WRESTLERS BEGIN NATIONAL TOURNEY TODAY

94 MATMEN SEEK COLLEGE CROWNS; 32 TEAMS ENTER

5 Champions Open Defense of Titles at 2 O'clock in Recreation Hall

4 LIONS LISTED AMONG CHAMPIONSHIP ENTRIES

Oklahoma Aggies and Rochester Institute Place Complete Teams in Field

The cream of the Nation's wrestlers, poised for the supreme test of their collegiate careers, will begin the grueling battle for mat crowns in Penn State's first nation-wide sporting event at 2 o'clock this afternoon in Recreation Hall.

Ninety-four entries representing thirty-two institutions will compete in the tourney. Five of the eight individual champions from last year also will defend their titles in this meet.

Both Oklahoma A. and M., the defending champion, and Rochester Mechanical Institute, N. Y., have entered complete teams in the tournament. Penn State will be represented in the contest by four men.

Following the preliminaries this afternoon, the second group of opening bouts will begin at 7 o'clock tonight. The semi-finals are scheduled to start at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon with the finals at 7 o'clock tomorrow night.

5 Champions To Fight

It is expected that the Blue Band will furnish the music at both night sessions. Carl Duck '30, tourney manager, will extend the college's welcome prior to the opening of the meet, and Dr. R. G. Clapp of Nebraska, chairman of the wrestling rules committee may speak before the finals.

Joe Sapora of the University of Illinois is here to defend his crown in the bantamweight class, while Lawrence Blantooth of the University of Oklahoma will attempt to retain his 125-pound title.

Three other 1929 champions, all from Oklahoma A. and M. also entered Earl McCready, heavyweight title-holder for the past two years, will attempt to close his career by winning the third crown. Jack VanBebber and Conrad Caldwell, defending their 1929 titles, will move up a weight and fight in the 165 and 175-pound divisions respectively.

The University of Michigan, runner-up in last year's tourney, has entered a team of four men this year in an attempt to hold the honors. The

THESPIANS SELECT PRODUCTION CAST

Holderman, Little, Sapper, and Kelley To Portray 4 Leading Roles in Offering Next Saturday

Selection of the men to fill the four chief roles in "Le Cafe Noir," the Thespians' second annual Campus Revue to be presented in Schwab auditorium at 7 o'clock next Saturday night, was announced yesterday by Hummel Fishburn, director.

Kenneth L. Holderman '31 will portray Boscoe, and George H. Little '31 will emulate the sleepy Opus. Boscoe and Opus are the two negro proprietors of Le Cafe Noir, the mythical night club located somewhere near State College.

Fred Chester and Fred, the two writers at Le Cafe Noir who combine dancing ability with tray balancing, Director Fishburn found the necessary material in Herbert G. Snipper '30 and Eugene C. Kellow '31.

Sapper, who has had four years' dancing experience with the Thespians club, is conching the candidates for the choruses. He and Director Fishburn will select twelve men from this group as the vaudeville dancing chorus. During the show six of the chorus will be garbed as girls who are brought to the night club by the other six, all boys from "State Knowledge."

One of the novelties of the show will be a number entitled "The Deersong" to be sung by a quartet dressed in caricature. Several other songs are being prepared.

W. S. G. A. REVISES ELECTION SYSTEM

Establishes Senior Supervisor Board—Group To Conduct Nominations Monday

Placing the responsibility in the hands of a non-senate group, the W. S. G. A. governing body has established a supervisory system of women's elections by providing for a senate board, which will begin its duties at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon with the nominations in McAllister Hall Monday.

Assuming entire charge of balloting in nominations and final voting, the new board will relieve the senate of all direct contact with election activities. This plan also eliminates the participation of underclass women in balloting supervision.

Refer Complaints to Board

Following open nominations by the women's student body, members of the board will count the ballots and consider the merits of all high-ranking candidates. Descending the names of any women whom they consider ineligible, executive group will then present the candidates for each office who will be elected the following Monday.

Complaints in regard to the results or to the manner of conducting elections shall be referred to this board, whose decision will be considered final.

This year's senior board is composed of Olive E. Osterhout, chairman, Caroline S. Hallett, Mabel A. Thomas, Grace M. Woodrow and Evelyn S. Young as representatives of varied campus interests. In addition to these active members, Miss Charlotte E. Ray, dean of women, Miss Marie Handt, and the three senior senators will serve ex officio.

