

Stone Masons Vie With Bricklayers On New Buildings

Competing with the brick layers working on the Mineral Industries building, the new Old Main force has laid stones to a height of four feet, while the bricks of the Mineral Industries building have risen to the second floor.

The Liberal Arts annex, however, is not in the swim since the foundations have just been completed and the steel and stone work has not begun. In comparison with the other two buildings the annex looks like a big quarry.

Great rivalry exists between the crews on the several buildings. During the lunch hour the main building crowd may be seen visiting the other buildings and deciding the quality of work and speed with which its opponents are progressing.

The Mineral Industries workers are confident and do not take the situation quite so seriously since they are now in the lead. The "Old Mainers" however, have some of the sashes erected and already are laying the cement for the second story floors.

TO WATCH GAMES BY RADIO

Football and baseball games may soon be witnessed by people sitting in their own parlors, was the prediction made by Harold A. LaFont, radio commissioner, in a recent radio address.

"It is my belief," Mr. LaFont said, "that the day is near when you may witness over your radio not only moving pictures, scenes, and spectacles, but even a football game."

N. CAROLINA STATE OBJECTS TO FALSE COLLEGE MOVIES

Because motion pictures dealing with college life tend to give a false impression of American educational institutions, a report listing objectionable features has been submitted to Will Hays, movie czar, by a literary society at North Carolina State college.

Among the points stressed are the false picture of athletics, the misleading episodes of "whoopee" parties, and the absence of any study. The students themselves, this report continues, are falsely shown to have an excessive interest in members of the opposite sex, while college leaders are never of the type depicted in movies.

SMITHS PREVAIL AS CENTERS

For the eighth consecutive year the name Smith appears in the center position on the lineup of the University of Missouri football team. Three brothers living at Sapulpa, Oklahoma, have successively occupied the post, and a fourth will probably extend the record to nine years, since he is a junior.

Think of the best drama you have ever seen, then of the best musical comedy, then of the best revue — think of your funniest comedian, the most tuneful songs you have ever whistled, the snappiest dances you have ever seen, the most colorful costumes you have ever beheld — put them all together and you have "Gold Diggers of Broadway."

"Gold Diggers of Broadway" gives you, in the one show, Avery Hopwood's play, produced by David Belasco; plus a chorus of 100 Hollywood beauties, plus the most stunning costumes imported this year from Paris, plus six irresistible songs that you'll have to whistle regardless of your dignity, plus the most priceless comedy you have ever laughed at, plus the gorgeous buffoonery of Winnie Lightner, the charm of Nancy Welford, the dancing abandon of Ann Pennington, and the crooning of Nick Lucas.

The entire production in 100% natural color by the Technicolor process, blended in the most exquisite taste as only Edmond Dulac or Maxfield Parrish might have blended them.
