's reply to the accusation of subsidizing athletics contained in newspaper reports of the Carnegie Foundation survey, Dean Sackett pointed out that few members of the Big Ten had been found guilty of "commercialism."

President Approves Program "It will bring to light conditions at various colleges," Dr. Hetzel said, "which will put them in a position to deal with a matter that has been exceedingly elusive. I hope that it will result in the united effort of all colleges to clear themselves of any questionable athletic practices."

Dean Sackett also replied to the charges of the Carnegie Foundation regarding the maintenance of athletic scholarships at Penn State. He stated that in January, 1925, a movement was started to abolish athletic scholarships here and ended in August, 1927, at which time it was publicly announced that no additional scholarships would be granted after October 1.

Early last year, Dean Sackett continued, "we received a preliminary report from the Foundation based on their 1928 investigation here. It did not contain the scholarship abolition clause we sought and obtained their permission to revise the report. Upon receipt of this revision, Dr. Savage of the Foundation wrote that they were happy to note the favorable changes which the College memorandum set forth."

ORATORS PREPARE FOR FIRST DEBATE

Forensic Team Points Toward Opening Contest Against New Zealand Trio

Approaching the opening of this year's debating season, the Penn State forensic squad is undergoing intensive work in preparation for the debate with the University of New Zealand, next Thursday night.

"The squad is progressing rapidly," announced Prof. John H. Frizzell, coach of the team, "and the results shown recently have been very encouraging."

The topic under discussion will be "Resolved That Trial by Jury be Abolished." Each team will be allowed forty-five minutes of constructive debate, divided as the team sees fit, and one rebuttal.

Opposing Teams Guy R. Fowles, William J. Mountjoy, and Walter J. Hall, the members of the invading team, are affiliated with Victoria college either as graduates or as instructors.

The University of New Zealand consists of four colleges situated in Auckland, Wellington, Christchurch, and Dunedin. Separated by distances of from 200 to 400 miles, the students of the four sister colleges see each other only at Easter, when an inter-college tournament is held.

Victoria has an enrollment of 800 students and is the newest of the four colleges. It was founded in 1859 and is situated at Wellington, overlooking the beautiful harbor of Port Nicholson. Like the other colleges of the university, it is supported both by private bequests and government grants.

CAMERAMEN FILM HARMONICA GROUP

News Service Takes Views of Plebs Band—Sound Apparatus Defect Prevents Game Pictures

Members of the freshman harmonica band played several selections for the sound moving picture feature, filmed by the Pathé News service Saturday morning.

Led by Alfred N. Hoyt, director of the Philadelphia Harmonica Band, 125 freshmen played "The Old Gray Mare." The freshman class song directed by Prof. Richard W. Grant was the second selection. Following several close-ups of the band, a panoramic view of the complete group in action was photographed.

"Radio Kelley," the rattle education rattlesnake, was not filmed because it was feared that it would be too cold for him to perform. Although preparations had been made to film the Lafayette game, a defect in the power apparatus of the sound equipment prevented further photography. The news features will be released during the latter part of next week.

Y. M. C. A. REPORTS RECORD RETURNS IN FINANCIAL DRIVE

Campaign Leaders Hope to Gain Goal Before Drive Closes On November 1

PRESIDENT HETZEL ASKS SUPPORT OF MOVEMENT

College Officials Approve Plans For Payment of Pledges Next Semester

With record returns reported for the opening night of the campaign, Y. M. C. A. officials announced last night that the goal of $3500 will probably be reached before the drive closes November 1.

The campaign opened last night with a dinner at the University club for division leaders and captains J. Theodore Wolfe '30, president of the Y. M. C. A., presided while Archibald M. Holmes '30, finance chairman, instructed workers in details of the campaign. Adnan O. Morse and Samuel W. Fletcher, members of the Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A., also spoke to the assemblage.

President Ralston D. Hetzel in a letter to Secretary Seaman's stated, "I am glad of this opportunity to express how highly I esteem the work being carried forward by our Young Men's Christian Association. I am not sure that all of us realize how comprehensive is that organization's program of service on our campus."

College Approves Payment Plan "When we realize that this association is organized to aid all the students, to make our campus life a dividend and time, to help the individual student in his religious life, we should all want to have a part in the work of the Y and support it," he said.

"The plan, far—the payment of pledges while registering during the second semester has been approved by College authorities and now the thing is to see every man and give him an opportunity to pledge," Holmes declared.

"The student body should realize," said Harry W. Seaman, secretary of the Y, "that for every dollar given toward the drive, a dollar's worth of service will be returned."

Symphonic Choir Will Present Concert in Auditorium Friday Night

Vocal effects that have thrilled audiences of the world will be presented here when the Russian Symphonic Choir, under the direction of Basile Kitalech, opens the Artists' Course sponsored by the College in the Auditorium at 8:15 o'clock Friday night.

New York critics, unanimously approving of the choir, characterized it as a "human orchestra." "The chorus not only sings but breathes," commented the New York Times, "and by means of fine gradations of tone and accent often suggests a string orchestra."

The choir, dressed in the traditional colorful costumes of its country, will sing Russian folk-songs interpreting the spirit of their native land. "The Volga Boatmen Song" will be one of the best known examples of his characteristic music to be sung by the choir. Arrangements of popular light classics and outstanding church music will be additional features of the program.