PENN STATE ENGINEER CHOOSES 1931 STAFFS

Names Heitrick Editor-in-Chief and Miller Business Manager

Charles K. Heitrick '31 was elected editor-in-chief of the Penn State Engineer, and Arthur C. Miller '31 became business manager of the journal, at a meeting of the present staff Wednesday night.

Ralph L. Hutchinson '31 will be the editor for next year, while the associate editors for 1931 are Lee K. Bender '31 and Mathias K. Volk '31. Rowland C. Gerson was named circulation manager, while William A. Frederick '31 and Albert J. Milecki '31 will be foreign advertising, manager and local advertising manager, respectively.

Junior editorial and business staffs were elected for the first time this year to further a plan for non-partisan elections. Ten sophomores were appointed to each staff.

395 STUDENTS ENROLL FOR 1929-30 AG SHORT COURSES

Short courses in the School of Agriculture have enrolled 395 students during the present academic year, a report compiled recently by Dean Ralph L. Watts, head of the school.

Interculture week brought the greatest number of students to the College when sixty-nine enrolled.

I. F. LEADERS DROP PLAN FOR INFORMAL

Possible College Objection Kills Post-Ball Dance Project Saturday Night

Hope for an informal Greek letter dance next Saturday following Interculture Ball was killed yesterday when the committee decided to drop the project because of possible college objections.

An affair in Recreation Hall to fill out the week-end had been considered because of the small number of houses dancing Saturday night. The proposal suggested an I. F. C. function open to all those attending Interculture Ball, with a town orchestra playing should it be impossible to retain McKinney's Cotton Pickers for a second night.

Presenting a petition to the Student Welfare committee was under discussion, according to Archibald M. Holmes '30, chairman of the Interculture Ball itself was an experiment and that difficulty might be encountered in securing the Hall were dropped by Holmes as reasons for dropping the plan.

Only one fraternity thus far has signified intentions of running a dance next Saturday night, registrations at the office of the dean of women show it is not expected that more than three houses in all will hold affairs on that night.

PRESS CLUB HEAD WILL SPEAK HERE

Norman Baxter To Talk at Banquet Of Pi Delta Epsilon Delegates Next Saturday Night

Norman Baxter, president of the National Press club, will be the principal speaker at the banquet held at the Centie Hills Country club April 4, as the climax of the Pi Delta Epsilon convention.

Mr. Baxter is managing editor of the Washington Post and a member of Pi Delta Epsilon. Dean Charles W. Stoddart, head of the Liberal Arts school, will act as toastmaster and introduce the speaker.

Grand president, Joseph C. Patten, and Henry G. Doyle, grand vice-president and dean of Columbian college, George Washington university, will represent the grand council of the fraternity at the convention, and will also speak at the banquet.

Following the occasion, eleven pledges of Pi Delta Epsilon will be initiated. Saturday morning a business meeting will be held, after which the Home Economics department will serve luncheon to the delegates in Women's building.

HORNE IS INJURED IN STRUBLE BOUT

Pennsylvania Boxing Captain in Critical Condition Since Intercollegiate

BULLETIN

Little hope for the recovery of Oliver Horne, Penn boxing captain, was held at 5:30 o'clock last night in special dispatch to the Collegian sent by Dr. Arthur B. Licht, University of Pennsylvania team physician.

The dispatch follows: "Horne's condition very much worse. Practically no chance for recovery."

Captain Oliver Horne, of the University of Pennsylvania boxing team, is in a critical condition at the University hospital because of a brain hemorrhage. It is believed he received the injury during his bout with Bill Struble, Penn State light heavyweight, in the semi-finals of the Intercollegiate Saturday afternoon.

The Penn captain underwent an operation late Monday afternoon when it was discovered that a blood clot had formed on his brain. Following the fight, Horne declared to boxing Association officials that he felt "very tired." Dr. Arthur Licht, Pennsylvania team physician, believing that the boxer had been overworked, ordered him to the hospital for a rest.

Loans Express Sympathy

His condition became worse and following a consultation, hospital officials ordered an operation. Although the serious danger and is faced with a fight for his life.

During his bout with Struble, Horne fought on even terms with his Nittany opponent until the second round when Bill sent a flurry of hard rights to his jaw. In the third round, the Penn leader took a terrific beating, going to the mat twice, once for the count of eight.

This was the second successive week that Horne took a bad beating in the Penn meet with Yale, the Saturday before the Intercollegiate, he was severely punished and at the conclusion of his bout declared that he had received the worst beating of his career.

Sport scribes believe that he had not fully recovered from the punishment when he entered the championship bout.

