

ORCHESTRA PLANS PROGRAM MONDAY

Music Institute Symphony Artists Make First Appearance at Community Sing

Making its bow to the College, the Summer Session orchestra, under the direction of Prof. George J. Abbott, will offer a program at the weekly community sing in Schwab auditorium Monday night.

Four compositions will be played in a half-hour of orchestral music. They are "Blue and White," a march by Schmidt, "Adieu," an entire Acte by Fauré, "Seven Nights," a valse-suite by Gounod, and "Down South," an American sketch by Middleton. The organization will also accompany the community and special song numbers.

The orchestra is composed of thirty-five pieces, the largest symphonic organization thus far. The range of pieces is complete, according to Professor Abbott, with all of the symphonic instruments included.

Wednesday night will mark the unit's radio debut over station WPSC. As its closing effort it will join the band and choir in the Music Institute recital the last week of the session.

The personnel of the orchestra includes teachers and students of instrumental music, and supervisors of music in grade schools. There are, in addition, several members who are not enrolled with the Music Institute, but who are taking other studies on the campus.

ZONA GALE LAUDS NEWSPAPER WORK

went on, make a habit of making it again the same day to another prospective publisher.

"At one time, early in my career," she narrated, "I submitted a story to twelve different magazines and the manuscript was returned each time. It was accepted the thirteenth time, by one of the leading magazines."

She laughed as she confided the name of the periodical. "You mustn't repeat that, I always feel that it had accepted a story turned down by twelve others."

When questioned as to her impression of Penn State, Miss Gale remembered that she had believed the Wisconsin campus perhaps the most beautiful spot anywhere, but Penn State has an advantage with its background of mountains, she qualified her view. "The buildings and the campus are very beautiful," she believes.

On the campus of the University of Wisconsin, there are a number of lakes of varying sizes she recalled. These add materially to the attractiveness of the surroundings, and perhaps recompense for a lack of high ground.

Former Lion Star Continues Wins in Professional Ring

Lengthening his unbroken string of victories in the professional ring, Alie Wolff conquered Tony Tedesco with a clean-cut decision in one of the preliminaries to the Cannonieri-Bass World featherweight championship bout at Philadelphia this week.

Wolff showed rare form for a beginner, according to Philadelphia papers. He outclassed the Italian for the entire six rounds, almost knocking him out in the last two stanzas.

The former Nittany luminary has won most of his professional fights by knockouts. He is managed by Sammy Goldman, pilot of Cannonieri, the new featherweight titleholder.

While at College Wolff ran up a record of twenty-nine straight victories in his three years of varsity ring competition. He annexed the intercollegiate middleweight championship for three years and was twice elected to captain the Lion boxers.

Allie was an all-around athlete, for he won two letters for football and three for baseball. With his three awards for boxing, he earned a total of eight major insignias and three freshman numerals during his undergraduate days. He was considered one of the best college boxers that ever laced on gloves.

POLICE WILL EXAMINE 'COLLEGIATE' MACHINES

All automobiles of the type which carried a minimum of equipment and sensational pictures and clever quotations in lieu of an ordinary paint job will be rigidly inspected and will be barred from the borough if they do not meet with State vehicle regulations, Chief of Police A. E. Yougel announced yesterday.

Brakes in good working order is one of the necessities, the Chief said. Both head and tail lights must also be properly focussed and legal in respect to lens and position, he said.

Other requirements include an engine in good working order, windshield wiper, and unobstructed windshield as well as compliance with the license regulations of the State department.

In another statement, Mr. Yougel warned owners not to park in the front of theatres, nor at rear exits. It is a violation of a State fire law to park near emergency exits of public buildings, he said.

WILL ENFORCE BORO LAWS. Borough parking ordinances will be enforced in the future, an edict issued from the office of Chief of Police A. E. Yougel yesterday reveals. This applies especially to parking in front of and in the rear of the movies, the Chief said.

FOUND—Small, male, black and white dog. Owner can recover him at office of Chief of Police 1t.

SUPERINTENDENTS WILL CONVENE AUG. 5 TO 9

Make 'Radio as Educational Factor' Major Discussion Topic

With radio as an educational factor one of the major topics, leaders in education from all over the State will gather here from August 5 until 9 in the annual school superintendents conference.

Invitations have been sent to all county and district school superintendents and their assistants, supervising principals, members of the State department of public instruction, presidents of State Teachers' Colleges, and others. Several hundred leaders are expected to attend, special programs being arranged for them by officials.

Dr. William J. Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, and Dr. John A. Keith, Pennsylvania Superintendent of Public Instruction, will be the two principal speakers. B. H. Darrow, director of the Ohio School of the Air, and Margaret Harrison, of Columbia, will be the special lecturers on the radio topic.

PIKE TELLS 'WHY PEOPLE GO INSANE'

In addition he operates eight mental clinics in communities of the hospital district.

During 1929 more than 6000 students and teachers attended these lectures and about 200 individuals were interviewed at the clinics.

The excursion to Danville affords opportunity for first-hand study of the results of mental disease and defect that has remained unrecognized and untreated in the early stages.

With the assistance of the medical staff of the hospital, Dr. Pike will present a series of about thirty patients demonstrating practically the types of mental disorders, their symptoms and causes. At the conclusion of the demonstration there will be a complete inspection of the hospital wards where patients are admitted directly from their homes, or from jails.

The most modern scientific methods of treatment will be shown and the occupational and industrial shops will be seen at work directed toward their rehabilitation.

WHAT DO YOU THINK ?

WHICH type do men marry—the girl like Connie (Anita Page), innocent and trusting? The girl like Frankie (Dorothy Sebastian), experienced in the ways and wiles of men? Or the girl like Jerry (Joan Crawford), distrustful of all men, but dreaming of the one man? Three girls—Our Dancing Daughters reunited again—in a fascinating romance of modern youth and modern love?