Ticket Sale Continues

"The Russian Symphonic Choir is a splendid beginning for the finest musical course ever brought to Penn State," declared Prof. Richard W. Grant, head of the music department, in commenting on the program. "I was thrilled by its tremendous soul effects," he continued, explaining his reactions when he first heard the choir during a trip to Paris.

Discussing the sale of tickets for the course, Professor Grant declared that the student response has been excellent. Many good seats, however, are still available, according to the music director. Tickets for the concert will be on sale at the old Beta Theta Pi house until Friday night. In addition, tickets will be sold at the Conover Room from 7 to 8:30 o'clock on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights.

COLLEGE DELAYS POND LABORATORY DEDICATION

Dedication ceremonies for the new Pond laboratory have been indefinitely postponed, according to Dean Frank C. Whitmore, of the School of Chemistry, and Physics.

The building was originally scheduled for completion the latter part of August, but delay in receiving the sills from Akron, Ohio, caused a change of plans.

The sills arrived last week, but when workmen were about to install them it was found that they had been made several inches too long, and it was necessary to return the entire lot to Akron.

DELEGATES CONFER ON POOL PROJECT

1922 Graduates To Ask Aid of Other Classes—Choose Alumni Leaders

Another step toward the realization of a swimming pool for Penn State and a memorial for the class of 1922 was taken Saturday night when representatives of the class met at the home of James F. Kern, of the agriculture extension department, for an informal discussion of the project.

Additional and more detailed information as to the cost of a pool, how the project might be rapidly developed, and the extent of cooperation that could be expected from the College, must be supplied to classmates before the idea of an elaborate memorial could be resold to classmates, the group decided.

Otto Grupp '22, who was captain of the soccer team in his senior year, was named to stir up interest in the swimming pool among alumni in the vicinity of Philadelphia. D. C. Heitsch '22, instructor in agriculture engineering at V. P. I., will also be active in reviving enthusiasm among the alumni with whom he comes in contact.

To Ask Aid of Other Classes

The idea of erecting a swimming pool became an issue in June, 1922. About 150 of the 550 graduates pledged an average of $100 each for a class memorial. At that time it was supposed that the College would supply space in the proposed Recreation Hall, and that the class funds would be used to install a pool.

Leading alumni promoters believe that classes who have not planned memorials may be interested in contributing funds to the natatorium. By pooling the financial outlay of several classes, a sum in excess of the original amount will be raised for original remembrance of a group of graduates.

Last year three letters were sent to the 1922 class mailing list in an effort to revive interest in the issue. "The time elapsing since the pledges were made has caused a slump of enthusiasm which necessitates a complete re-sale of the issue to alumni," Mr. Kern said.

"YUTZ" DIEDRICH "COOP" FRENCH

With the ball on his own 11-yard stripe, Woodfin, Leopard fullback, looked the oval to French who tossed it to Diedrich on the Lion 10-yard line. Flashing past the surprised Matron ends who had closed in on French, Diedrich sped down the field behind the perfect interference of his teammates, penetrated the entire Lafayette defense, and crossed the goal line with the winning score. The waste end of the game had sounded while the ball was soaring through the air after Woodfin's kick. The score was allowed as rules state that the play in progress when time is up must be completed before the game ends.

Nittany Halfback Races 60 Yards To Score In Final Minute

FIELD GOAL PUTS Foe AHEAD IN FIRST PERIOD

French Begins Sensational Play With Lateral Pass After Leopard Back Kicks

Racing sixty yards for a touchdown after the referee's whistle ending the game had sent hopes for a Lion win crashing to the ground, Yutz Diedrich, sensational Nittany halfback, brought the Penn State gridmen a hard-fought 6-to-3 victory over Heib McCracken's Lafayette football warriors on New Beaver field Saturday afternoon.

Dodging and squirming his way through the entire Matron defense for Penn State's only score, the fleet halfback blazed his way into Penn State football annals by defeating the most powerful team which has faced the Lions on New Beaver field this year. The sensational run was made in the last play of the game after the Lions had trailed the big Matron team 2-to-0 during practically the entire encounter.

With the ball on his own 11-yard stripe, Woodfin, Leopard fullback, looked the oval to French who tossed it to Diedrich on the Lion 10-yard line. Flashing past the surprised Matron ends who had closed in on French, Diedrich sped down the field behind the perfect interference of his teammates, penetrated the entire Lafayette defense, and crossed the goal line with the winning score. The waste end of the game had sounded while the ball was soaring through the air after Woodfin's kick. The score was allowed as rules state that the play in progress when time is up must be completed before the game ends.

Maroon Score in First Quarter Woodfin, fullback, and Sullivan, speedy halfback, bore the brunt of the powerful Leopard drives throughout the encounter. The bulky fullback plunged through the Blue and White line with telling effect while Sullivan rounded the ends for frequent gains. Captain Bill Sierwood braced the Matron line on both offensive and defensive plays. Mickey Kaplan, Nittany wingman, was the mainstay of the Penn State line.

The three-point Matron margin was gained in the first period after but four minutes of play had elapsed.