Struble, Coach Leo Houck, and the remainder of the Penn State team have expressed their deepest regret concerning the serious mishap, and are anxiously waiting favorable news concerning the game Penn leader's condition.

DEAN TO ADDRESS ENGINEERS

With "Real Property" as his topic, Arthur R. Wainock, dean of men, will address the semi-engineers during their regular lecture period in Chemistry amphitheatre at 10 o'clock this afternoon.

Insurgent Faction in 1932 Campus Clique Reconciled, Observers Say

That junior political history of 1929 almost repeated itself this year is indicated by the reported reconciliation of two warring factions in the 1932 Campus clique Wednesday night.

Paralleling the split in the 1931 Looust Lane clique last year, a group of fraternities was said to have broken away from the Campus party. The breach, it is rumored, was patched up when the remaining houses rejoined the insurgent organization.

Alfred E. Lewis and Jack H. Staley had figured prominently in discussions of the new group's nominees. The reunion adds Fred C. Brand Jr. to the list of the clique's aspirants, observers believe.

Sharply divided camps are rumored of the three 1932 factions conduct Twenty-two to twenty-five houses are reported in the Looust Lane clique, so far to ten for the Campus, and twenty-six to thirty for the third party.

The much-discussed merger of the 1931 Looust Lane and Campus cliques is hanging fire, political circles maintain. Although no definite decision was reached in the special meeting of the Looust Lane fraternities last week, it is generally believed that the two bodies will consolidate finally.

Information regarding possible nominees of the third party party remains strangely absent from political sessions. Leaders of the group claim that no individuals have been considered seriously for the senior presidential post as yet, all attention having been devoted to organization work.

Estimates of the strength of even of the three 1932 factions conduct Twenty-two to twenty-five houses are reported in the Looust Lane clique, so far to ten for the Campus, and twenty-six to thirty for the third party.

GARBER REPLACES CRAWFORD'S BAND FOR JUNIOR PROM

To Combine With Mal Hallett In Re-enacting Musical West Coast Duel

MUSICIANS MAKE THIRD COLLEGE VISIT MAY 2

Columbia Recording Orchestra Plays in Atlantic City, Miami, Hollywood

At the request of the Music Corporation of America, Jan Garber and his Columbia recording orchestra has been booted to replace Jack Crawford, originally scheduled to play with Mal Hallett's Coconut Grove band at Junior Prom in Recreation Hall May 2.

When they clash in a battle of melodies at the Prom, Garber and Hallett will re-enact the orchestral effect which won favor in Hollywood, where they staged a duel of rhythm for an exacting movie world this winter. Both bands are experienced in combining their playing styles.

The appearance of Garber's eleven-man unit here will mark his third performance at Penn State. He played opposite Jean Golikette at the Junior Prom in 1927, and furnished music for the junior spring formal in 1925.

Played at Convention Hall

Playing at the opening of Convention Hall, Atlantic City, last summer, Garber successfully entertained the crowd, who visited the "playground of the world" throughout the season. He previously provided rhythm for winter guests dancing at Coral Gables, Country club, Miami, Fla.

During the past year Garber's orchestra has broadcast regularly over the Columbia and National broadcasting companies' network. The unit will return East April 15 from an engagement at the Ambassador Hotel, Hollywood, Cal., where it has been playing during the winter season. The band has gained recognition in undergraduate circles for performances at numerous college functions.

Specialty skits and unique orchestration are included in Garber's programs, and his German band has gained popularity as a novelty number. It is probable that special entertainers will accompany the band at the Junior Prom.

DR. GILES TO ADDRESS CHAPELGOERS SUNDAY

New Jersey Pastor Will Make Sixth Annual Appearance Here

Dr. Warren W. Giles, of the First Reformed church, Orange, N. J., will address the chapel audience during his annual appearance in Schwab auditorium Sunday morning. The speaker has not announced his topic.

In addition to addressing chapel audiences here for six years, Dr. Giles delivered the baccalaureate sermon at the College in 1923. He is a graduate of Union Theological seminary, where he prepared for the ministry with Dr. John M. Thomas, former Penn State head, who is now president of Rutgers university.

TIBBETT TO OFFER CONCERT MONDAY

Leading Metropolitan Baritone Will Close Artist Series At 8:15 O'clock

Climaxing Penn State's first Artists' Course, Lawrence Tibbett, leading baritone of "the Metropolitan company," will offer the concluding program of the series in Schwab auditorium at 8:15 o'clock Monday night.

Mr. Tibbett will open the concert with several arias from Handel's oratorios including "Where'er You Walk." Two selections from Beethoven's opera by Gax, "In the Days of My Youth" and "If the Heart of a Man" will also be offered.

The baritone will next present a group of German songs by Schumann. As a variety in the program Stewart Wille his accompanist will play two pieces, "Rhapsody in G Minor" by Brahms, and "Spring Night" by Schumann-Liszt.

To Sing Popular Selections

Following this the Metropolitan artist will sing the well-known ballad, from "Pagliacci" by Leoncavallo. His fourth offering includes a selection by Bridge, "Love Went A-Rolling" and Rommily's "Fell My Man Down."

Concluding the concert Mr. Tibbett will sing two of Moussorgsky's popular selections, "After the Battle" and "Song of the Flea."

Mr. Tibbett is considered by the critics as one of the greatest living baritones, and has the added distinction of being described as Metropolitan's best actor. He has devoted himself chiefly to operettas, in addition to appearing on the concert stage.

The singer is appearing in the talking picture "Rogue Song" now playing at New York and Philadelphia. According to the Public College he is the first grand opera star to make a talking motion picture.

Press reviews adjudged the baritone one of the most versatile of opera artists. In "The King's Henchman" he played the part of the king, while in "Pagliacci" the artist enacted the part of the clown.

ORCHESTRA WILL OFFER FIFTH SUNDAY CONCERT

College Symphony Group To Present Mid-Winter Series Program

The College Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Hummel Fishburn, assistant professor of music, will offer the fifth concert of the annual mid-winter series in Schwab auditorium at 8 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

"Minuetto" a piece composed by Donald A. Shelly '32, first cellist of the orchestra, will be included in the selections presented by the symphony. The piece was written this year and is dedicated to Hummel Fishburn, and is being played from manuscript.

Miss Marian Kerr, teacher of piano, will offer a group of piano solos during the program. Robert M. Fisher '31 will present a selection of vocal solos and will be accompanied at the piano by Mr. Richard W. G. G. of the music department.

To Succeed Bezdek as Diamond Strategist In 1931 Season

Former All-Americans Get Indefinite Stays

Trustees Indorse Appointments To Physical Education Professorships

Bob Higgins, former Penn State captain and all-American end, last night was appointed head football coach for an indefinite period. Joe Bedenk, former captain and all-American guard, was named assistant coach.

It is understood that Bedenk will become head baseball coach at the close of the coming season. He will assist Bezdek with the diamond team this spring.

Assistant coach during the past two seasons, Higgins was picked to succeed Hugo Bezdek, who retired two months ago to devote his full time to the directorship of the new School of Physical Education and Athletics. Bezdek will close his coaching career with the baseball team this June.

Upon the recommendation of the Athletic Board of Control, last night the Board of Trustees sanctioned the appointment of Higgins as a full-time professor, and Bedenk as an assistant professor, under the new plan whereby athletic coaches and physical instructors are responsible to the Administration as other members of the faculty are.

Intramural Football Stressed

Selection of Higgins as head coach was the outcome of a thorough canvass of a large field, at one time said to number thirty candidates from the leading colleges and universities throughout the country.

As head coach Higgins will be responsible for the further development of intramural football. A determined effort is to be made to interest a larger number of students in the fall sport.

"We are particularly glad to announce the appointment of Mr. Higgins to the post of football coach," President Ralph Dorn Hetzel commented.

COUNCIL CONDUCTS INFIRMARY PROBE

Committee Will Make Final Report On Free Hospital Service At Next Meeting

Preparing for a final report to council at its next meeting, an investigation of the proposed free hospital service at Penn State is being conducted by a committee appointed by Dr. Bruce Baldwin '30, Council president, last week.

John L. Barnhart '30 has been named chairman of the committee. He will be assisted by Homer R. Mather '31 and Jerome T. Siles '31.

The committee will attempt to ascertain definite costs of hospital service under the new plan. They also will investigate the provisions of the ten-dollar fee proposed by Dr. Joseph P. Rutenow. A definite statement of what will be included, if the fee is approved, will be made.

The committee will report to Student Council at its next meeting. If the proposition is passed by the Council it will be placed before the student body in the general spring election. The hospital item will be included on every ballot along with the other items to be elected and student opinion will determine definitely whether the plan is to be adopted or not.

110 LEAVER, O. T. C. STAFF

Capt. Leslie C. Wheat and Capt. Maurice C. Biegelow, of the department of military science and tactics, will be retired as O. T. C. instructors and will receive active service pay. A September while Capt. Stuart Fisher will leave the college in June, notice from the War Department received.
